THEATER CROWD SEES KILLING

HOOVER HEARS MARCH KEEPS UP WORK REVIVAL

Favorable Reports from Many States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—President Hoover today was cheered by official reports indicating better business prospects and a continued upward trend in employment.

WILLIAM N. DOAK. [(C) Harris & Ewing.]

Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, one of a score of White House callers, advised the President that reports in his office indicated that the gradual business improvement shown in February had been continued through March and that the February upward trend in employment also has continued this month.

Later in the day the President's emergency committee on employment reported that various sections of the nation were reporting less men out of work. According to its report, employment conditions improved throughout Michigan, New England, and several states of the south during March.

Better than Sixty Days Ago.

Fred C. Croxton, committee representative for the territory bordering on the great lakes, including New York state, advised Col. Arthur Woods of the President's committee that employment conditions throughout his area were somewhat better than sixty days ago. He said improvement had been registered in Michigan due to a pickup in the auto trades.

Reports from the public works section of the emergency committee disclosed that an additional 264 projects, involving expenditure of $40,580,537 on public and semi-public works, were contracted for during the first twenty-eight days of March. That amount increased the total of such projects reported to the committee since Dec. 1 to 987 million dollars.

Illinois Public Works Contracts.

Contracts totaling $2,204,900 awarded in Illinois last week were divided as follows: Ottawa, gravel washing plant, $100,000; Peoria, 50 mile pipe line, $50,000; Cook county, three paving contracts totaling $150,000; Peoria county, two paving contracts totaling $264,495; Chicago, terminal, $650,000; Chicago Heights, high school unit, $700,000; Carbondale, postoffice building, $125,000; Rockford, paving, $73,-[illegible].

Other totals reported to the committee for the week were: Wisconsin, $893,981; Indiana, $790,415; Iowa, $273,-[illegible], and Michigan, $773,000.

Increasing revenues and a prospective deficit of more than 700 million dollars, an underground political feud within his own party over the next year presidential nomination and the chairmanship of the party, and the job of writing eight speeches within the next few weeks, were among the problems piled up on President Hoover's desk when he returned this morning.

1933 Budget and Candidates.

Col. J. Clawson Roup, budget director, who is now arranging the 1933 budget, was one of the first callers. Whether the President is planning extensive economies to cut down the growing deficit was not made known.

Vice President Charles E. Curtis, whose friends have been worried recently by reports that he would be suppressed as the President's selection for a running mate in 1932, spent several moments with Mr. Hoover and left apparently in better spirits. Lowe Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, mentioned on several occasions as a possibility for the vice presidency, announced that he would support Mr. Curtis if the Kansan wanted a second term.

Indications at the White House are that President Hoover will not discuss Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.] as chairman of the Republican national committee until some time this summer.

SUSPEND RELIEF WORK

Headquarters of the governor's commission on unemployment and relief at 105 South La Salle street will be closed tonight and the major part of the committee's relief work will be turned over to the regular social agencies.

WORLD WHEAT CRISIS LAID TO U.S. PROHIBITION

Expert Says Legal Beer Is Solution.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 30.—The American prohibition law was blamed as being at the root of the world's agricultural troubles at today's session of the international grain conference here. Engelbert Dollfuss, Austrian minister of agriculture, in an address before the delegates of 48 nations, declared:

"If the United States would drop prohibition so that the American farmers could raise hops to make beer, then the strain of wheat acreage would be relieved and the United States would drop out of the wheat exporting category to the relief of the entire world."

The conference today resolved itself into meetings of committees to consider the various aspects of the world's grain crisis. The subject matter has now been concentrated under three headings, namely: The formation of an international control body; preferential tariffs for Danubian exporters, and the creation of an international credit institution. The results of the meetings were kept secret and will be issued to the world in the form of a resolution when the conference ends.

Russia Busy Selling Grain.

More results appeared to have been accomplished today in informal hallway consultations between the representatives of the larger countries and observers cast some doubt upon the effectiveness of anything which might come out of the deliberations of the three commissions, constituted as they are. For instance, the first commission, which is discussing the formation of a world grain control body, is presided over by Francois Poncet, delegate from France, which exports no wheat and therefore has nothing to control.

In the hallways it was pointed out that it would be perhaps more effective to let the big grain exporting countries decide on the formation of a body to control exports, since they probably will decide it anyway in the long run.

All this gives the Russian delegation here an opportunity to drum up more grain business to fortify its five year plan, because opportunities for first hand contacts with grain buying countries, such as Italy, are excellent, and it looked today as if this conference on grain was as much an international grain fair as anything else.

Seeks Exclusive Contract.

Abraham Kissin, Russian delegate and member of the soviet college for foreign commerce, said he had taken the occasion, while in Italy, to renew contacts with Italian grain buying clients and anticipated many profitable deals. Italy now buys most of her grain from the soviets and it is understood the soviets are seeking an exclusive contract for furnishing her all her cereals.

Much talk is also being circulated regarding the formation of a new Italo-Russian bloc for stimulating trade.

The impression grew among many delegates today that the so-called grain conference is an exhibition of shadow boxing, with the real stuff going on behind the scenes in little groups of two and three; that is, the soviets are selling their grain, the non-European countries are getting together on a joint marketing plan, while the little Danubian countries are shouting for credits and preferential tariffs.

FOR U. S. REPEAL

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., March 30.—[Special.]—Following up the passage last week of the bill to repeal the state prohibition enforcement law, Senator Earl Searcy of the Sangamon district will renew his efforts to line up Illinois with Massachusetts in a demand upon congress to call a convention to consider repeal or revision of the eighteenth amendment.

The repealer bill is expected to reach Gov. Emmerson's desk in the next day or two. It is only 69 words long, not much of a writing job for the enrolling and engrossing clerk, and it is expected to be ready tomorrow for signatures of the presiding officers and clerks of the house and senate.

Veto Not Anticipated.

Gov. Emmerson is still a sphinx, but members of the official family contend that he will sign the bill or let it become a law without signature. The drys, who last week were maintaining the bill might be knocked off by a veto, have changed their tune.

Raiders Clamp Lid on "Worst Area" in City

Capt. Richard Gill of the Des Plaines street police district last night followed orders of the special grand jury investigating police corruption. He sent every available man out to raid all the known gambling, vice, and liquor resorts in his territory.

Before midnight more than two dozen places had been entered by the raiders and fifty persons arrested. Many of the owners of the speakeasies and other resorts, who have hitherto been under the political protection of Dago Lawrence Mangano, one of the public enemies and a Capone ally, had been forewarned and kept their doors closed.

Praise Work, Order New Drive.

The special grand jury called Capt. Gill yesterday and after complimenting him on what he had already done to clean up his district west of the river, described as "the worst in the city," is reported to have instructed him to go ahead with a vigorous drive no matter what his superiors in the police force commanded.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock also was before the grand jury, and was told of the instructions to Gill. It is understood that he was informed the jury does not intend to allow the police to wink at any law violations regardless of whom it might aid in getting votes.

Foreman Tells of Order.

"We made it known to Capt. Gill," said J. A. Farmar, the jury foreman, "that we did not care whether his men have search warrants, that law violations should not be tolerated."

Capt. Gill, before sending his men out on the detail, called them before him for a short address.

"Never mind the search warrants," he said. "You are not responsible for what happens. I take the full responsibility."

Reports from those watching the raiders on the job indicated that the police rank and file at Des Plaines street heartily welcomed the opportunity to close places which hitherto had been running under protection.

Claims Mangano Protection.

"Are we glad?" said one policeman. "We've been insulted in these places long enough. Every time we go in to knock one over they ask for a search warrant and if we haven't got one they thumb their noses at us and say: 'We'll tell Mangano about this and then see where you get off.'"

Several days ago, when Capt. Gill was before the grand jury, he is reported to have stated that his men were almost helpless in view of the general police order to do nothing without search warrants. The order specified that any policeman making a "useless arrest" would be suspended.

Edward J. Denemark, former civil service commissioner, also appeared before the jury.

IT'S A BOY! AND BORN 4,000 FEET UP IN THE AIR

THE PAS, Man., March 30.—(AP)—Master Miller came down here out of the sky today, possibly the first child born unexpectedly in an airplane in full flight.

The plane, which takes its place with elevators, taxicabs, steamboats, and trains which have figured in similar emergencies, started here from Mile 214. Mrs. Alex Miller was being rushed to a hospital by Flight Lieutenant A. L. McPhee of the Royal Canadian Air force.

Fifteen minutes after the takeoff her son made his appearance in the cabin monoplane at a height of 4,000 feet. Both mother and child were reported doing well.

IGNORES POLICE ORDER TO HALT; DROWNS SELF

Ignoring the order of Lincoln Park Policeman Philip Jeffers to halt, an unidentified man outdistanced him in a foot race last night and leaped into the lake at the foot of Division street. He was drowned. His body was recovered an hour later, revealing papers in his pockets bearing the name of "Lucas."

Efforts to recover the body resulted in the arrest of Joe Harnois, 5039 Princeton avenue. He charged police with undue delay, spoiling chances for resuscitation. Sergt. Bert Sent asserted Harnois hindered recovery. Harnois will appear in court today.

HOLLAND HIRES "RAINMAKER" TO CREATE SUNSHINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, March 30.—The government has engaged Holland's famous "rainmaker," Herr Veraat, to make this country rival the Riviera in sunshine. Veraat last year carried out successful experiments by sprinkling ice dust on the clouds from an airplane, producing rain and thus disintegrating the clouds. The government has now placed at his disposal a fleet of Fokker planes. Each morning Veraat will fly to a height of 15,000 feet and endeavor to disperse the clouds with large quantities of ice dust.

Richard Washburn Child's Former Wife Weds Again

New York, March 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Maude Parker Child, writer and divorced wife of Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy, was married today to Edmund William Pavenstedt. They sailed tonight for a two months' European honeymoon. Mrs. Pavenstedt, granddaughter of the late Commodore Foxhall Parker II., former commandant of the naval academy at Annapolis, writes under the name of Maude Parker.

Wrigley to Aid Cotton States; Plan Big Pool

A vast financial organization with millions of capital to relieve the cotton producers of the south from the distress caused by low prices of their commodity, is in process of formation by Chicago capitalists, headed by William Wrigley Jr., according to reports late last night. Mr. Wrigley and his associates conferred on plans for the organization in his Wrigley building offices until late last night, it was said, and details of the scheme are to be announced within a short time—possibly today.

Mr. Wrigley refused last night to discuss the purpose of the meeting, but from other sources it was reported that the formation of the cotton pool was under way. An announcement through his secretary last night asked that newspaper men be at his office at 9 o'clock this morning, when he would "give out a story of national importance."

Plan to Absorb Surplus.

Details of the scheme were not revealed, but the main idea is understood to be to accumulate large quantities of baled cotton and hold it for higher prices. Cotton is now selling at prices ruinous to the planters and is a drug on the world market. The price on the cotton exchange yesterday was 10.61 cents a pound, while a year ago it was 16.13 cents a pound.

The plan is also said to embrace a system of trading credits by which the vast surplus of cotton will be exchanged for commodities, of which the cotton growers stand in dire need. These include farm equipment of all kinds, groceries and clothing.

Bankers Reach Low Limit.

As the situation is now, southern bankers have reached the limit of the capacity to furnish capital to loan money on cotton at the present prices, and because of their immediate needs many of the planters are forced to sell at heavy losses. Under the plan of Mr. Wrigley and his associates the surplus would be taken up by the new organization and held for the benefit of the growers until prices reach a point where the cotton can be disposed of at a figure that will yield a fair return to the planters.

Jury Pondering Cabaret Girl's Fate Locked Up

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 30.—(AP)—The jury in the case of Jean Dayle, 21 year old cabaret entertainer, charged with the murder of Sam Frank, Memphis, Tenn., jewelry auctioneer, was put to bed at 11 p. m. without having reached a verdict. Deliberations will be resumed at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

Gangster Slain by Gunmen in Uptown Street

Showgoers homeward bound from the Riviera and Uptown theaters thronged about Leland and Racine avenues last night when two armed men walked slowly up behind a third man, drew pistols and fired five bullets into his body.

As the victim fell, dying, the men with the pistols fled south and leaped into a small maroon automobile, in which they escaped into Clifton avenue before the astonished passersby could make any move toward pursuit. A crowd of 2,000 gathered.

The slain man, who died on the sidewalk, was Max Tendler, 42 years old, 719 Montrose avenue, long a figure in the underworld of New York and Chicago. Police records show that he was shot nearly four years ago in a quarrel, that he shot another man in 1922, and that more recently he had been connected with a narcotic ring.

On Jan. 14 Tendler was arrested in the Met pole hotel, 23d street and Michigan avenue, with Marie Gibbons, 6208 Lowe avenue, and John Baldwin, a resident of the hotel. In their possession the police found narcotics valued at $2,000.

Facing U. S. Dope Charge.

Sergts. Dugan and Amundsen of the Pekin Inn police turned the prisoners over to federal authorities and their hearing on a charge of selling drugs was set for April 27.

At the Tendler home Sergt. Walter Miller and his squad found the slain man's widow, Bernadine, a daughter of Policewoman Anna L. Murphy. Mrs. Tendler said that her husband was a jewelry salesman and until recently had been connected with the wholesale firm of A. Quint, 5 South Wabash avenue, but that he was out of work. She admitted he was the man arrested in the narcotics case.

Police information indicates that Tendler had been a member of a kidnaping ring which had collected many thousands of dollars from gamblers and saloonkeepers.

Involved in Becker Case.

Tendler was once an informer for the New York police, according to reports, and was partly instrumental in the conviction of Lieut. Becker, Lefty Louis, and Gyp the Blood for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, New York gambler.

The early theory was that his death came as a result of the dope peddling affair. A witness caught the number of the license of the car in which the killers escaped and the police, investigating, said that it was issued to Harry Snyder, 719 Grace street. The police were investigating early this morning to learn if the car was stolen.

Slain as He Buys Papers.

Tendler had just left a cigar store at 4643 Broadway, in which his brother Herman is a salesman, and had stopped at the news stand in front of 1201 Leland avenue and purchased two papers when the killers approached. Neither spoke. As Max Katz, 62 years old, crippled news vendor, was making change for Tendler they drew their pistols and fired. Two of the bullets struck Tendler in the head.

As the killers fled they were seen by Max Levin, 15 years old, 4401 Magnolia avenue. He was the only one who reported seeing them enter the car.

The assassins were described as men of medium height, dark complexions, and wearing dark overcoats and light soft felt hats.

Mrs. Tendler, unaware that her husband was dead, defended his record when she was questioned. She asserted that he had only gone to the Metropole hotel to sell a watch.

EIGHTH ACCUSES LEO BROTHERS; STATE CLOSES

Defendant's Hiding in Store Told.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Testimony of Albert W. Kelfstrom, loop trunk buyer and the man who had the best opportunity to observe the fugitive slayer of Alfred J. Lingle, brought to a close yesterday afternoon the state's case in chief against Leo V. Brothers, who is on trial for this murder.

"Are you sure he is the man who was in your store?" asked Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks.

"I am," was the confident reply.

It was upon this positive note, half an hour later, after the cross-examination had failed to discredit the testimony, that Mr. Brooks announced:

"If the court please, the state closes its case."

Defense to Open Today.

The defense will open this morning, but at adjournment time the three lawyers defending the gangster were not prepared to say who would be their first witness. They were taken by surprise at the state's sudden move, they said, and asked for an early adjournment. The defense is expected to take several days, with the final act of this courtroom drama, the first actual gang murder trial, postponed until next week.

Kelfstrom's story had been awaited with keen interest by the defense and by the public which daily crowds Judge Joseph Sabath's courtroom. One of the most interested spectators yesterday was Tito Schipa, grand opera star. The group at the defense table was augmented by the presence of Dr. Orlando Scott, alienist, who observed proceedings closely and talked frequently with Brothers.

Brothers holds a good mask over his emotions and it was not easy to read his pale face as he drummed on the table with his fingers or fumbled with a brief case, or stroked his chin, during the examination of Kelfstrom.

Eighth Identification Witness.

This was the eighth witness to identify Brothers at the murder scene. Through Kelfstrom the defendant emerges again from the place where the others lost him in the crowds at State and Randolph streets and he appears hiding in a dark doorway of the Taylor Trunk company store, 28 East Randolph street. This store is little more than a block west of the murder scene in the Illinois Central subway at Michigan avenue and Randolph street.

Kelfstrom is still buyer of trunks for the Taylor company. He formerly worked for Carson Pirie Scott & Co. for nine years and before that for the J. V. Farwell company. He is a substantial looking citizen, who told his story on the stand with quiet certainty. Through him the structure of evidence which the state has been so painstakingly piling up against the St. Louis gangster was cemented together into a case which will take heroic measures by the defense to break down.

Where others had a fleeting opportunity to observe Brothers, Kelfstrom had at least ten minutes with him, and talked with him.

The Story of Kelfstrom.

It was at 1:35 o'clock on the afternoon of last June 9, the day of the murder, that all this occurred, and just about the time, according to all the other evidence, which would place the murderer in the vicinity of the trunk store.

Brothers was first observed, Kelfstrom said, standing in a dark inner doorway, the building entrance to the store, near the elevators. His pallor was what first attracted the salesman's attention and the peculiar fact of his standing there instead of coming into the store. Kelfstrom led the man into the store and the visitor took up a new position, this time behind a large pillar piled high with suitcases, which screened him from the street.

He bought a suitcase without examining it, gave the name of "Doherty," but refused to give his address. He said he would call for the suitcase, but he never did.

The Suitcase in Court.

The suitcase was brought into court yesterday. It still had the tag on it, marked with the writing of Kelfstrom, "Doherty—will call." It was a black case of the size women carry and cost $5.

While waiting for the sales clip Brothers had walked to a place where he could observe the street, Kelfstrom said, and then he asked for a washroom. This was down a dark passage, and Kelfstrom had to turn on a light for him. Kelfstrom left him there, and when he went to look for him a few minutes later the man had disappeared.

"Do you see that man in the courtroom?" asked Mr. Brooks.

"That man right there," said the witness, pointing to Brothers.

He told of an empty prescription powder paper which he found in the washroom after Brothers had left.

Under Cross-examination.

On cross-examination by Attorney Louis Piquett, Kelfstrom elaborated somewhat his impressions. He said he did not notice any markings on the face, or the color of the hair. He described the clothes as slate gray, and said Brothers wore a sailor straw hat.

"He was very, very pale," said Kelfstrom. "I never saw a man in our store before, looking that way. I never forgot his face."

He had next seen Brothers, he said, when he was taken to look at a suspect at the Congress hotel last December. He had previously been asked to look at Frank Foster and had declared Foster was not the man who had come into his store.

Two Other Witnesses.

The only other witnesses of the day were Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard, a professor at Northwestern university, and Dr. Malcolm Pfannsbecker, an X-ray expert. The state did not produce Miss Rose Huebsch, who had an apartment opposite that of Brothers in the Lake Crest apartments, 4827 Lake Park avenue, and who witnessed his arrest early in the morning of Dec. 22.

It was read into the record by agreement that Brothers lived at the Riviera hotel, 4900 Blackstone avenue, from January until October, 1930, where he was known as Louis Bader or "Buster," that he moved to the Stratton hotel, 6334 Drexel boulevard, until November, and then went to the Lake Crest apartments. He was registered as Bader at all these places.

The list of rewards offered in this murder was also read into the record. It was shown that on June 10 THE TRIBUNE offered $25,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the murder of Lingle. On the same day the Chicago Evening Post added $5,000 to the reward and on the following morning the Herald and Examiner announced an additional reward of $25,000 on the same basis.

Reads Newspaper Clippings.

Mr. Brooks continued to read from the newspaper clippings, as follows:

"The murder of Lingle was an assault by gangdom upon the entire newspaper world——," but was stopped here by the strenuous objections of Attorney Piquett, who said:

"You don't have to make any speech to the jury."

"I am only reading what you gave me to read, and doing it at the request of defense counsel," said Mr. Brooks.

"You needn't read any editorials from THE TRIBUNE," said Mr. Piquett.

Mr. Brooks then stopped the reading.

Campbell to Be Recalled.

Patrick Campbell, a minor witness for the state, is to be recalled to the stand for further cross-examination if he can be found, according to a statement from the bench by Judge Sabath at the opening of yesterday afternoon's session.

The court was informed by defense counsel that they had discovered that Campbell, who gave the occupation of truck driver and plumber, was under indictment for conspiracy to commit robbery, under the name of John Campbell. They asserted it was the same man.

When Patrick Campbell was cross-examined he was asked if he had ever been indicted, but an objection to this was sustained by the court. It is not clear just what new efforts would be made to impeach him if he were brought back. The defense attorneys wer busy looking up the law on this.

Freed on Own Recognizance.

The case against John Campbell was called in Judge Harry M. Fisher's court yesterday, but the defendant was not in court. His bond was ordered forfeited and a capias issued, but later it was found that he had been released on his own recognizance. He has several relatives on the police force, it is said. Three other men are in the case and the complainant is John Fortosis, 2510 West 79th street.

When the case was called yesterday Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Covelli informed Judge Fisher that a continuance until April 17 had been requested by Assistant State's Attorney James E. McShane, who was active in the Brothers case during its earlier stages. The continuance was granted.

"I personally do not know, but believe he is the same man," said Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, who is assisting Mr. Brooks in the conduct of the Brothers trial. "That has been known by both sides for some time."

Ruthy X-Ray Introduced.

Dr. Pfannsbecker testified yesterday morning that he had taken an X-ray of the head of Policeman Anthony L. Ruthy last March 16, and that it disclosed an old fracture of the skull on the left side two inches long. The negative was introduced as evidence by the state.

Ruthy is the traffic policeman who testified last Friday that he has been "sick in the head" and was seeing visions on the day of the Lingle murder and on the day he identified Foster as a fugitive. Medical testimony regarding his condition is expected to be presented by both sides.

Ballistics Expert a Witness

GODDARD TELLS OF GUN

Col. Goddard gave the jury and courtroom an interesting lecture on the comparatively new science of ballistics in the course of his testimony as to what he did with the gun that was found near the body of Lingle and the bullet that was taken from the head of Lingle.

He received the gun on June 9, he said, from a deputy coroner, and found in it one exploded cartridge and five unexploded ones. Capt. John Stege took him the bullet, which had been removed at the autopsy. He fired one of the five cartridges into cotton waste and compared the bullet he picked out of the waste with the death bullet. They had been fired, he testified, from the same gun, a .38 Smith & Wesson special.

Cross-Examined by Cantwell.

Q.—Is the science of ballistics 100 per cent perfect? A.—It is a very exact science.

Q.—Does the comparison of bullets work out 100 per cent? A.—Yes, if the bullets are favorable for examination.

At the whispered suggestion of Brothers, Cantwell showed Col. Goddard the death bullet.

Q.—Is that in such condition? A.—It is distinctly possible to make a correct test.

Q.—Is it deformed distinctly? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is one side obliterated? A.—Yes.

Here Col. Goddard offered to set up his microscope in court and let the jurors look at the small marks which determined the differences and likenesses.

The defense started to consent to this but finally decided against it.

Questioned About His Pay.

They asked Col. Goddard what pay he received as an expert witness. He replied that whatever was decided upon would go to the university which employs him, as he gets nothing but a fixed salary.

Mr. Cantwell examined next as to the theory behind ballistics.

Q.—Is it your theory that no two articles are alike in the microscopic world? A.—My observation leads to that conclusion.

Q.—Every bullet from a gun is different? A.—They are not the same down to the last microscopic condition.

The examination then went into the depths of the Nth degree, and infinity and relativity.

"I see that you are quoting from a cross-examination I had once before," said Col. Goddard, as he responded to questions easily.

He admitted that nothing is constant and that everything is subject to error, but maintained that ballistics as a method of comparison is as exact as any other expert work.

KELFSTROM'S TESTIMONY

The courtroom crowd, restless during the technical testimony of Col. Goddard, strained forward to her Kelfstrom when he took the stand. Kelfstrom, serious in demeanor, faced the jury squarely after taking one swift look around the courtroom, his gaze for a moment resting upon Brothers. He was examined by Prosecutor Brooks.

Q.—Directing your attention to the ninth day of June, 1930, where were you employed? A.—At the Taylor Trunk works, 28 East Randolph street.

Q.—Where is that with reference to Wabash and Randolph streets? A.—About forty or fifty feet west of the northwest corner.

Q.—Did anything unusual occur about 1:30 that afternoon? A.—Yes, sir.

An Unusual Occurernce.

Q.—Tell the jury about it. A.—Well, I was getting ready to go to lunch about 1:35 p. m., the last man to come back from lunch having just arrived. I washed my hands in the washroom, put on my hat, and stepped out the door into the hallway of the building. I saw a man standing there. He was very pale——

The witness was stopped at this point and asked to describe the arrangement of the store in relation to the hallway he spoke of.

Kelfstrom said that one entrance to the store was through a hallway at 30 East Randolph street, east of the regular entrance. The hallway led back to two elevators. At one side was a door opening on an alley which was kept open in summer to insure ventilation. The place was dark, Kelfstrom said.

"When I saw this man standing there, I thought he was a customer and I asked him if he had been waited on," said Kelfstrom. "He said he had not. I told him to step into the store, that I would wait upon him.

Man Stands Behind Post.

"There is a big post in the center of the store, on which about 70 suitcases are displayed. The man stood behind this post."

Q.—Could he be seen from the street in this position? A.—No.

Q.—What did the man do next? A.—He pointed at a lady's suitcase and asked how much it was. I told him it was $5. He said he would take it. I took down the case and asked him if he would take it or have it sent. He asked when the store closed, and I told him at 5:30 p. m. He said he would call back about 4 o'clock. I said, "All right, sir." I asked him his name. He told me "Doherty." I asked for his first name and he said, "That's enough." He handed me a $5 bill.

Q.—Did he have a hat on? A.—Yes, sir.

Disappears from Washroom.

Q.—Then what did you do? A.—I went to the cashier's cage and got a receipt. When I came back the man had walked about ten feet toward the door. When he saw me coming, he walked back. He asked if there was a washroom there. I showed him the washroom, which is small and cannot be found easily unless you know where it is. I put on the light in the washroom and he went in while I walked back into the store. A few minutes later I returned to the washroom and the man had disappeared.

For the eighth time since the trial started, Prosecutor Brooks put the question: "Do you see that man in court today?"

"Yes, sir," replied Kelfstrom. "There he is right behind the gray haired man" [Louis Piquett, defense attorney].

Q.—How long was he in the store that day? A.—About ten minutes.

Q.—Did he ever call for the suitcase? A.—No, sir.

The suitcase, with the tag marked "Doherty will call," was produced. It was later allowed in the evidence over the objections of defense counsel. The examination was renewed.

Q.—What did you find in the washroom? A.—I noticed a piece of paper which looked like the paper which holds powders in prescriptions. It had been opened.

Q.—Did you get a good look at the man in the store? A.—I never took my eyes off him all the time he was there.

PIQUETT CROSS-EXAMINES

Attorney Piquett cross-examined the trunk buyer. After preliminary questions concerning the length of Kelfstrom's employment by the trunk company, he asked:

Q.—How many other employés were in the store at the time? A.—About seven.

Q.—Do you know that a lady cashier was asked to identify this defendant and said she couldn't do so? [Objection by the state was sustained.]

Q.—What are the names of the two lady cashiers? A.—Miss Anne Carroll and Miss Agnes Griffith.

Wearing a Grayish Suit.

Q.—Notice any peculiarities, any moles on his face? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Do you see many men each day? A.—About twenty, I should say.

Q.—And you didn't see this man between June 9 and after Christmas when you saw him in the Congress hotel? What made you remember him? A.—I never saw a man in our store look the way he did. I'll never forget his face.

Q.—When you found that he had gone from the washroom, did you think that so unusual? A.—He looked unusual.

Attorney Piquett then asked Kelfstrom to write the name "Doherty" on a slip of paper. He compared it with the writing on the tag. No further questions were asked concerning the tag.

Quizzed on His Acquaintance.

Q.—Did you know Pat Roche? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know Col. McCormick or any of his family? A.—Who is he?

Q.—Publisher of THE TRIBUNE. A.—No; I don't know him.

Kelfstrom was asked to describe the meeting at the Congress hotel, where he identified Brothers as the man he had seen in the store. His story was similar to that of other witnesses. Through a slit in a cloth hung over a doorway he had looked at Brothers and another man who paraded under a strong light.

Q.—Was the man in the store out of breath when you first saw him? A.—No.

Q.—He wasn't excited? A.—He was very pale. That might mean excitement.

Q.—Is he pale now? A.—No.

Q.—You wouldn't say it was the same man, then? A.—Yes, I would.

Seven Out of Ten Office Workers Vote for Cermak in Poll by The Tribune

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Chicago's army of office workers—from errand boys to chief executives—registered overwhelmingly yesterday for Anton J. Cermak for mayor in THE TRIBUNE'S straw vote. Of each ten canvassed more than seven expressed a preference for the Democratic candidate, and the canvass was the most extensive ever made in a pre-election poll.

In presidential elections the white collar class is decidedly Republican, but in yesterday's poll the results were as follows:

Candidates—	Straws.	Per cent.
Cermak [Dem.]	7,275	71.99
Thompson [Rep.]	2,831	28.01
Totals	10,106	100.00

This poll of the white collar brigade is comparable with previous canvasses of this same class of citizens. In 1927 Dever, Democrat, polled 54.52 per cent of the 6,640 office building straws collected; Thompson, 41.2 per cent, and Robertson, 4.09 per cent. Thompson won in this city election by about 83,000.

In the 1923 mayoralty contest 6,443 straws were gathered from the offices. Dever, Democrat, obtained 41.49 per cent; Lueder, Republican, 54.23 per cent, and Cunnea, Socialist, 4.28 per cent. Dever won that contest in the city as a whole by 105,000.

From these comparisons it is apparent that Cermak stands better with the office workers than any other mayoralty candidate in recent years.

Show Cermak Gains.

The poll of the street corners since the campaign really got under way gathered in 15,834 straws, of which Cermak obtained 62.24 per cent. These differences in percentages are highly important in making an estimate of the votes of each candidate at the election next Tuesday, because each one per cent means 10,600 votes, if the aggregate polled on April 7 runs to 1,060,000, as expected now.

The poll for several days has indicated either a switch of Democrats back to Cermak or an increasing number of Republicans jumping from Thompson to the Democratic candidate. It is difficult to determine which without considerable calculating; but regardless of which is true, there appears to be a change in views among persons who desire to be with the winner.

The poll of the Democratic managers, announced last week, of certain classes of city workers showed that they are deserting Thompson at the last minute, according to the figures presented. THE TRIBUNE poll of the office buildings did not verify the Democratic straws. The City Hall Square building has city offices on three floors, and the board of education covers as many or more floors of the Steuben building. These two buildings, in THE TRIBUNE poll, showed a majority for Thompson. Others favored Cermak. The results in each building polled by THE TRIBUNE are as follows:

MERRIAM GIBES CITY HALL AND CROWD LAUGHS

Cermak Attacks Mayor's Propaganda.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Dr. Charles E. Merriam, professor of political science at the University of Chicago, who came within 18,000 votes of being elected mayor of Chicago in 1911, discussed the present administration yesterday in a manner novel in the present campaign.

DR. C. E. MERRIAM. [De Haven Photo.]

Addressing the regular Democratic organization at its weekly luncheon in the Hotel Sherman ballroom, he applied a gentle humor to the situation that held the city hall up to ridicule and had his audience laughing most of the time he was speaking.

See Swing to Cermak.

Comment on Merriam's appearance in support of A. J. Cermak included the fact that he was a Bull Moose leader and that recently he has been considered aligned with the Deneen group. His activity was considered indicative of the swing to Cermak of a substantial block of Republican support, but his speech was held significant more because of the confidence it voiced and aroused.

"You will remember," he said, "that in one campaign you were told that if you favored a 5 cent street car fare you should raise your hands. Now you are told to put up your hands without any mention of car fare.

"It was back in 1915 that you were told the crooks would be driven out of Chicago in thirty days. In 1919 they were to be driven out in sixty days. By 1927 the crooks were to be driven out in ninety days. And just the other day you were told that it couldn't be done. Yet we know it can be done by the right man.

The "Campaign Issue."

"Apparently the issue in the campaign is the sky line. The opposition candidate tells you that it is his sky line that he built it. He built the Wrigley building. He built the Palmolive building. And, if you believe him, he even built the Tribune Tower, possibly without the consent of the owners.

"This same candidate tells you that he straightened the river. We would have been better off if he had left the river crooked and kept the city hall straight."

A few minutes later, Clayton F. Smith, presiding at the luncheon, said that the real credit for the river straightening belongs to Col. A. A. Sprague, who, as commissioner of public works under Mayor Dever, brought the railroads and other interests into the agreement that made the improvement certain.

In concluding his talk, Dr. Merriam used a serious tone as he told how, during a visit to Europe, he went into a café in Prague and on one table off in a corner saw an American flag. He asked by whom it had been placed there. The reply was that it was "a man from Chicago," and a little later Cermak entered and went to the flag trimmed table.

"I think more of the American who carries his flag with him when he is away from home," he said, "than I do the one who waves it at home for selfish, political purposes."

Cermak Attacks Propaganda.

Although it was reported that Mayor Thompson had been persuaded by his friends to drop most of his oral appeals to racial and religious prejudices, those appeals are still being widely distributed in written form, and, in addressing the luncheon meeting briefly, Cermak referred to that fact.

"The city printing presses at the Bridewell, the mimeographs and photostats in the board of education offices and the health department are working overtime turning out roorbacks of all kinds to be used in this campaign," Cermak said.

"When I become mayor I shall see to it that the present city hall organization reimburses the city for the material and time used for these private purposes. There will be a day of reckoning for the leaders responsible for this sort of thing and some of them may not be able to leave town after election when Thompson sails away on the Doris."

Discusses Tax Troubles.

The largest Cermak gathering of the day was the night meeting in the Aragon ballrom at Lawrence avenue and Broadway. There the Democratic nominee continued to discuss the taxation issue.

"This issue," he said, "is: 'Shall taxes and the resultant unemployment be increased, or shall some effort be made to reduce taxes and furnish work for the thousands now idle?'

"On that issue those who believe in higher taxes and more unemployment will vote for the mayor. Those who want to reduce taxes and diminish unemployment will vote for me."

Answers City Hall Charges.

Then Cermak went ahead to show that the city hall charges that he was responsible for the revaluation of real estate had rebounded with the presentation of the facts showing that the present mayor made possible the election of Len Small as governor, that Small's state tax commission ordered the reassessment, and that the order was prompted by the conduct of tax matters by the board of assessors and board of review which at that time were under Thompson control.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis also spoke at the meeting.

The Thompson organization, despite a disappointing audience there one day last week, again held its noon meeting at the Great Northern theater, and for a second time failed to fill the house.

Mayor Refers to Capone.

One change was noted in Thompson's speech. This was in a reference to Al Capone.

"There are more untruths printed against Capone than against Thompson," he said. "Any time a newspaper don't know where to lay a crime they try to hang it on Capone.

"I'm not alibi-ing for Capone, but even he has the right to a square deal."

Thompson also compared himself with Theodore Roosevelt and said that they had "punched cows together about the same time out in Wyoming."

39. Walter J. Orlikoski.
41. James C. Moreland.
44. Ald. Albert E. Loescher preferred.
49. Ald. George M. Williston.
50. James R. Quinn

"No matter who may be elected mayor, it is of vital importance that the city council should be strengthened by having elected to it those candidates best qualified to represent the city because of their ability, independence, and integrity," said the league report. "It was solely these considerations that weighed with the league in making its indorsements."

DECIDE TODAY ON APPEAL TO HALT BALLOT PRINTING

Superior Judge Gentzel today will rule on a petition for an injunction to restrain the board of election commissioners from printing ballots without the names of the Socialist candidates. The names of the candidates of all except the two major parties were recently stricken from the ballot by the election board. Attorneys for the Socialist candidates said they sought the injunction because the election commissioners have threatened to appeal from a decision which Circuit Judge Taylor indicated he would make today in favor of the candidates on a mandamus petition pending before him to compel the restoration of the names to the ballot. In case of such appeal the case could not be decided before election.

More than 1,200 students stormed Mandel hall, University of Chicago, yesterday to apply for jobs as watchers at the April 7 election. Only 500 were wanted and first arrivals were accepted. The jobs were offered by the Voters' Nonpartisan association.

DRYS RAID FIVE PLACES, ARREST 8 IN CALUMET CITY

For the third time in a little more than a month Calumet City speakeasies were raided yesterday by special prohibition agents under W. E. Bennett. The raiders visited five places and arrested eight men. The places raided and the prisoners taken are:

Saloon and gambling house at 15 State street, Simon Mundo, Rex Halsey, and John A. Murphy; saloon, 12 154th street; saloon, known for many years as "Marty Strug's place," 718 State Line street, Thomas Clark; saloon, 655 Lincoln avenue, William Morgan; Villa Venice, 101 154th street, James White; gambling, liquor, and vice resort at 15 State street, Earl Kidd and Andrew Esser.

Early in February when the dry agents visited Calumet City, twenty-two places were raided. The prisoners taken yesterday were questioned at the Transportation building with a view of developing a Calumet City conspiracy case.

Notes of the Mayoralty Campaign

William R. Dawes will make his second radio talk tonight for Cermak, speaking over WBBM at 6:30 o'clock. Other Cermak speakers on the air will be Judge Allegretti on WCFL at 7:15; Leo Doyle on WIBO at 8; Ross C. Woodhull on WJJD at 8:15, and State Senator Maypole on WGES at 10:15.

The Thompson radio schedule for tonight calls for talks on WIBO at 6:15, on WJJD at 6:30, on WGES at 9:45, on WCFL at 7:45, and on WBBM at 8:15. The speakers' names were not announced yesterday.

W. B. Austin, former president of the Hamilton club, who is supporting Cermak, will preside at a Republican meeting at the Union League club at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He says 75 per cent of the members of the Hamilton club are with Cermak.

Banks Cregier, son of a former mayor, and Frank Harmon have arranged a midnight massmeeting for Cermak at the Garrick theater on Saturday night.

Speaking before the Young Men's Bible class of the Auburn Park Swedish Methodist church last night, Judge Lyle urged his hearers to vote next Tuesday and to take an all year round part in politics. He did not say how he thought they should vote.

Cermak is scheduled to speak before the Hyde Park Women's league in Harper hall at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon and also before a student-faculty conference in the same building a little later.

A "Crawford and Lawndale" independent business men's organization has been formed to support Cermak. The officers include Charles Vetter, Martin J. Siebrandt, Edward F. Toepper, Charles Lohrentz, and George F. Stengler.

LUMBERJACK'S PAY IN RUSSIA IS $1 PER DAY

All in Family Fell Trees in Northern Forests.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ARCHANGEL, Russia, March 30.—The north district region measures approximately 800 miles in width and 900 miles in depth, an area of 400,000 square miles. Thus obviously it would require an army of investigators many months to visit the various scattered settlements in the distant Pechora and Komi localities on the edge of the Arctic ocean.

But practically all the export timber from the Dvina and Pinega river zones is handled through the Archangel saw mills, which district I visited and where I probed conditions.

Throughout my tour of the timber cutting regions and saw mills I never encountered the daily output required by the five year plan.

Paid on Piece Work Basis.

Cutters in the forests and mill hand labor under the piece work plan and are paid according to the work accomplished, but as far as I could learn there was no minimum day's production demanded, the slower workers merely receiving less wages.

I examined the books of the saw mills and cutting camps. All figures were the same, even in Russian. I also looked over the wage slips of the various workers showing the amounts they received during their five day week.

I questioned many of them and none asserted that they were compelled to execute any given amount of work daily.

Fire Lazy Workers.

"When we find inept, lazy, and inefficient workers, we discharge them, or transfer them to some other duty," Superintendent of Labor Nicolas Romanoff—namesake of the czar—explained.

"We pay 7½ cents for every tree felled, 10 cents for cleaning and trimming off branches, and 5 cents for sawing it into fourteen-foot sections. (The figures in dollars and cents in this article are based on the gold value of the ruble, about 50 cents.)

"Laborers are paid according to the number of logs they get out of the forest and place on sledges. Tractor drivers are paid by the day."

Russian "Jacks" Beat Norsemen.

Norwegian workers confirmed that they were paid for piece work on the same scale, plus a certain extra living allowance because they are imported labor and regarded as expert lumbermen.

"Despite our obsolete tools, Russian crews of workers cut over six cubic yards of wood daily on the average, compared with three and a half cubic yards by the Norwegians," Romanoff asserted.

But the Norse lumberjacks explained that this was offset because they cut scientifically and thus greatly reduce the labor of loaders, who are able to haul logs along the road faster.

According to cash books and employes receipts, I found that the cutters averaged two and a half rubles daily (about $1.30). They received free lodging in bunkhouses, and their meals in the coöperative mess houses cost an average of 26 cents per day.

At one mess house for luncheon I had barley soup with a chunk of meat floating in it, meat balls, and stewed fruit. It cost about 14 cents. Coffee was 2 cents more. The meals were served on tables covered with oilcloth. There was a wash basin in the corner of the room with a "community" towel alongside.

When the Russian lumberjacks of both sexes started "inhaling" hot soup, it sounded like a battery of suction dredges going into action.

Butter, soda pop, and cakes can be purchased in the coöperative stores at all camps.

Wives Sew on Day Off.

The wives of the cutters, on their day off, made trousers and shirts from materials supplied for sale in the stores.

At camp No. 45 the books showed that the average cutter's wages was $1.07 daily. Horse drivers, furnishing their own animals and forage, received $2.43 daily. Tractor drivers and mechanics received $1.55 per day.

At this camp two meals a day, breakfast and dinner after the shift was over, cost 25 cents a day. Three meals here, including supper at about 8 o'clock at night, cost 40 cents. There were about 480 workers at this camp, about half of them women and girls, and the section for cutting comprised 750,000 cubic yards of timber.

A score of boys 15 and 16 years old, spending a day off, were taking shower baths in sawmill No. 3 at Archangel when I visited there. The lads get $11 a month for three and a half hours of apprentice work daily. They also spend four hours a day in the schoolroom.

All the machinery in the saw mills was of Swedish manufacture from Stockholm.

I visited the plant hospital where a doctor made everybody don white smocks like those worn in barber shops. The maternity ward contained a dozen mothers with tiny infants, and a uniformed nurse was washing and weighing the squalling babies.

The company dentist was measuring a good looking girl for a couple of gold teeth, she supplying the precious metal from old spectacle rims.

The mess tent at this saw mill accommodates 600 people and offered a meal of soup, fish, bread, cornstarch pudding, tea, and preserves for 14 cents. Apprentice boys and girls got their meals for 11 cents, although they ate twice what their elders consumed.

The women's dormitories revealed no photographs of movie actors, but instead lithographs of Lenin and Stalin, and pictures of babies and wedding scenes.

Russian women are strong for pillows. One aged woman had four pillows piled on top of her bed, which consisted of three mattresses one over the other.

Women Save Their Pay.

"She must climb on a chair to get in bed," the girl at the next bed explained. "We are agraid she will fall out some night and break her neck."

The wage books showed that the women at the saw mill earned on an average of $20.50 a month. Eighty per cent of these had savings accounts in banks.

The highest paid woman worker received nearly $80 a month and skilled male workers $115 per month—they were employed in the repair shop at fixing broken machinery and making new parts for lathes and forges.

Married folks and families live in separate rooms, paying rentals averaging $6 per month. Heat, electric light, hot water, and kitchen and bath facilities are included.

In some of these "homes" I saw ikons, but there were none in the dormitories, although they are not prohibited.

Butter 78 Cents a Pound.

I priced everything on sale in the coöperative shops and here is an example of the figures: Face powder, $1.08 per box; Eau de Cologne bath water, 42 cents a bottle; perfume, $2.60 per bottle; neckties, $1.75 each; felt boots, $8.50; fur hats, $9.50 each; cup and saucer, 15 cents; glass tumbler, 5 cents; coffee, 35 cents a pound; potatoes, 10 cents a pound; macaroni, 15 cents a pound; soap, 12 cents a pound; rice, 11½ cents a pound; tea, $1.64 a pound; barley, 7 cents a pound; corn, 8 cents a pound; sugar, 17½ cents a pound; bread, 5 cents; butter, 78 cents a pound; milk, 12½ cents a liter; herring, 55 cents a can; beef, 24 cents a pound; mutton, 24 cents a pound. No horsemeat or pork was offered.

Trousers cost $4.50 a pair; shirts, $3.50 and $4 each; overcoat, $8; women's shirts, $4.50, and blouses, $4.

The company provides working clothes to be used while in the saw mills free, but the workers must purchase replacements if they require more than one outfit per year.

Men Play Soccer.

I had some difficulty in eliciting what the workers do on their days off of an 8 hour day and 5 day a week schedule.

In summer the girls organize field hockey and basketball teams and the men, soccer; but in the winter, except skating, there is no recreation.

"I stay abed most of the day," is what the majority of the men said, though some added they tinkered with the radio; and the women and girls invariably said that they sewed, fixed up clothes and tidied up their rooms.

"Why can't you do all that on work days after the shift is over?" I asked, and nobody seemed able to answer that satisfactorily.

Few ever go downtown to attend the Archangel movies, but they proudly stated that the company shows films in the mess hall twice a week.

During inspection of the dormitories I encountered numerous hands enjoying a day off, and, as I stated, the men were invariably dozing on their cots barefooted while the women were puttering among their few meager belongings, writing blotted letters, or reading about the five-year plan. Some of the women were sleeping too.

I found extreme difficulty in coaxing anybody into conversation. They would answer questions readily, but failed to evince any interest in talking on their own initiative.

Waitress Wonders About Babies.

"In America does the law require employers to pay a woman wages up to a month before she has her baby while she can't work?" she inquired.

I explained that there are different laws in different states, but that we never had trouble on that score.

"Must the husband pay for the maintenance of the child, when he divorces his wife?" she asked.

Her eyes bulged incredulously when I explained that the husband was required not only to pay for the child's upkeep, but also must provide his wife an allowance as alimony.

The workers had the most foggy ideas about the United States' embargo on lumber.

"America, England, France, and other nations don't want to see our five year plan succeed, because we would then become a great and powerful nation," was the way they had reasoned out the timber embargo.

The older ones were interested in the possibility of the United States recognizing Russia, and many admitted that they would like to visit America to see if it were really true about skyscrapers and shops, where one could buy as much of anything as one could pay for, and the cinemas where you do not have to stand in line to get in, and where street cars are not always crowded to the doors.

WHERE RUSSIA CUTS HER TIMBER

Black squares taken from an official map of "the five year plan of the economic building up of the U. S. S. R." show locations of timber camps in the northern forest region of Russia.

Henry Wales, Tribune correspondent now in northern Russia, yesterday cabled an eye-witness story of timber production in the Dvina and Pinega river district, near Archangel. There he perused the lumber trust's records, saw how both men, women and children lived, and learned the wages they received as lumber jacks.

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., March 30.—[Special.]—Once more the warden of our state penitentiary at Florence is in danger of being obliged to turn his building into a sound picture theater. Yesterday a "trusty" was sent out with an empty wagon to get a load of gravel; that is, the wagon would have been empty if three other convicts had not decided at the last moment to make the trip. Later the horse, which apparently did not have horse sense, brought the wagon home without the trusty or the three other convicts or even the gravel. Bloodhounds were let loose and they have not come back either, though the guard has stood on the wall and whistled and whistled. The dissatisfied prisoners at Joliet made a big mistake in choosing Illinois as a place to earn a living.

OUSTED PREMIER PUT BACK IN RUSSIA'S CABINET

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, March 30.—There is a new but not wholly unexpected development in the upper soviet hierarchy—former Premier Alexi Rykov reënters the council of commissars as minister of posts and telegraphs in place of Nikolay Antipof, who becomes vice commissar of peasants and workers' inspection.

For some time it has been known that Nikolai Bucharin, associated with Rykov in the "Troika" [right opposition], has been playing an important advisery rôle in Kremlin deliberations, and there has been whispers that Rykov's known competence and considerable personal popularity would not remain idle much longer.

From an internal political standpoint the new appointment is interesting as being the first occasion when one of Dictator Stalin's defeated opponents has been readmitted to high office. Both Rykov and Bucharin were removed from high Russian posts late last year—Rykov from the premiership.

TELEPHONE CO. SUED BY CITY FOR $5,000,000

The city of Chicago, through the corporation counsel's office, yesterday filed in the Circuit court a suit for $5,000,000 against the Illinois Bell Telephone company. The action is to force payment of the 3 per cent of the company's gross receipts for 1929 and 1930, which, it is alleged, is due under the old telephone ordinance for the company's use of streets and alleys.

The exact amount of the claim is $4,267,695 and it dates from Jan. 1, 1929, when the last franchise expired, to Dec. 31, 1930. The balance asked is for interest on the debt.

RUSSIAN CENSOR TRIES TO MUZZLE TRIBUNE STORIES

Paragraphs Deleted from Wales' Dispatches.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 30.—Henry Wales, Paris correspondent of THE TRIBUNE, who is now in Russia, has had his first clash with the soviet censor. The first evidence of this was revealed yesterday when Mr. Wales' remarkable story on the horrible conditions under which former wealthy peasants, commonly called kulaks, are forced to live in the exile camps of Archangel, was received by mail here and promptly cabled to Chicago.

This dispatch was killed by the Russian censor, but Mr. Wales' duplicate copy of it, which as a precaution he had mailed to Paris, escaped the censor's sharp eyes.

Find Other Messages Changed.

Further investigation today revealed that other of Mr. Wales' cabled dispatches on the much discussed lumber camps in the arctic circle district of Russia had been tampered with.

When arrangements were made for Mr. Wales to visit Russia the soviet government assured him that his stories would not be tampered with by the censor so long as he wrote about what he saw and made a sincere effort to confirm hearsay.

In addition to the mailed copy of Mr. Wales' dispatch on the kulak exiles, cabled to THE TRIBUNE yesterday, copies of his other dispatches reached here by mail today. When deletions in these dispatches were discovered the Paris office of THE TRIBUNE got in touch with Mr. Wales, who is now back in Moscow.

Tells of His Experiences.

The following story of his experiences with the soviet censor was revealed:

The censor refused to pass the kulak story on the grounds that the conditions described might be true in one place but were not representative of conditions generally. It also was contended that if passed with the censor's stamp the story would amount to an official admission that such conditions exist.

After threatening to leave the country Mr. Wales informed the censor that duplicates of the story had already been mailed to Paris. The censor requested that it be killed at Chicago. Mr. Wales said this was impossible, whereupon the soviet official shrugged his shoulders and said he hoped the paper would make clear that the story had arrived in Paris by mail and had not been passed in Moscow by the censor.

How Censor Changed Stories.

In the first three of Mr. Wales' articles, which were wired to Paris, some of his conclusions about conditions in the White sea timber country were omitted by the soviet censors, a check-up with the duplicates reveals. In general Mr. Wales found that forced labor, as the term is understood in America, does not exist, and that convicts are not used at all in the lumber industry at present.

But the duplicates revealed that Mr. Wales made certain specific qualifications of these conclusions. In the first article—the censored version—it was stated:

"Convict labor is not employed by the state timber trust for export production." What Mr. Wales originally wrote was:

"Convicts ARE NO LONGER employed by the state timber trust for export production."

The following two paragraphs were entirely deleted:

"Last year several hundred political and criminal convicts from the dread Solovetsky island penitentiary in the White sea were brought to Archangel to assist in loading ships with lumber and pulpwood.

"But, following the first protest from Washington, the felons were withdrawn from the job and placed at other work or shipped back to the lonely island established by the czarist régime for revolutionary suspects."

Kill References to Conditions.

References to the horrible conditions in the kulak concentration camps visited by Mr. Wales were cut out of the first three stories.

The closing paragraph of the third article was killed. It read:

"The kulaks' nakedness is scarcely covered by rags and tatters laced over emaciated bodies by rope, twine, and wire, and even the skilled employés in the saw mills, who earn a couple of hundred rubles a month, also wear torn and filthy garments; and I saw cutters in the bitter cold Pinega forests whose bare feet showed through holes in their boots."

PLUNGES TO DEATH

[Acme Photo.]

MRS. MARY TOWNSEND (Peggy Davis).

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, March 30.—Despite the note she wrote in a roadside inn between big drinks of cognac, in which she said "I am tired of life," police do not accept the theory that suicide explains the death plunge over a cliff Saturday night of Mrs. Davis Townsend, former Follies girl, known on the stage as Peggy Davis.

Further doubt was cast on the suicide theory when a Catholic bishop gave permission for the burial in consecrated ground Wednesday. The physician who tended her during a recent illness declared today that she was not neurasthenic.

Mrs. Townsend was formerly Mary Margaret Laid, born in Birmingham, Ala., on Dec. 31, 1905. She was known as a good wife and mother. Her small daughter is the darling of the American colony on the Riviera. Friends suggest that, weakened by her recent illness and exhilarated by liquor, she lost control of the car and plunged over the cliff. Her husband, with whom she dined Saturday shortly before the tragedy, is grief stricken.

COURT VACATES ORDER HALTING TAX COLLECTION

Further delay in the collection of the 1929 taxes was apparently obviated yesterday when Superior Judge Marcus Kavanagh set aside an order he issued last week which temporarily halted the collection. At the same time it was announced that court proceedings which might delay the collection will be carried to the Illinois Supreme court, but a decision from that court will not be forthcoming until after the taxes are paid.

ROY MASSENA.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The vacation of the order restraining County Clerk Sweitzer and County Treasurer McDonough from continuing work on the tax collection was cheering to the county's tax spending agencies because cash resources have been exhausted and it was regarded as doubtful whether more loans could be obtained from banks until the 1929 taxes come in.

Why Order Was Issued.

The restraining order had been issued by the court at the request of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, pending the outcome of mandamus proceedings instituted to compel the board of review to reopen hearings on complaints against the 1929 assessments. Some 32,000 taxpayers had been refused a hearing by the reviewers.

In dissolving the temporary injunction Judge Kavanagh said that he had lacked jurisdiction to issue the order. The possibility of a prompt hearing on the mandamus petition was then removed when Attorney Roy Massena, representing the reviewers, announced that he was appealing the judge's action in overruling his demurrer to the petition to the higher court.

Penalty Date to Be Extended.

The penalty date for the payment of the 1929 taxes, which had been set at April 1, is to be extended by a bill now pending in the legislature. The bill will empower the county treasurer to fix the delinquency date at one month after the last tax bill is put in the mails. The first of the city's real estate tax bills will be sent out within the next few days and the last bill will be mailed about April 20. This would establish the penalty date at about May 20.

The board of review yesterday began sending notices to some 2,000 taxpayers informing them that errors in their 1929 assessments have been found.

For thirst . . . any time, anywhere

For the thirst that demands more than water . . . the thirst that is nervous exhaustion—drink Welch's.

Here is a tonic-beverage blended by Nature from sunshine and dew in the highlands of upper New York state. As a drink alone it delights the most jaded appetite. But in addition to delicious taste are those nourishing mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins which stay hunger and build bodily vigor.

Make a month's test, then check results. Use Welch's as the fruit course at breakfast, luncheon and dinner. Drink it between meals for thirst and for quick energy at "fatigue-time." You will find that this pure fruit juice promotes functional activities which will bring your weight up or down to normal. Muddy complexions grow rosy and clear. Dull eyes take on a youthful sparkle. In Europe they call this "the grape cure."

A supply of Welch's always in your pantry is the most convenient form of health insurance. If diluted one-third to one-half with water, as many prefer, no other fruit is so economical. Make grape juice a family habit the year around, but insist on Welch's. Only then can you be certain that every step from the picking of the crop at its ripe best to the final sealing of the bottles is laboratory controlled.

Welch's "by-the-bunch" is now available in the 10c Junior, the new sampler size, convenient for a single serving. It is the concentrated goodness of one and a quarter bunches of full-ripe Concords. Ask for Welch's at leading fountains, hotels, clubs and restaurants. Include it in your diet for one month—then check results. The pint bottle at 30c is most economical for household use. CHILDREN SHOULD HAVE WHOLESOME DESSERTS DAILY

Puddings and Custards Essential for Maintaining Correct Weight

Puddings made of rice, tapioca or cornstarch; custards and ice cream are appropriate desserts for the development of the growing child who is underweight. Such a dessert not only supplements the other food in the meal but causes the child to leave the table satisfied.

The part sugar plays in making these desserts appealing should be considered in relation to other foods. Those which are carriers of vitamins, minerals and roughage can be made as inviting as desserts by the use of sugar as a flavor. Cabbage, onions, cauliflower, turnips, tomatoes, peas and other vegetables—canned or fresh—are much improved in appetizing qualities when seasoned with a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt. Likewise, sugar is ideal on fruits and cereals.

Doctors and dietitians approve this use of sugar. For, when the flavor of a food is inviting to the taste, the flow of gastric juices is increased, thus aiding digestion. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

BANDIT PAIR BIND AND ROB PRIESTS IN PARISH HOUSE

Holdups Here Doubled in Year's First Quarter.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Theodore Richards, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Phillip Finnegan.

Two young robbers invaded the parish house of St. Jarlath's Catholic church at 1725 West Jackson boulevard late last night, tied three priests, one the rector of another church, and fled with $7.25, two watches, and a small revolver. The clergymen robbed are the Rev. Thomas B. O'Brien, pastor of St. Jarlath's, the Rev. Edward S. Coogan, pastor of St. Malachy's church, 2248 West Washington boulevard, and the Rev. J. F. McNally, assistant to Father O'Brien.

Father O'Brien and Father Coogan were chatting in the parish house when there was a knock on the door. The former responded, and was pushed back by the robbers, who shoved revolvers against his side. They forced him to open the safe, from which they took a revolver and $5. They then took $2.25 and a watch from Father Coogan, and a watch from his host. This done, the bandits gagged the clergymen with adhesive tape, and tied their arms and legs with rope. Shortly after the gunmen fled the priests released themselves.

ROBBERIES DOUBLED

A heavy increase in robberies for the first three months of this year compared with the first quarter of other years was recorded in Chicago, according to figures given out last night by Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago crime commission. The figures for the first three months of the year are up to and including March 28, in comparison with reports for the first full quarterly periods of 1928, 1929, and 1930.

A total of 3,006 holdups was reported from Jan. 1, 1931, up to and including March 28, slightly less than half of the total reported throughout 1930. A total of 2,324 burglaries was reported during the period, almost three times the number listed in all of 1928, and almost two-thirds the number of burglaries committed in the twelve months of last year.

Figures on Robberies.

Following is a table of robberies reported during January, February, and March of 1928, 1929, 1930, and 1931:

	1928.	1929.	1930.	1931.
January	121	128	758	917
February	138	74	576	1,068
March	95	86	376	1,117
Totals	322	143	1,117	2,324

These figures were taken from the records of the secretary of police on reports made to him by district commanding officers. A tabulation of verdicts of murder returned by coroner's juries shows 77 from Jan. 1, 1931, to March 28, inclusive, a slight decrease from the figures of 1928, 1929, and 1930.

Get $3,925 in Hotel Holdup.

Numerous robberies were reported yesterday and last night. In one a band of eight robbers raided the Copeland hotel at 5009 Sheridan road, beat a guest, robbed another, disarmed Policeman Richard Swanson of the Lincoln park force, and fled with $3,925 in loot.

This holdup was staged at dawn. The guest slugged was Benjamin Rotter, a watch service manager. Theodore Krowl, a guest, who lost $1,300 in cash and a $2,500 ring. Walter Godwin, clerk, was forced to give up $125. The bandits held the hotel lobby and offices for forty minutes. Among those threatened was Miss Julia Danziger, switchboard operator.

Three men entered the Thom McAn Shoe store at 312 South State street last night, tied up three men and took $35. Those bound were Nathan Leiter, 6119 St. Lawrence avenue, the manager; Roscoe Leadbetter, 1630 Melrose street, a clerk, and Hobart Reidy, 6319 Kenwood avenue, manager of the McAn store at 14 West Van Buren street.

Mrs. Kitty McDade, owner of a rooming house at 306 South Paulina street, and Miss Mary Baker, an employé were tied hand and foot yesterday by two armed men who invaded their house and stole $300.

Thieves broke into the home of the Rev. Duncan H. Browne, 200 East Delaware place, rector of St. James Episcopal church, several nights ago, and stole about $2,500 in valuables, it was learned yesterday. The burglars broke open a rear door while the clergyman was away, and stole jewelry and clothing.

NORDBYE APPOINTED JUDGE IN MINNESOTA AFTER SCHALL ROW

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—In the face of determined opposition by Senator Schall, President Hoover today gave a recess appointment to Gunnar H. Nordbye to be United States District judge for Minnesota.

A White House statement said that seemed to be the only solution of the situation arising from a congested calendar in Minnesota. Schall, a Minnesota Republican, has said he would never consent to the confirmation of Nordbye. Schall backed Ernest Michel, but Attorney General Mitchell refused to recommend him.

"MILLIONAIRE FENCE" SEIZED; $11,000 IN LOOT

In a surprise raid at 931 Vernon Park place police last night recovered $11,000 worth of stolen clothes and arrested three men, one of them, John Sovetsky, known to police as the "millionaire fence." Those seized with him are Dominic Espisito, 50 years old, and Tony, 19 years old, his son, of the Vernon Park place address.

The recovered clothing was stolen March 18 from the store of L. J. Hirsch & Co., 19 South Dearborn street. Suits, coats, and other apparel valued at $18,000 were taken. The Espisitos confessed the burglary, according to Lieut. William Cusack, who led the raid. Sovetsky made no admissions. All three were seized in the basement looking over the assortment of clothes. With Lieut. Cusack in the raid were Sergts. Harry Gleason and Patrick J. McDonald.

Sovetsky, who lives at 6234 South Western avenue, is now out on a supersedeas from the Illinois Supreme court, according to police, pending his appeal from a 1 to 10 year prison sentence imposed several years ago for receiving stolen property. In 1925 he was wanted in Green Bay, Wis., but Gov. Small refused to honor an extradition for his transfer.

DANNY STANTON APPEALS CASE TO HIGH COURT

Danny Stanton, labor racketeer and south side gangster, and Edgar Smith, his chauffeur, filed their appeals with the Illinois Supreme court yesterday. They are asking the reviewing court to prevent their extradition to Wisconsin, where they are wanted for the murder of Jack Zuta, vice leader, who was shot down last fall at a summer resort.

Chief Justice Frank H. Dunn issued the supersedeas asked by the defendants. This will automatically stop extradition until a decision is given by the court. Stanton lost his fight against extradition both before Gov. Emmerson and Judge Philip Finnegan in the Criminal court. He is in the county jail.

WIFE THROWS COINS AT HIM; ASKS DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—(AP)—A domestic fight in a gambling casino with dollars as weapons was described today by Luther A. Reed, motion picture director, in his divorce suit against Jocelyn Lee, movie actress.

It was a honeymoon trip to Agua Caliente, Lower California. He testified she flew into a rage while he was playing at the blackjack table and threw a handful of silver dollars in his face.

The Mexican police of the gambling casino requested them to retire from the gaming room, he testified. In their Agua Caliente hotel bungalow the quarrel was resumed and she threw an ash tray at his head.

Again the casino police were attracted and bade them leave the hotel, he testified.

The actress, fighting his suit with a cross complaint, charges cruelty and that the director beat her, carried a pistol as an intimidation measure, and refused her permission to play in pictures.

WOMEN SPEED UP CAMPAIGN TO ELECT CERMAK

Meetings Today to Draw Thousands of Voters.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Women's headquarters of the Cermak forces in the Hotel La Salle is a hive of industry in the last days of the campaign. Meetings, luncheons, and dinners crowd thick and fast upon the schedule.

This afternoon the main gathering, exclusively for women, will be held in the Drake hotel, where 1,000 women are expected to attend a reception under the auspices of the Swedish-American Women's Cermak for Mayor organization. Mrs. John E. Ericsson, a Moberg Republican, heads the group, and will present Mr. Cermak, who will be accompanied by his graddaughter, Vivian Graham, 12 years old, and the youngest orator in his speakers' bureau. Mrs. Charles A. Conkey, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, and Mrs. Bertha Dell also will speak.

Candidate to Speak.

This noon 1,000 Negro women, supporters of Cermak, will meet at the Grand Terrace, Oakwood boulevard and South Park way, for a luncheon at which the candidate will be a speaker. Democratic, Republican, and independent voters will take part.

At 8 o'clock this evening fifty women will meet in the lobby of the Fairfax hotel, 1369 Hyde Park boulevard, to hear Attorney Bertha Carlson of the Independent bureau talk on behalf of Cermak. The Hyde Park Civic club is in charge.

Fourth ward women will gather at the same time in the Kenwood club, 47th street and Lake Park avenue, with Margaret Dahlman as their chairman. James Weber Linn, Mrs. Marion Lee Marshall, and Ross Woodhull will address the assemblage, which is expected to number between 800 and 1,000 women.

Prof. Jerome Kerwin of the University of Chicago and Mrs. Willa Laird will speak for Mr. Cermak at a parlor meeting at 8 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Shillington, 5536 Stony Island avenue.

Many to Attend Dinner.

Tomorrow evening the principal event will be the dinner in the gold ballroom of the Congress hotel for Mr. Cermak's candidacy. Mrs. George Bass will preside. More than fifty tables have been reserved, the list including the names of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. A. A. Carpenter, Mrs. Julius Rosenwald, Mrs. Adlai Stevenson, Col. A. A. Sprague, Mrs. George Brennan, Mrs. Parmalee McFadden, Mrs. John Borden, Mrs. Joseph Ryerson, Mrs. Howard Shaw, and Mrs. Walter Borden.

On Saturday afternoon, according to plans completed yesterday, there will be the massmeeting of women in the Auditorium theater at 2 o'clock, to be followed at 4:30 o'clock by a parade of women Cermak supporters through the loop, with placards and flags. Mrs Bass will be chairman of the demonstration.

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin on horseback will lead the march, which will proceed from the theater to Michigan avenue to Monroe street, Monroe to State, State to Washington, and Washington street to the county building. There a committee will call upon Mr. Cermak in his office to assure him of women's support.

Business and professional women at a dinner at the Hotel La Salle last night heard Judge Harry M. Fisher tell why they should support the Democratic nominee.

At the Bryn Mawr school, at 73d and Jeffery avenue, the Independent Women's Cermak for Mayor organization introduced Coroner Herman N. Bundesen, Prof. Charles A. Merriam, Mrs. Mark Mears, and Alexander D. Cameron as advocates of Mr. Cermak. Miss Genevieve Corkell presided.

DRY LAW CALLED CAUSE OF WORLD FARMING CRISIS

U. S. Is Urged to Allow Growing of Hops.

Some dry Republicans, who appear quite contented over the passage of the bill, argue that a veto would "nail the Republican party in its coffin for the 1932 election."

Senator Searcy is author of a joint resolution—No. 1—memorializing congress to call a convention to dispose of the liquor issue. It calls for an amendment to provide that exclusive power to tax, license, and regulate or suppress the manufacture, sale, transportation, exportation, and importation of intoxicating liquors shall be vested in congress. He will seek Wednesday to get it out of the executive committee, where it has been slumbering since January 7.

Two weeks ago Massachusetts became the first state to ask congress for a convention. The Searcy resolution advocates action on lines related to those at issue in the decision by Judge William Clark in New Jersey, calling attention to the convention process of amending the constitution. To become effective upon congress it is necessary for 32 states to take action.

Time for Change, He Says.

"This state and this country are heading toward a sensible era of temperance and tolerance," Senator Searcy said. "It cannot come too soon. It had better come soon. Depression has cast a national shadow. Men are tramping our street today looking for honest employment by means of which to keep their littles ones and their wives from hunger. Their property is being sold for taxes, and their mortgages are being foreclosed. If they pay taxes they feel that part of the money goes into the pockets of fraudulent dry agents. This condition cannot long endure. In my opinion the time is at hand for the Republican party to take a hand. Lincoln was right when he declared that government cannot be had without the consent of the governed."

On abolition of the party circle, the subcommittee which made research in New York and Massachusetts is expected to report this week. The tentative report reads rather yes and no-ish.

"In each of the two states," it says, "some hold that party regularity and party responsibility have been reduced by the use of the office group ballot, but no incumbent in any office expressed himself as being willing to revert to the party column type."

Bellboy in Loop Hotel Shot; Mum on Assailant

While conversing with Allen Rubenstein, night clerk, in the Aragon Arms hotel, 4917 Kenmore avenue, early this morning, William O'Malley, 32 years old, a bellboy at the Auditorium hotel, was approached by two men. Without a word one of them fired two shots. O'Malley received a slight hip wound. He told police he knew his assailants but refused to divulge their identity or the motive for the attack. Police believe it was over a woman. O'Malley lives at the Aragon Arms.

FREE RUM ISSUE DODGED BY TWO OUT FOR MAYOR

Reno Incumbent Talks from Pulpit.

Reno, Nev., March 30.—(AP)—Two candidates for mayor opposing E. E. Roberts, incumbent, who is seeking reëlection on a platform advocating free whisky and supporting licensed gambling and easy divorce, have refused to campaign on those issues.

The mayor opened his campaign for reëlection by replying to a statement by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, national director of the Methodist board of temperance, in which the Methodist minister said Nevada is a combination of Sodom, Gomorrah, and perdition.

Speaking from the pulpit of the Methodist church last night, the Reno mayor, a former congressman and one of the city's most active divorce lawyers, declared Dr. Wilson's views are all wrong and based on a misconception of the aims of Reno to alleviate suffering by battling in the open with social problems.

Gambling "Bad," But—

Mayor Roberts told the church gathering that gambling is "bad business," but that as long as people will gamble it is more desirable that it be done openly and with the sanction of the law. He also defended the segregated district in Reno as a means of controlling vice.

He advocated the placing of a barrel of corn whisky on every corner in the city with a dipper attached and a sign inviting all to drink as much as they pleased, but not to carry any liquor away. The liquor, by the mayor's plan, would come from a municipal still operated at public expense, and would be "good corn whisky."

The other two candidates for mayor have refused to be drawn into the liquor, gambling, and divorce law discussions. Howard S. Doyle, a business man, said he intends to make no public statement of any character except to declare for a business administration.

Milburn S. Gregory explained he was paying no attention to the mayor's ultra liberal statements, but is devoting his campaign activities to pointing out the necessity for Reno to capitalize on its scenic attractions to make the city a great tourist center.

BOARD IS FAIR TO PRISONERS' KIN, IGOE FINDS

Legislator Attends Joliet Parole Hearing.

State Representative Michael L. Igoe, a member of the special prison investigating committee which was told last week by convicts that the state parole board was discourteous and heartless in its treatment of them and their advocates, was a spectator yesterday at the board's first parole hearings since the riots in the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries.

At the close of the day's session, held in the record room of the old Joliet prison, Mr. Igoe said that he believed the relatives and other advocates of men requesting leniency had been treated with fairness and due courtesy.

"But the state of Illinois ought to be wealthy enough to provide a decent place for these people to await their turn to talk," he added.

Crowd Into Small Room.

The board members sit in a record room at the prison and the friends of the convicts, on some days more than 200 in number, must crowd into a small ante-room to pass the hours until their turn to speak arrives.

Present at the hearing were Chairman W. C. Jones and Thomas H. Cannon, the Rev. R. Keene Ryan, and J. W. Essington, board members. The two first named had testified before the legislative committee and defended their conduct and that of their co-workers.

The active hostility of the convicts of the old prison, all but 600 of whom are still kept locked in their cells continuously, was manifested by loud cries and shouts of "we want a new parole board." These cries were loudest at the time of convening the session and at noon. No attention was paid to this disturbance by the board members.

Hear Plea for Prisoner.

One of the first cases called was that of John Kadow of Chicago, under sentence of one to 14 years for manslaughter. Kadow was one of the convicts who was locked in an ice box on Feb. 22 by three inmates who made a dash for freedom and were shot to death by guards. His mother appealed for mercy, stating that when an automobile driven by Kadow struck and killed Walter Salzman it was an accident. She added that her son was not intoxicated at the time and $3,000 had been offered the relatives of the man killed.

Among others for whom pleas were made were Harold Cook, formerly an employé of the Loyal Order of Moose at Moosehart, who was sentenced on three charges of embezzlement. The order's books showed a shortage of about $173,000 after his arrest. Cook maintained that another man, now in Germany, took the money.

Another applicant was Walter C. Kipperger, former Elgin investment banker, whose books showed a shortage of half million dollars in 1925. He is serving terms for forgery, embezzlement and accepting deposits after he knew his concern was insolvent.

EXTRA POLICE PAY FOR CHAUFFEUR OF MAYOR'S WIFE

Patrolman Charles H. Breen, chauffeur for Mayor Thompson's wife, has been awarded $300 extra compensation for one year. The order, issued on March 26 by Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock, is effective immediately.

The citation explains the award is in "recognition of efficient and exceptionally meritorious police work in performance of duty." Chief Alcock declined to reveal the police work for which Breen won extra pay, asserting the award was a minor matter.

Charge Woman Made Girl Lure Boy Rum Patrons

Mrs. Anna Wiske, keeper of a candy store at 1722 North Hermitage avenue, was arrested yesterday on complaint of mothers in the neighborhood that she used her 17 year old niece to attract schoolboys to her place where, it is alleged, she sold moonshine.

The woman was arrested on a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Walker.

ROB TEX GUINAN OF GEMS AMONG HER SOUVENIRS

New York, March 30.—(AP)—Tex Guinan, night club queen, discovered that her home in West 8th street had been entered and ransacked over night. Various dew-dads were missing. She estimated the loot was worth from $3,500 to $4,000, and tabulated it thus:

One horse, diamond studded with ruby eyes, the gift of the late Senator William A. Clark, Montana copper king.

One set diamond cuff links.

Texas said a racketeer visited her recently and demanded $500. She thinks the two events are connected.

DEATH LAID TO PNEUMONIA.

Frank Laurie, 23 years old, a wanderer who died at the county hospital on Friday, was a victim of pneumonia, physicians decided yesterday. It had first been suspected that Laurie was poisoned.

BINGHAM URGES COLONIAL AFFAIRS BUREAU FOR U. S.

President Declares He Sees No Need for It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—In casting up the accounts of President Hoover's visit to Porto Rico and the Virgin islands it is apparent that, although the way has been made clearer, many problems still remain. The movement looking to the establishment of a bureau of colonial affairs, probably under the department of the interior, still has its supporters despite the President's pronouncement that he sees no present need of such a step.

SENATOR HIRAM BINGHAM. [Fotograms.]

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], chairman of the senate committee on territories and insular affairs, today expressed confidence that efficient administration of the United States possessions could best be had through a centralized bureau. He said he believed in the development of a class of career men who would be led to devote themselves to colonial administration were they given opportunity to rise in the service. He contends the United States and the possessions both would be benefited. It would permit of an official proving himself valuable in Guam, for example, he explained, where the navy now controls, to be shifted to the larger field of Porto Rico, which now is under the war department.

National Defense Funds.

Senator Bingham holds it unfair to levy taxes, presumably for one of the branches of national defense, and then divert them to colonial administration. He said expenditures required for the establishment of a colonial bureau would be compensated for by the resultant increase in the efficiency of administration.

Coming down to the specific cases of Porto Rico and the Virgin islands, Senator Bingham agrees with the President's conclusions. For Porto Rico, he expects an eventual solution of her social and economic problems. The cost of owning the Virgin islands, however, he says, must be accepted as a permanent annual outlay charged to national defense. He advocated a study of British and French colonial administration.

"Unlike the United States," he said, "England and France do not pour out appropriations for the benefit of their colonies. They provide a strong man for governor and for the rest, if the colony wants something, it pays for it. We would do better were we to treat our possessions like the tropical dependencies they are rather than as commonwealths like Massachusetts or Illinois."

HOLDS KILLING JUSTIFIED.

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury which investigated the killing of Joseph Fajt, alias Burski, 20 years old, of 720 Ayers court. Fajt was fatally wounded on Sunday night by Policeman Frank Luczak when the youth leaped out of a stolen automobile during a chase. Testimony disclosed that Fajt aimed a revolver at the policeman.

HOOVER LEAVES FARM BOARD TO ITS OWN POLICIES

Has Same Independence as Other U. S. Bodies.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—President Hoover believes the federal farm board capable of formulating and acting upon its own policies, it was announced at the White House today. The board's decision to discontinue stabilization operations was one of the first matters brought to the President's attention today.

The President feels, it was stated, that the farm board has the same right to independence that is enjoyed by the shipping board and interstate commerce commission. His stand is interpreted as strengthening the farm board's position.

Norbeck Replies to Reed.

Further reply to the criticism of the board, recently voiced by Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], came today from Senator Peter Norbeck, insurgent Republican of South Dako'a, who insisted that the farm marketing act under which the board operates was forced upon the country by industry and against the wishe of agriculture. He assailed the Smoot-Hawley act, for which he said Senator Reed had voted, and blamed it as a cause of many of the farmer's troubles.

Instead of heeding the President's wishes for a limited tariff designed to assist agriculture, said Senator Norbeck, Senator Reed and his colleagues had voted a tariff so high that it caused European countries to retaliate by virtually placing an embargo on American farm products.

Visit Farm Sections.

Chairman Stone of the farm board said today that on his recent visit to Kansas, Oklahoma, and other states he had encountered a growing farm sentiment in favor of wheat acreage reduction.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde left Washington today for the southern drought area in order to ascertain the success of federal loans in meeting the drought emergency and getting a new crop started. Before leaving Mr. Hyde held a conference with the President, at which he announced that the loans under the 45 million dollar relief fund now numbered 146,486 and totaled $22,485,485. The secretary estimated that by the time the relief program had been completed some 350,000 farm families would have been aided.

In Illinois, he stated, 1,002 loans totaling $136,741 have been made.

WIFE FOUND DEAD IN HOME.

Mrs. Jennie Gergely, 73 years old, was found dead in bed yesterday at her home, 5655 Grace street. Her husband, Walter, to whom she was married six months ago, said that she had been ill only twenty-four hours.

BURKE DEMANDS FORMALITIES AS HE IS ARRAIGNED

Refuses to Waive a Preliminary Hearing.

St. Joseph, Mich., March 30.—[Special.]—Fred Burke, outlaw, accused of many murders and bank robberies, refused today to waive even the slightest safeguard given by the law to men accused of crimes. Secure—at least apparently—within the jurisdiction of the law of Berrien county, he was arraigned before a magistrate on the charge of slaying Policeman Charles Skelly, who sought to arrest him after a minor traffic accident on Dec. 14, 1929.

Burke wanted all his rights, even the formality of a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Joseph Collier. Apparently such a hearing can result only in Burke being held formally to the Circuit court without bond for murder, but Burke wanted the hearing.

Hearing Held in Cell.

Sheriff F. J. Cutler ushered Justice Collier into the cell where Burke was put last night after being brought here from St. Joseph, Mo., near which he was captured last week, and the notorious prisoner was informed:

"You can demand a preliminary hearing or you can waive it."

"I demand it," Burke stated, and he is to get it April 8, but even had he declined to press his right to face at least one witness in the justice court he could not be brought to trial sooner, as Circuit Judge C. E. White is in Detroit and wired that there is no possibility for Burke to appear before him until the beginning of a new term of court on April 20.

The man known as "Killer Burke," who stands accused of leadership in the Chicago massacre of seven members of the Bugs Moran gang on Feb. 14, 1929, conferred briefly today with Barratt O'Hara, Chicago lawyer, who was born here. O'Hara is the son of a St. Joseph judge.

Again Silent on Massacre.

Deputy Sheriff Vincent O'Neill questioned Burke about the Chicago massacre. He denied all knowledge of it. He also denied knowing Al Capone.

Two New York policemen, Capt. Patrick McVeigh and Sergt. Michael McNamara, questioned Burke about his supposed participation in the murder of Frank Uale of Brooklyn, chief Sicilian foe of Capone. They fared no better than O'Neill on their inquiries.

There was talk of removing Burke to the Jackson penitentiary to prevent possible attempts by Chicago criminals to kill him or free him, but Burke refused to consent to be moved, and Attorney O'Hara said he could not be taken to Jackson without his consent. Therefore extra guards are to be kept about the county jail for the next month.

WRITES TO WIFE HE DESERTED, THEN ENDS LIFE

Seventeen years ago Theodore Mahnke, 55 years old, a veteran of the Spanish-American and world wars, deserted his wife and five children in Sheboygan, Wis. Yesterday he wrote several letters in his room at 19 West Ontario street and then turned on the gas. Police found his body and the notes. They were addressed to his wife, police, and Col. Pearsall of the National Soldiers' home at Milwaukee.

Mahnke wrote Col. Pearsall that he served in the two wars and had deserted his family. He never applied for pension or bonus, he stated, and asked the colonel to help his deserted family obtain the compensation.

Mahnke in the third note told his wife he was sorry that he had deserted her.

FLYING PERIL OF ICE FORMING ON PLANE DEFEATED

Rubber Device Tested and Proven in Flight.

Akron, O., March 30.—(AP)—Victory was reported here today over one of the aviator's most dangerous enemies—ice that forms on the wings of his airplane and sometimes causes it to be wrecked.

Through low hanging clouds, at freezing temperature, and at an altitude of 2,000 to 3,000 feet, Charles Meyers of Cleveland piloted his airplane which was equipped with rubber "overshoes" developed by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, the National Air Transport, Inc., and Dr. William C. Geer, Cornell university research associate.

"Breathing" Pouches Successful.

The overshoes—pouches of specially treated rubber fabric fitted over the leading edges of the plane wings and struts—were made to "breathe", as the ice formed on them. As they breathed the ice crumpled away. The inflation and deflation, which worked like a man's lungs, were created by a motor driven air pump in the cockpit.

The ice was quickly discarded, Meyers said, adding that the process involved no noticeable change in the plane's flying characteristics.

Dr. Geer, who began the research which produced the overshoes, went about it like a medieval alchemist searching for the philosopher's stone. His first idea was to find a compound to which ice would not adhere. Scores of substances to paint or smear over the wings and struts were tried, a great variety of oils, solutions to lower the freezing point of water, gums, waxes, varnishes, highly polished films, oiled paper, varnishes. The grasp of the ice, however, remained firm.

Nearer and Nearer Solution.

He finally got around to spreading sheets of raw rubber on the leading edges. No success. Oil was spread over the sheets, but it swelled them although the grip of the ice was weakened.

Next to be tried was oil soaked vulcanized rubber, and then oiled rubber vulcanized on fabric. This was better, but still it was difficult for the pilot to knock off the ice.

The rubber overshoe idea was conceived. Tried out in a large wind tunnel at the Goodrich factory here, where freezing fogs were blown by artificial hurricanes against model plane wings. The overshoes worked.

The test run today was the practical application.

RUBBER-CUSHIONED CHASSIS—at 41 points, absorbing shocks, greatly adding to riding ease and stability on the road, and prolonging the life of the car. In addition, Oakland's rubber-cushioned spring shackles are rattle-proof and eliminate twelve points of lubrication.

NEW BODIES BY FISHER—not only contributing new values in modish appearance, comfort, craftsmanship and safety, but introducing advanced insulation against heat, cold and noise.

WHIPCORD OR MOHAIR UPHOLSTERY—giving Oakland interiors the atmosphere of flawless good taste and the wearing qualities essential to lasting value; fittings of corresponding quality.

Other Oakland features are: five wire wheels; Lovejoy shock absorbers; one-piece fenders with fender lamps; heavy single-bar bumpers; new sturdy rear axles with ball and roller bearings—oil sealed in and dust sealed out.

Naturally a motor car's real character and value are best determined by personal test. A demonstration of the new Oakland will be arranged at your convenience, without obligation.

ALFONSO URGES RETURNED EXILE TO SAVE CROWN

Calls In Santiago Alba for "Secret" Parley.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 30.—King Alfonso today had what was intended to be a secret conversation with Santiago Alba, the one politician left who may help him.

He met him in the leafy depths of his hunting preserve at El Pardo, a few miles from the capital, with great precaution. But the secret leaked out, helping to confirm the impression that the king is again considering a drastic constitutional solution to "restore to him legally" that which, not only the Republicans, but the doughty Monarchists in the Constitutionalist group, as well, deny him, namely—his crown.

Politicians Ponder Move.

Alba, who after seven years of exile had been holding himself in readiness in Paris since Dictator Primo de Rivera's fall to make a comeback in a big way, identified himself with the constitutionalists on his return. He had even turned down Alfonso's offer to form a government in the middle of February.

The monarch, by seeing him today, has greatly excited a few politicians who claim to have knowledge of the king's political moves. They think that he will be ready to call on Alba and Melquiades Alvarez sooner than most people believe.

The meeting, however, increased the suspicion with which the Republicans view Alba. Although they were willing to support Sanchez Guerra in his futile efforts to form a cabinet and now Alvarez, to a degree, they are frankly doubtful of Alba, whose motive or motives, they feel, are to save the king rather than to obtain an expression of the people's will. To add to the general uneasiness, La Voz today announced the discovery of two bombs by the police.

Prepare for Elections.

Meanwhile, political parties are preparing for the Spanish municipal elections. Some disorders were reported. According to dispatches from Gibraltar, Republicans met today and demanded amnesty for political prisoners. Troops were on the alert.

In Alicante, civil guards dispersed a group demonstrating for liberty for political prisoners. Two guards were wounded in the battle. A Spanish naval detachment arrived in Barcelona this afternoon.

GAS FATAL TO SEAMSTRESS.

Miss Elizabeth Smith, 64 years old, 122 Clyde avenue, Evanston, a seamstress, died in St. Francis hospital yesterday from the effects of gas she inhaled in the kitchen of her home. She left a note indicating despondency over ill health.

CITY STREETS TOO BAD FOR CITY TRUCKS

Alaska Shaken by Quake; Damage Believed Small

SEWARD, Alaska, March 30.—(AP)—Seward residents were awakened early today by earth tremors. Similar shocks were felt several weeks ago. Today's shocks were of short duration, beginning at 1:15 a. m. No serious damage was reported.

BLAMES FAHERTY MEN FOR HOLES IN MONROE ST.

Contractors working under Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, were blamed by Superintendent of Streets Joseph J. Butler for failure to fill in the sewer holes in West Monroe street which have made the thoroughfare almost impassable. Butler is a subordinate of Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe.

Holes were ripped in the Monroe street pavement in the vicinity of Wood, Peoria, and Loomis streets in laying a sewer line last summer. They have not been repaired. Property owners have been told at Faherty's department that Wolfe was responsible and at Wolfe's department that Faherty was responsible.

"The bureau of streets makes repairs out of the vehicle tax fund and is not to blame for the Monroe street situation,' said Butler. "That's the fault of the board of local improvements contractors. Assessments were supposed to have paid for the work and they should have done it."

Complaints of bad pavement conditions reached the hall from other sections of the city. Residents in Robey street between Diversey and Belmont avenues said their street is a menace to automobile tires and springs. The same condition exists on Paulina street between Diversey and Barry avenues. The street is particularly rough near a large bill board advertising that the street is to be paved by the city administration.

EVERY BATCH OF COFFEE ROASTED BY ORDINARY METHODS CAN HAVE A DIFFERENT FLAVOR. CONTROLLED ROASTING—HILLS BROS' PATENTED PROCESS—ASSURES UNVARYING FLAVOR. TRY HILLS BROS COFFEE TODAY

TASTING is believing! Bulk-roasting, the ordinary method of roasting coffee, can't compare with Hills Bros.' patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting. For this exact process roasts every berry evenly with the result that the famous Hills Bros. flavor and aroma are assured in every pound. Think of this when you buy coffee.

Remember, too, that whenever or wherever you buy Hills Bros. Coffee, it is always fresh. Hills Bros.' process of packing their coffee in vacuum removes air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, from the can and keeps it out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh.

Carrier-Pigeons and Waterloo

Nathan Meyer, third son of Meyer Amschel, was training carrier-pigeons while Englishmen were training race-horses. That was how he came to know of the fall of Napoleon at the Battle of Waterloo two days before the English knew of it. So, knowing for that reason that the English nation was going to survive instead of perish, he bought English consols instead of selling them. And this was the founding of the great fortune of the House of Rothschild.

The other Rothschilds were equally active with new methods. They established banking houses in various centers of Europe and transferred credits instead of transferring the money itself. There was a lot of danger in transferring a load of bullion. There was no danger in transferring a credit slip.

And that was the beginning of our modern credit system, whereby a man in New Zealand may pay a bill or make a purchase in New York at the click of a cable wire.

No wonder a glamour surrounds this name, which is seldom, if ever, accredited to money interests alone. The little sign which hung before the house in Frankfort, "Zum Rothen Schilde"—At the Red Sign—from which the very name of Rothschild (Red Shield) sprang, stood for far more than money interests alone.

The world has broadened in the hundred odd years since Baron Rothschild's sway. Financial and commercial thinking have become widespread. But here in this simple Jewish family from a little German town was the real beginning of all of our modern operations of today. They were the first to teach us that new methods are just as important to commerce and finance as they are to mechanical invention or mass production.

And this thorough understanding of what might be called "the greatest factor of the human race"—this thing that differentiates us more than anything else from all other animal life—is the element that is working at its peak capacity in America today. And it is probably more than anything else setting America ahead of the rest of the world.

Scientists call that factor "the capacity for the modification of conduct." In lay language we call it the capacity for making changes. Baron Rothschild made his changes out of the inspiration of genius. We Americans now make our changes scientifically. Because we know that this capacity for making changes is our particular role in the drama of life.

Nothing else, for example, could account for the way in which, within a period of ten short years, your American Manufacturer has turned a national labor market into a national consumer market.

Automatic machines were producing so fast that something had to be done about the matter of wider consumption. And something was done in the briefest historical period in which any great epochal change was ever made. An entire attitude toward civilization was turned upside down within a single decade to fit a new picture in the minds of a comparative handful of America's business men.

Here at True Story Magazine we have been able to trace the rise of the wage-earner into a consuming market so easily that a graph could be made of it from year to year.

Within a period of ten years, this American wage-earner has been brought up in the scale of possible outlet to where he now represents the consumption of sixty-eight per cent, by actual dollars, of all the things we make.

This, of course, not even the vision of a Rothschild could have foreseen. But theirs was the genius out of which our modern order of commerce and finance has undoubtedly sprung.

Today, through our new policies, we of America have definitely committed ourselves to the well-being of the largest sector of humanity. And all of our financial and commercial minds are now directed toward the welfare of America's wage-earning masses, to the end that they may become greater and greater consumers of all that they help to make.

What an interesting solution of the age-old struggle between money and men. Here is something that will probably go down through the ages as the turning point between personal power and human affairs.

True Story Magazine is very fortunate in an era like this, and with new thinking like this, to be practically the sole representative of more than two millions of these wage-earning Americans and the penetration point of millions more, at a time when the wage-earner has been built up to where he represents this enormous balance of consuming power.

So it isn't by accident that True Story Magazine's pages are filled with the advertising of these great manufacturers who have first built up this balance of consuming power and who must now use it to its full.

CONGRESSIONAL REAPPORTIONMENT.

It is believed in Springfield that the legislature is prepared to redistrict the state for congressional representation at this session. The refusal to correct the legislative inequalities has carried along with it the congressional representation thus far and there has been no change in districts for thirty years. The state has not lost seats in congress as the result, but there are two congressmen elected at large to whom districts should have been apportioned long ago.

Cook county, however, has lost votes in Washington. It has ten and is entitled to at least fourteen by applying the ratio to population. The assembly is unwilling to give the metropolitan area full and just representation in the state assembly, but may by now be persuaded that it would be well to clear itself of the double charge of nullification. Rural squires interested in the maintenance of inequitable representation in congress will object to surrendering seats illegally taken from the city, but their protests may be ineffective.

The rural legislators take care of their own interests by annulling the mandate for equal representation at Springfield and may not want to carry an extra load by doing the same job of nullification as to Washington. A part confession of wrongdoing and a remedy of the wrong will restore congressional representation to the citizens of Chicago, although the other evil will then be even more clamorous. Equality in both assemblies, citizen to citizen, throughout the state is the requirement of democratic government.

CEMENT OR BRICK?

The state department of public works has received bids for resurfacing and widening with brick 76 miles of old concrete roads. The opening of the bids was accompanied by a renewal of the controversy between cement and brick manufacturers. The brickmakers and their allies, the bricklayers, say the cement interests are trying to hog the business, while the cement manufacturers reply that a brick pavement is relatively expensive.

It is unfortunate that in this controversy the motorist who pays for the roads and uses them is not given the determining voice. The representatives of labor and of manufacturers are entitled to a hearing and consideration, of course, but the state is not justified in disregarding the preferences of motorists or in paying more for road building than is necessary.

THE VIRGIN ISLAND WAIFS.

President Hoover was unfavorably impressed by the Virgin islands and remarked that in purchasing them the United States seemed to have acquired a poorhouse. The policy of extinguishing foreign titles in American waters gave Denmark $25,000,000 for these possessions and a good riddance of them. The price was high and present American uses for them are undiscoverable. The theory that alien possession is potentially undesirable if not actually so is in general sound. The ouster of the foreign landlord is old American tradition, and whenever there is a chance to dispose of one he goes out.

The military value of the Virgin islands is next to unperceivable, but here again military theory is to neglect nothing. New methods make new uses, as the submarine demonstrated, and possession is the simplest precaution. The United States has these former Danish possessions and whatever that may mean to America it has been a bad turn of luck for the islanders. Changes in navigation, the substitution of oil for coal, hurt them and our moral laws descended on them like a hurricane, leaving them flat. Rum was one of their profitable products and the Volstead act devitalized that. All told, the transfer from Danish to American rule has proved a blight to people who had nothing to say about it and do not now see their way out of it.

Certainly Americans are kindly enough to dislike to be the cause of misfortune to people who have been shifted from one control to another without power to help themselves. They are not wanted as citizens and it is to be hoped will not become citizens. If, as Mr. Hoover says, the thing has been a bad bargain for the United States, it has been a worse one for the Virgin islanders, with the difference that the United States exercised its own free will and the islanders had none. They need a helping hand and a releasing one. It is a major moral obligation for the American government to put these people in the way of living as they want to live, seeing that they get something to live on.

If rum is their way out of an economic hole they should be allowed to make their rum. An extension of the most favored state provision would cover this situation. If California can be indulged in the grape concentrate production with the sanction of Volstead and a subsidy from the farm board, the Virgin islands could be allowed to make their own brand of intoxicant. It at least would not be imported legally into the United States. The California intoxicant goes all over the country.

As Mr. Hoover saw the islanders they are hopeless and helpless. That condition is a scandal to the United States, which seems to have bought so many slaves of circumstance.

THE COURSE OF REVOLUTION.

An Italian reform of the courts of assizes will include the abolition of the jury system and the substitution of a judicial body consisting of two judges and five assessors drawn for each criminal trial. The assessors will be nonprofessional, but will be selected from a restricted list of citizens, the object being to exclude the average man and procure the services of men of exceptional moral and intellectual fitness.

Mussolini thus makes another exclusion of the democratic theory and goes toward the standard of the Platonian republic, control on the higher level of intelligence. That is the theory of the new Italian state, but the reality is mostly Mussolini, as it is in Russia all Stalin.

At the same time the German republic has found it necessary to counter against both Fascism and communism by a suspension of constitutional guaranties and the imposition of government by a species of dictatorship warranted by an emergency provision of the German constitution. Mussolini goes back to Plato, President Hindenburg to Cromwell. Revolutions find their ruts waiting for them, and the pattern of their course and procedure is an ancient one. The left and the center overthrow the right, and then the left and the center fight it out between themselves with the right hovering for the break which will restore its ascendancy.

If Cromwell or Napoleon is present the result may be as it was in England and France, with the Stuarts or the Bourbons just over the border and coming back. If there is no iron man it may be as in Russia, and the moderates follow the monarchists to exile or to death. Italy and Germany are going the Cromwellian way, with the exception that Germany has the institution which the English revolutionists could not find and which the American revolution presented to the scheme of democracy, the elected executive in an office of great power but limited tenure. The distinction between Germany and Italian prospects may be contained in that one decisive factor. Germany has an executive continuity independent of heredity or force.

The English revolutionary democrats could not find the device and their failure has been final to this date. The failure made the revolution a tragedy for the simple enthusiasts who had fought it with the bravery famous in the Ironsides; it sent Cromwell despairing and hunted into the dictatorship and it brought back the monarchy. The American was the most fortunate of revolutions. Its foremost men had character as well as intelligence. They were not disturbed by religious differences. The country had a future of promise rather than a past of injuries. There were no great distinctions between men and men. The property interests were not overwhelming, and the persons of small means were not in despair. The leaders grasped the great idea of the elective executive of limited tenure and the government was safe in its harbor.

THE CUBAN COURT CHECKS MACHADO.

The Cuban Supreme court has given a decision against President Machado's suspension of newspaper publication, holding that he acted in violation of the constitutional provision for free speech when he shut down presses which had published information and criticism distasteful to the government. Mr. Machado set forth the necessity of public security and order as reason for the prohibition of publication but without any showing that there was an emergency or that the newspaper comment was contrary to the public good.

Cuba has the aspects of a dictatorship with prospects which have not been any too encouraging for the development of free democratic government. Its administration shows the color every now and then of an unconstitutional government operating by imperious will for personal or partisan advantage with force as the controlling element and with intrigue and violence as the opposition. A strong set in this direction can be met in one of two ways, one unfortunate, the other desirable.

Usurpation of government can be stopped by revolution or it can be checked by judicial process. The latter will make a democracy. The former may produce only a succession of autocracies. On the surface the Cuban Supreme court seems to have retained the will, the ability and the character to enforce the constitution when the rights and privileges guaranteed under it were impaired. The danger in autocracy is that an independent court will be swept aside or coerced, but so long as the court retains jurisdiction and integrity it will preserve the liberties which the laws in theory protect.

The decision in defense of the freedom of speech, if it governs, will be an effectual check on a partisan president seeking illegal control.

Editorial of the Day

ATHLETIC LEVELING PROCESS.

[Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph.]

There is at this time many a debate being waged on college campus and fraternity hearths on the question of the North Central and its efforts to regulate sports.

One of the great concerns of the North Central is said to be over the recruiting of athletes by the larger universities. The larger institutions could well afford to inform the North Central that they will abolish recruiting if the small schools will quit soliciting students. The big schools could afford to lose the few good athletes they get this way much easier than could the small schools afford to lose students they acquire through their field agents without which the small colleges would have a hard time to keep going.

There seems to be a bit of communism in the North Central theory. They would do away with star athletes, disregarding their value in stimulating interest in games; they would take the kick out of the big football games, disregarding the interest they create in education through pageantry and glamour, just as the communists would destroy the rich man, disregarding the stimulation his prestige and standard of living gives to initiative, industry, and thrift.

But if the people want athletics they'll have what they want, some way or other, regardless of the college board of athletic censorship.

SEPTIC TANKS.

J. S. writes: Could you write an article about septic tanks for use where there is no sewage system available? What are the bacteria that act upon the night soil to liquefy it? Have ordinary maggots anything to do with it, as there is, I believe, a common notion that these latter play some part in the process. It is also thought that putting bread into the toilet has a favorable hastening action. Is it so? Can anything be done to start up the reaction in the tank?

REPLY.

Septic tanks are in wide use where there is no connection with sewers and they should be used much more frequently than they are. The yard privy is all right from the health standpoint when it is properly constructed; where the soil is of the right kind; where there is no direct seepage into a well, stream, or lake used for water supply; and where the house is used by a few people only. Under other circumstances some kind of tank should be used. A septic tank is one form and a good one for use where more complicated systems are not called for.

In a septic tank the sewage flows very slowly and bacteria have an opportunity to do their work. The bacteria are known as anaerobis because they work in media that contain very little oxygen. They are also known as liqueflers.

While the septic tank action is called one of purification, and the term is the right one in part, a better one is liquefaction. The bacteria convert solids into gases and liquids. The gases escape into the air through the vents, the liquids flow off through pipes as effluents. Neither gas nor effluent is wholly purified nor wholly inoffensive. Both contain putrefaction products that have been put in condition for rapid purification. In other words, the septic tank action is a preputrefaction process, a first step towards the ultimate. The preparation having been made, the ultimate is rather easily attained.

In making use of a septic tank the chief necessity is for right operation, especially avoidance of overloading. Next in order is right construction. Whether throwing bread into a tank in operation would be of service I do not know. I never knew of it being done, nor had I read of it prior to receiving your letter. I would advise you to try seeding, as is done with the activated sludge method. That consists in throwing a shovel of material from an old privy into the septic tank. The best material is some liquid taken from a concrete or brick vault privy.

"WASH NIGHT DISEASE."

M. E. F. writes: My baby of 20 months has broken out with a rash which I think is chicken pox. Will you please tell me what are the symptoms and how long it takes to go away? Does it form blisters containing a white liquid?

REPLY.

I am sure you are right. The chicken pox eruption is a blister and it appears to sit on the skin. Generally these blisters are discovered accidentally. That's why chicken pox is sometimes called the "wash night disease" or the "Saturday night disease."

The diagnosis is generally based on a history of exposure, an incubation period of about three weeks, the slight constitutional disturbance, the appearance of the blisters, the fact that they are around the palms and soles, that they come in crops, and that a crop is generally dried up in one week.

RUBBER CHECKS.

Chicago, March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About a year ago a friend of mine from California gave me three personal checks on an out of town bank. Several weeks later the checks came back with a notice from the bank that there was no such name on their books. 1. Could I obtain a warrant from local police that would last me for about four years, as I don't know when I'll see him again? 2. Could I prosecute him on the same warrant in any other state? E. W.

1. The practice is to treat the warrant as good for only 30 days.
2. No. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

STREET LIGHTS.

Chicago, March 31.—[Friend of the People.]—Please advise when electric street lights will be installed on Indiana avenue between 99th street and 103d street. The street is paved. W. E. D.

This location is included in our 1931 bond issue street lighting program, and the lights in question will be in operation some time this year. MICHAEL J. KENNEDY,

SALES COMMISSIONS.

Chicago, March 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a real estate salesman. A few weeks ago A telephoned me and told me to see B, a friend of his, and try to sell him a lot. During the time I was trying to sell B a lot some one placed a bungalow in the market at a bargain. I called B and told him about this bargain. The next day B took over this bungalow on a trade. The following day B came to our office in answer to the call to see the bungalow. I telephoned A and told him that B wanted to see the bungalow. A said, "We cannot show him the bungalow now because the first owner has not yet moved out, but send him over to my house and I'll talk to him." I asked, "Will you count me in on the commission?" and he said he would. A sold the bungalow to B and refused to pay commission, saying B was his friend. If I explain the matter to the office and the office sues A is there any chance of collecting the commission. G. N. P.

Since the bungalow belonged to A, no question of splitting a commission was involved. Hence, the language used would seem inappropriate. We will assume that A was not a broker and that "counting you in on the commission" meant that you were to get the full commission. The mere fact that the customer and the broker were already acquainted is not enough to defeat an otherwise valid claim for a broker's commission, if that is what you mean to ask.

We incline to the opinion that your chances of collecting are good enough to warrant the employment of an attorney.

If, when A originally put you in touch with B, it was merely a favor without expectation of remuneration, then your present insistence on the letter of the law would seem somewhat grasping.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WHISKERS, MEN; THEY'RE YOUR ONLY HOPE!

We men should stand firm for Jim Ham Lewis for President in 1932. Col. Lewis is not only a statesman, but more important in this rising wave of feminism he wears a noble set of whiskers. The girls have grabbed about everything we men have claimed as peculiarly our own; they've even swiped our pajamas and overalls and wear 'em all over the lot, and when you look at the picture of some one or other in the newspapers nowadays you wouldn't know whether it's a bathing beauty or the half back of a college football team except for the name underneath. And that doesn't always help, for the girls are commencing to call themselves by their initials instead of Daisy or Lucinda or Mae.

Whiskers are the proudest badge of masculinity we have. The basketball team of the House of David of Benton Harbor is the one picture we can look at and feel sure we are not gazing at the girls in the Daisy Chain at Vassar. The House of David boys have whiskers to their knees and you know right away they are he's.

Whiskers are one thing the girls can't steal from men. They wear our coats, collars and neckties, and cut their hair just like men do, and put on our hats, but they can't raise whiskers. We dare 'em. In this machine gun age we're getting more and more standardized every day. All the girls and men are beginning to dress and look alike. The only hope for men is to raise whiskers, chin whiskers, Burnsides, long, drooping, lace curtain whiskers, imperials, any kind, just so they're whiskers.

Col. Jim Ham should be our candidate for President on that question alone. If he is President he will set an example to youth all over the country and whiskers will begin to sprout here, there and everywhere. More than that, he can probably have a law passed requiring all males of the country to let their whiskers grow under penalty. It should be made a part of the constitution. Let us have another amendment. It seems to be about the only thing we can do, men, where the girls can't beat us at our own game. 'Rah for whiskers! Write to your congressman today.

TO ONE UNTOUCHED BY THE YEARS.

Long years have come to you, but have not left you old;
Winters have gripped your heart, but have not made it cold;
Riches have been your lot, but not of hoarded gold.
You have taken toll of Time; Time not of you,
Reaping even as you sowed, perennial harvests through,
Treasuring rare books and dreams and friends that were true.

EOLUS.

WASHINGTON seems inclined suddenly to do something for the Indians. Great Britain is having a lot of trouble trying to quiet the Indians, but under the way we handled the thing it's now very simple. Most of 'em's dead.

THEY MUST BE USED FOR SOMETHING.

A gentleman in Chicago sues for divorce because his lady wife hit him over the head with an unabridged dictionary. That is very hard to believe, because from the number of people who write to the Line for the meaning of the simple little word "lagniappe" there is no such a thing as an unabridged dictionary in the country except the one we own. And think of the mispronounced words you hear in conversation every day or over the radio. The lady may have hit friend husband with a Vest Pocket Dictionary, or Little Treasure Dictionary, or even a High School Dictionary, but not an Unabridged. Even people who own unabridged dictionaries use them only for pressing pants or to put in a chair so that Junior can sit at the dinner table. But, wait! Perhaps they're also used to chuck at husbands. We must look into this.

AH, NOW, FOR REAL HUMOR. LYKELL, LYKELL!

Are you all ready? The salt fixed ready for the sugar bowl, the bricks under the hat, the signs painted, "Kick Me," ready to tie on coattails? And the little memorandums all written ready to leave on the desk to call Mr. Camel at whatever the telephone number of the Lincoln park zoo happens to be, or Mr. Star at the Adler planetarium, or Mr. Barker at the number the telephone directory gives for the dog pound. It's April Fool's day tomorrow and all you village cutups get busy. And we will give one silver plated hot dog sandwich for a trick that isn't so old that it's got long gray whiskers and has to be carried around on a stretcher.

NARCISSUS.

(Another flower fable for Bill.)

Once upon a time, Narcissus
Was a lovely Grecian elf;
But, alas! his chiefest blisses
Were admiring of himself.
Every day he made inspection
Into every woodland pool,
Gazing at his own reflection.
Said the gods, "The boy's a fool!"
So they changed him to a flower
Growing by the water's brim,
So he could improve each hour
Seeing what they'd done to him.
But the saddest part of this is:
Other boys have taken warning.
They're afraid to ape Narcissus,
So they won't wash of a morning!

STRENUOUS TIMES FOR THE PARTY ORATOR

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 31, 1915.

WASHINGTON.—Discovery of an alleged German plot to unleash a large number of warships to raid British shipping in both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans has stirred Great Britain to extraordinary activity. According to British authorities, the German plan involves the employment of all German merchant craft now in American ports to supply the fleets of the raiders with coal and munitions of war. The British government, through its ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, urges drastic action by the United States to prevent German vessels acquiring supplies of this character, and asks that the United States limit the supply of coal to German merchant vessels.

LONDON.—Dispatches indicate that Germany is sending heavy forces to the battle front in the Carpathian mountains, in the hope of bolstering up the weakened Austrian army and preventing the threatened invasion of Hungary by Russia.

LONDON.—It is officially announced that among the missing passengers of the steamer Falaba, which was sunk by a German submarine, is Leon Chester Flasher, an American engineer. He had an American passport. The Daily Mail raises the question whether the Washington government will permit a belligerent to destroy an unoffending passenger ship carrying an American citizen without giving that citizen a chance to escape.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 31, 1901.

CHICAGO. — Allen Walton Gould, head of the department of languages in the Chicago institute and former pastor of the Unitarian church of Hinsdale, was found dead in his home, 1782 Wrightwood avenue. Death resulted from asphyxiation and a coroner's jury declared it accidental.

CHICAGO.—Judge Elbridge Hanecy's mayoralty campaign practically was brought to a close and managers of his committee claim his election is assured on next Tuesday by a majority ranging from 20,000 to 60,000. Robert E. Burke, giving the Democratic view of the situation, used no detailed figures, but insisted that Mayor Harrison will win.

WASHINGTON. — Gen. Fred Funston was appointed by President McKinley as a brigadier general in the regular army as a reward for his bravery in the capture of Aguinaldo. Gen. Lloyd Wheaton was made a major general and Col. Jacob H. Smith was promoted to a brigadier generalcy. President McKinley and his advisers, after prolonged discussion, decided that Aguinaldo, now a prisoner in Manila, will not be tried for treason, and unless the captured rebel leader has ordered his followers to commit acts in violation of the rules of civilized warfare he will not be tried at all.

RICHMOND, Va.—John Jasper, the celebrated Negro preacher who became famous because of his sermon on "The Sun Do Move," died here at the age of 82.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 31, 1881.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Gov. Cullom appointed Samuel H. Jones of Sangamon county and Herman Benze commissioners for the Joliet penitentiary and John Reynolds of Chicago to be chief grain inspector in that city.

LONDON.—The condition of Lord Beaconsfield [Benjamin Disraeli] is still critical and the belief is general throughout London that he cannot recover. He suffered dreadfully throughout the night from paroxysms of asthma.

LONDON.—Turkey is said to be willing to cede to Greece territory in Thessaly, to rectify the frontier line of Epirus, to dismantle the fortifications of Prevesa and to declare neutrality in the Gulf of Arta. Representatives of the powers agree that Greece ought to be satisfied with these concessions.

LONDON.—Herr Most, editor of the London Freiheit, a nihilist organ, was arrested in his office on the charge of inciting through his paper the people of a foreign state to sedition and rebellion. Police ejected the compositors, took the keys and locked up the premises. Socialists held a meeting today to protest against the suppression of the paper.

FORECLOSURE THREATENED.

Forest Park, Ill., March 24.—I have a home in Maywood, Ill., worth $10,000. I have a first mortgage of $4,000 now due. The bank says the people who hold the mortgage want a $1,000 reduction or they will foreclose.

I have tried all other banks with the same results. I had a second mortgage on it which I paid up, but cannot get a second mortgage now.

Are the people who are the backbone of the nation to be forced to let the banks take their homes away from them? Between high taxes, assessments, etc., it makes the hard working people lose confidence in human nature. All I dreamed of was to have my home paid for. After skimping and saving, then, this happens.

I wonder if other people are suffering the same way? Why can't the federal reserve banks make loans to property owners instead of associated banks gouging and squeezing the poor people out of their life's savings?

M. RIDGEWAY.

A WELL-REMEMBERED TREE.

Evanston, March 25.—I am pleased to corroborate the statement made in Mr. George C. Howland's letter of March 21 in which he made mention of the fact that his grandfather, John Gray, was the owner of an orchard containing Golden Russet apple trees at Milwaukee avenue and Addison street, now the site of the Carl Schurz High school.

I was somewhat amused in reading Mr. Howland's letter as reminiscence brought me back to my early schooldays, which is about twenty-five years ago. This orchard was well guarded, but there was one tree which was alongside of the fence surrounding the property whose luscious fruit would have been a temptation to any boy. I would pass this tree four times a day on my way to and from school and would never overlook the opportunity to try my luck. If my aim with the missile thrown at the branches extending over the sidewalk was particularly good I would have much satisfaction in eating those delicious Golden Russet apples.

ANDREW J. HALVORSEN.

ARRESTED IN LA GRANGE.

Chicago, March 25.—I was in La Grange Sunday, visiting with my relatives, and after leaving I was awaiting a Chicago street car when I was accosted by a few of the police department's officers. After informing them where I had been and where I was going they insisted that I accompany them to the police station. This was about 12:05 a. m. Well, I told them to go over to my relatives, who have resided there for twenty-two years, and they would verify my statement, and they laughed and said, "It won't hurt you to spend the night in jail on account of suspicion." The next morning at 9 the chief of police said that after midnight every nonresident is subject to suspicion.

CLARENCE C. DOLLE.

JIM REED.

Dubuque, Ia., March 27.—Mr. Gutzon Borglum's tribute to ex-Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, that "he has one of the strongest faces that he ever modeled," should be heeded by all true Americans. Mr. Reed is the outstanding American of today. It would be well for the political parties to consider him as their candidate for the presidency next year.

T. J. ELLIOTT.

WHEN DOGS BARK.

Des Moines, Ia., March 25.—H. B. asks for information from some one understanding dogs as to how to act when a dog comes out barking.

I have trained dogs ever since a boy of 6, which was a good many years ago. My suggestion is that when a dog comes out barking you have no fear, as there is much truth in the old saying "Barking dogs never bite." When a dog barks it is either because he is happy or because he is afraid, and he barks to put up a "bluff." When a dog comes out barking act natural, look him square in the eyes and keep going, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred he will put his tail between his legs and feel ashamed of himself.

308 Westwood drive.

PALMS UP.

Chicago, March 25.—The next time H. B. is approached by a dog, let him just walk on slowly, ignoring dog, and he will not be molested. A dog presents fear more than antagonism, for dogs are bluffers and seem to get pleasure out of scaring people with their barking, while on the other hand they respect the measure of courage shown by the person who scolds back, even in antagonism. Never hurry or run away from a dog, as running tempts a dog to chase you, and no matter how fast you run, a dog can run faster. Never try to beat off a dog with your hands, palms down, because hands, palms down, suggest claws to a dog and rouse an instinctive antagonism which dates back to prehistoric days when dogs had to defend themselves from animals with claws. So if you wish to make friends with a dog approach him with hands palms up, which indicates you are friendly and perhaps are offering him something to eat. If you are afraid to walk slowly when a dog barks at your heels, then stand still and keep your hands still, placing them on your chest, and the dog will lose interest in you and leave you alone.

MRS. J. H. ALBERDING.

WHISTLE.

Chicago, March 26.—All a person has to do when attacked by a dog is to make a motion as if to pick up a stone and it is a hundred to one that Mr. Dog will beat a retreat. It is also advisable to whistle, as one does when calling a dog; this will make him stop, look, and listen, and in that short span of time the battle is won.

W. N.

AN ICE MAN'S TESTIMONY.

Evanston, March 26.—Had I been Mr. H. B.'s place when bothered by the barking dog I would have proceeded on my way with as much disregard for the dog as it was possible to show. Having been an ice man in a dog infested town, I probably have been barked at by more dogs than has the city dog catcher, but that is all—just barked at.

M. G.

TIME OUT TO BITE.

Hobart, Ind., March 25.—The statement that barking dogs do not bite is true in one sense of the word: no dog is able to bite a person while barking, though he is known to take time off and bite awhile. As a general rule the dog that bites rarely barks.

CHINA PROVINCES READY TO RISE AGAINST NANKING

Angry at Chiang's Failure to Suppress Reds.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, March 30.—Telegrams today from foreigners indicate increasing reaction against the Nanking government and also an extension of communist activity. The Reds are making rapid headway, causing great uneasiness in Nanking. The foreign legations are concerned lest the movement become anti-foreign.

Western Fukien and Hunan provinces are being overrun by communists from Kangsi, who have established soviet rule in several places. At Changsha, where several American mission institutions are located, including Yale-in-China, the students are reliably reported to be organizing for violence.

Five Provinces Unite.

The move for the federation of five southwest provinces, extending from Kwantung to Szechwan, in opposition to President Chiang-Kai-shek, is apparently reaching a stage where a break is imminent, chiefly due to the government's inability to make progress against communism and the bandit armies.

Gen. Chiang has sent 24 skilled detectives to the southwest provinces to investigate the possibility of this uprising being due to the removal of Hu Han-min as a cabinet minister recently. Leaders of these provinces conferring at Hongkong and Canton indicate that a rupture is possible before the Kuomintang (people's) convention in May.

Meanwhile communist activities are extending to further regions south of the Yellow river, where Nationalist troops are refusing to fight them, chiefly because of financial difficulties in Nanking, and that they have not received their pay. Many are joining the bandit armies.

Wealthy Chinese Flee.

Much uneasiness is felt in the region around Hankow, where foreign concessions are rapidly filling with wealthy Chinese who are concentrating there because of communist threats against them.

The Japanese report a plot has been unearthed in Hankow to assassinate officials of Hupeh province.

Consuls throughout the region are now keenly alert. Nanking, unable to meet the provincial demands for money, is now arranging an issue of an $80,000,000 loan at nine and six-tenths per cent interest, payable monthly. This will be effected by special customs and levies.

Fire on Japanese Troops.

TOKIO, March 30.—(AP)—A delicate situation between Chinese and Japanese at Mukden, Manchuria, in which Chinese police fired on Japanese troops last night, was settled today by an apology from Chinese authorities, it was reported here. Practicing maneuvers, the Japanese troops were mistaken for bandits and fired on by Chinese police. The Japanese charged and captured their assailants, seizing their weapons.

ITALY JAILS REDS AFTER PRINCE IS PERILED BY BOMB

TURIN, Italy, March 30.—(AP)—It was disclosed today that a crudely made bomb containing black powder exploded yesterday morning in the Piazzo Castello, close to the wing of the royal palace occupied by Prince Humbert, heir to the Italian throne, and his wife, Princess Marie José.

An army lieutenant leading a squad of soldiers into the square as the guard was changing kicked it out of the way and it exploded without doing any damage.

Several alleged communists have been arrested in connection with the incident, but none of them so far as is known have been directly connected with the bomb.

ASKS LAW TO BAR U. S. SERVICE MEN IN WET PANAMA

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, March 30.—Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa announced today that he will introduce in the next congress a measure to prohibit soldiers and sailors entering Panama as well as other countries where liquor is sold. He said conditions in Panama are "rotten and outrageous."

"Last night after church in Balboa," he said, "I drove through the restricted district, where I saw drunken soldiers and sailors staggering along, while just across the Canal Zone on July Fourth avenue, I saw clusters of saloons crowded with Americans. It is disgraceful and I will stop it."

"Must Keep Soldiers Out."

When reminded that sailors are ordered to their ships at 6 o'clock each evening, the senator replied that that was not so bad, but that the soldiers must not enter the city while it is wet.

Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, commanding the Panama canal department, refused to comment on Senator Brookhart's remarks. Gen. Brown had already issued orders refusing leave for soldiers after 11:30 p. m.

Senator Brookhart's fishing trip to the Pearl islands on a Canal Zone tug this week may be a flop unless he goes alone. The members of the proposed party, which included Canal Zone residents and prominent Panama business men, are all giving alibis, intimating that they will not go unless the ship carries beer and liquors.

One man said Senator Brookhart had refused to attend the banquet Friday for former Representative Edward C. Denison of Illinois because the party was planned to be wet.

Envoy "Too Busy."

Another Prominent Panaman remarked:

"A dry fishing party with Senator Brookhart aboard, Caramba!"

American Minister Roy T. Davis was invited to accompany Senator Brookhart, but he said today:

"I am very busy this week, but will try to fly to the Pearl islands and join the party for a day."

Evening papers here today published the senator's attacks on Panama's wetness. They sneered cynically:

"He says he can enforce prohibition in the United States. Then why does he not return and do it instead of coming here and interfering in our affairs? He has been here but a few hours and is telling us how to run our country."

BURN 30 BARRELS OF MASH.

Benton, Ill., March 30.—[Special.]—Sheriff Browning Robinson and deputies discovered a log house and thirty barrels of mash in Green River bottoms last night. The still had been removed just before arrival of officers. Returning later to haul away the mash, officers found everything had been burned.

ROAD DAMAGE BY BUSES FACES LEGISLATIVE QUIZ

Chynoweth to Ask House for Board of Inquiry.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 30.—[Special.]—Heavy trucks and motor buses are causing such damage to Illinois highways that a legislative investigation is warranted, Representative U. C. Chynoweth [Rep., Decatur] said today and announced that a resolution calling for a board of inquiry will enter the house this week.

"Under private automobile travel, our roads would last indefinitely," said Mr. Chynoweth. "But no pavement has yet been discovered which can stand up against the terrific punishment imposed by commercialized fleets which are turning the publicly built roads into private rights-of-way for their own profit.

Busses, Trucks Blamed.

"There seems to be a general feeling among the private car owners and taxpayers, that the operators of buses and trucks have been bilking the public, and now the public has started to rebel, as always happens when its tolerance and good nature are abused. We are building our roads three and four times as strong, and at three and four times the consequent expense of much simpler specifications which would suffice were the highways used only by the private cars for which they originally were designed."

If the house passes the Chynoweth resolution, the legislator said, the investigating committee will be asked to determine these facts:

1. To what extent organized highway carriers are monopolizing the roadways.

2. The extent of damage they are causing the road beds.

3. The annual cost to taxpayers for repairs and maintenance of these roads as a result of the increased destruction.

Amount of Revenue Received.

4. The amount of revenue received from bus and truck companies for road repairs, as compared with other taxpayers.

5. What steps should be taken to place buses and trucks under responsible public control.

6. What equitable taxes should be imposed on buses and trucks commensurate with their use of the highways.

"The differential in the cost of heavier construction of roads and heavier and more frequent repairs," Chynoweth added, "should be borne by every right by the buses and trucks which would go out of business over night if the public refused to continue subsidizing the road beds over which they ply their highly profitable and unregulated business."

HOOVER CHEERED BY MARCH REPORT ON EMPLOYMENT

February Revival of Business Kept Up.

cies. All committees excepting the budget, housing, and state-wide activities committees will be dissolved. Authority of all existing committees will be placed in the hands of an administrative committee, consisting of all officers of the commission, Philip R. Clarke and James Keeley.

The plans for the reduction of the staff and the discontinuing of a large portion of the work of the commission were agreed on yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee. A marked decline in the number of families applying for relief and a noticeable increase in employment were given as the reasons for curtailing the commission's activities.

Getz Thanks Officials.

After the reading of the final report by Wilfrid S. Reynolds, secretary to the executive commission, George F. Getz, chairman of the commission, thanked the members for their coöperation.

"The entire work of the commission has been an inspiration," he said. "Throughout the entire campaign there has been no trouble or dissention between the members of the commission. The city as a whole is to be congratulated on the way it has responded to the pressing need."

Total pledges of the campaign were $5,015,212. Total receipts were $4,385,906. Total disbursements were $3,063,576.93, leaving a balance on hand of $1,322,329. There still are $629,306 in pledges outstanding.

Raising Fund Main Task.

Raising of the $5,000,000 relief fund, which was done under the supervision of Mr. Clarke, ended the major portion of the commission's duty. The forecast of the budget committee is that present funds will extend to Sept. 30.

The present plan is to close the special work division May 1. Lodging house facilities will be reduced 1,150 men on April 1, 1,999 on April 15, 2,050 on May 1, and by June 1 to discontinue appropriations for emergency lodgings. The rate on family relief will be reduced to enable the funds to reach to Sept. 30.

According to the report, the number of families given relief by the six family agencies increased from 10,650 in October, 1930, to 37,025 in February, 1931, exclusive of those cared for by church, county, and suburban agencies. In addition to the six agencies family relief was carried on through thirty-five neighborhood settlements and fifteen protective and service agencies.

$1,100,000 Paid in Wages.

Besides direct family contributions the budget committee made appropriations of $1,100,000 for wages through a special division of the state free employment department. Eight thousand and nineteen heads of families were given wages for work developed in coöperation with public, tax supported and semi-public, voluntarily supported agencies.

In eighteen shelters throughout the city an average of 6,000 to 8,000 homeless men and women were given food and shelter daily. Medical aid has been provided through nine dispensaries and hospital departments. Three child agencies have been maintained. In a number of the shelters services other than food and lodgings, such as repair work for clothing, barbering, and special employment have been rendered.

Of the campaign fund of $5,000,000 not a cent was spent for operating purposes. All office equipment, clerical help, and expenses was borne by members of the commission and disinterested citizens. A special vote of thanks was given by the commission to a long list of business institutions and individuals who made the work possible.

Asks Court to Declare Her Midget Husband Dead

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Irene O. Bagonghi, four feet tall, wants her midget husband declared legally dead. She asked the District of Columbia Supreme court today to adjudge him dead because she neither had seen nor heard from him since May, 1923. They were married in November, 1922, and five months later her husband left her here and went to New York without telling her of his plans, she said.

FOR ANY CHILD

CHILDREN are happy and carefree by nature, so when they cry for no apparent reason any careful mother worries. No one can always guess just what is wrong but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as baby has a fretful spell, is feverish and cross and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes it is constipation. Just keep Castoria handy and give freely for any of the above conditions; relief will follow promptly.

All through babyhood, Castoria is a mother's standby, and wise mothers do not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Just increase the dose of Castoria and keep the youngster's stomach sweet and the bowels in good order.

To be sure of getting genuine Fletcher's Castoria you should look for this signature: Chas. H. Fletcher

Miss Clara Laughlin Knows

• • Miss Clara E. Laughlin, author of the famous "So You're Going" books, and head of The Clara Laughlin Travel Services, who counsels and directs more travelers than any other individual in the world, has just returned from her first long trip via the SANTA FE.

• • She went on The Chief to the Coast to give a number of Travel Talks and to open her new offices in Los Angeles; and on the return trip made stops at Grand Canyon, the Petrified Forest, and Santa Fe—from which latter point she made the Indian-detour.

• • Miss Laughlin declares that nowhere else in the world as she knows it, is there anything comparable to the SANTA FE SYSTEM—not only the equipment of the trains, the personnel which makes each passenger feel like a distinguished guest, the justly-famous Harvey dining-cars, but the way travelers can stop off at many points of great interest, find a first-rate Harvey hotel, step into a beautiful limousine car driven by a gentlemanly and highly expert chauffeur, and be conducted by a courier-without-a-peer into the heart of a world of romance and beauty.

• • Miss Laughlin cannot say enough in praise of the Courier Corps—those college-bred young women, intensively trained in everything that makes them perfect guides and by nature endowed with everything that makes them highly agreeable companions.

• • "Is there, anywhere else," she asks, "a great railway system which not only transports one in speed, safety and luxury, but also arranges that wherever the traveler wishes to stop off, he has a hotel of charm and luxury, and even sees to it that when, on his motor tour in the elegant car it has provided him, he and his courier find a delightful Company rest-house and restaurant just where they are bound to be for luncheon?" "Why," she adds, "they even have at Grand Canyon, charming stopping-places set where one arrives for eleven o'clock bouillon and four o'clock tea!"

ACID after meals

GET RID of your dread of pain after eating. Eat without fear of "indigestion," sour stomach, disagreeable gas or headaches.

When your food ferments, "disagrees," lies like a lump in your stomach, it's a sign of too much acid. You need not resort to crude methods—take instead an anti-acid that will correct the condition. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of this pleasant-tasting, soothing fluid neutralizes many times its volume in acid. It restores the proper alkaline balance to an acid-soaked stomach and bowels—assists these organs to function as they should.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is what you need when a bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, nausea or biliousness indicates an over-acid condition. Take a spoonful today and for several days and see how it sweetens the system. You won't be nearly so liable to colds or sickness. All drugstores—in 25c and 50c bottles.

10,000 alert executives—

Because into these trading centers—many as big in buying power as several states put together—will go the major portion of manufactured products this year.

Selling through newspaper advertising will be a prime factor in moving this merchandise.

Newspaper advertising has long since proven its power in influencing—in stimulating—in actually bringing people in to buy.

Newspaper advertising strikes fast and sure. There is no lost motion—no spotty coverage —no waste distribution.

It reaches the people for whom your products are made—quickly—easily—economically.

Consider the complete coverage of the Cleveland Plain Dealer throughout this triple-million Trade Empire that skirts the shores of Lake Erie.

Here is one of the most compact, value-wise markets of America. Virile—confident—progressive—versatile—keen for the good things of life. Ever growing, ever alert, ever sure of itself—and eternally curious about the new, the better, the more desirable.

Think of it—the magnitude of the Cleveland Trade Empire! An unbroken chain of incorporated municipalities 100 miles long! An area embracing 31 counties, in which the population is 77% CITY population! A compact urban Trade Empire that buys more automobiles in a year than the whole state of Massachusetts!

Here, the Cleveland Plain Dealer is the only morning newspaper for 134 towns and cities! It's the "family friend" from Sandusky to Ashtabula, from Coshocton to Lake Erie. Whole communities look to the Plain Dealer for their news and for their buying guidance.

The Plain Dealer ALONE will sell the Cleveland Trade Empire. Wire or write—for full information.

THE CLEVELAND TRADE EMPIRE

consists of 31 counties in Northeastern Ohio. It buys more automobiles in a year than all Massachusetts. Its income tax returns exceed those of the entire state of Texas—its realty tax valuations are greater than the combined total of Florida, Georgia, and South Carolina! 134 towns and cities of more than 1,000 population—note them on the map—with per capita incomes 26% above the average for the entire country! Rich, busy, growing ever larger—that's the Cleveland Trade Empire.

"Enough If You Use It Enough"

IF NEW YORK IS MISSING SOME DAY, HERE'S WHY

15 Million Rats Growing Bolder Daily.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 30.—The rat situation in the metropolitan area has reached the stage where scientists have been called in to prevent the rodents from making a green cheese out of the city.

Today from Riker's island to the battery, New Yorkers are living above a catacomb rodent community of fifteen million or more inhabitants. There are organized rats carrying on warfare among the various tribes in the labyrynth of tunnels and pipe lines beneath the pavement of the city. There are rats as ferocious as small tigers in the dump heaps of Riker's island and in Flushing meadows there are rats that have been mistaken for jack rabbits.

Dr. Ladislaw Casaki of Budapest, president of Tres Ag, a scientific organization on rodent control, and Dr. Maurice Henenstock of Paris, rodent authority, have been here several weeks studying the rat problem. They have found the situation as bad as in any city in Europe, or worse.

Cause Millions of Damage.

New York's rats cause an estimated damage to goods of approximately $750,000,000 yearly. The United States public health service estimates the cost of maintenance of a rat is about one-half a cent a day and, what is more, these city rats live on the best in the land.

They are constantly migrating from east side to west side, from Riverside drive to the Bowery and from Chinatown to Park avenue. Health authorities have declared that if disaster, such as a severe flood, should force the army of rodents to the surface a great plague might follow.

A new poison deadly to the ordinary rodent has been tried out at Riker's island, but the chemists discovered they were dealing with no ordinary foe. The rats ate the chemical and thrived.

Tall stories have been told of the Riker's island rats. One swam ashore at Roslyn, L. I., and joined the Meadowbrook hunt one morning, it is said. He was mistaken for a hound and led the fox to the ground. Others have been known to steal golfers' best drives on the Piping Rock links.

Grow Bigger Than Cats.

The community council has just received an alarming and indignant report from the citizens of Corona, Queens, to the effect that a section of the city bordering on Flushing Meadows is being menaced by a "breed of rats, larger, hungrier, more vicious and more objectionable" than any of the famous rats on Riker's island.

"Many residents state," says the report, "that these rats are as large as house cats, fight when cornered, and reinforced basement walls, police dogs, traps, and poison have failed to keep them out of the house. A rat menace mass meeting already has been held."

A golf course in the process of birth on a former dumping site near Flushing has been partially eaten by a tribe of rats that travel in packs and have little fear of human beings. In Brooklyn the rats are so hard boiled that only last night a policeman, summoned by Mrs. Abraham Franks, had to shoot one three times before it tumbled down the stairs.

The opinions of the visiting scientists regarding the possible destruction of New York by rats was not concurred in by Dr. Charles Bolduan of the department of health. He thinks they overestimate the number of rats and the seriousness of the menace.

Plunges to Death from 32d Story of New York Hotel

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—Charles Braunstein, 32, leaped from a room on the thirty-second floor of the Hotel New Yorker this noon, landed on the roof of a fifth story extension, and died. A belt was twisted around his neck, indicating that he may have tried to hang himself, but failed. He left a note, addressed to Mrs. J. Braunstein of The Bronx. It said: "Dear Mother—Have gone to meet father. Charlie."

FLIES ACROSS OCEAN, BUT HAS TO SUBMIT TO TEST OF ABILITY

New York, March 30.—(AP)—A young fellow named Clarence Chamberlin underwent tests today at Roosevelt field, L. I., to determine whether he knows enough about aviation to deserve a transport license.

He's the same Chamberlin who flew across the Atlantic to Germany a few years back, and now he is New York City's official aviation adviser.

But Chamberlin fell afoul of federal regulations when he flew too low. He had also failed to renew his license. Hence the tests.

Inspector O. P. Harwood had the somewhat embarrasing duty to watch the famous flyer through a series of landings, takeoffs, and air maneuvers.

Chamberlin's tests, written and active, will be sent to Washington, where department officials will announce whether he got the answers right.

NEW YORK CITY CONTROLLER IS FACING CHARGES

Public Service Institute Seeks Removal.

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—In the midst of Tammany's efforts at housecleaning in advance of the legislative investigation of the city government, the latest move in which was a shakeup in the tenement house department, William H. Allen, director of the institute for public service, announced today that he had sent to Gov. Roosevelt charges against Controller Charles W. Berry with a view to the latter's removal. The controller asked for an immediate consideration of the charges.

Mr. Allen, who recently filed charges against Mayor James J. Walker, would not make public the text of the charges against Mr. Berry, but said that the governor had acknowledged their receipt. The charges accuse the controller of misuse and nonuse of his charter powers.

Charges to Committee.

Mr. Allen said that he also would present his charges against the controller to the legislative investigating committee as soon as it went into action, and declared that, with charges against the mayor pending, the public was prepared to learn more about sound principles of self-government than in ordinary times.

"Many of the major deficiencies charged against the mayor might have been prevented by the controller and the public should know it," Mr. Allen continued. "Bad methods under the best of men will misgovern as certainly as a neglectful mayor, and most of our bad methods are due to the controller's nonuse or misuse of vast charter powers."

Predict Mayor's Downfall.

More than 3,000 persons attended a mass meeting at Carnegie hall tonight and more than 1,000 gathered outside in an overflow meeting to hear members of the city affairs committee denounce the city administration as corrupt and inefficient, plead for the overthrow of Tammany Hall, predict a political Waterloo for Mayor Walker within 100 days, and urge immediate action by the city government on the committee's request for an appropriation of $25,000,000 for the relief of unemployment.

The shakeup in the tenement house department, which was ordered by Commissioner William F. Deegan, involved the transfer of fifty-four inspectors, plans examiners, and clerks in the Manhattan and Brooklyn offices of the department. Although a connection with the Tammany housecleaning program was indicated, Commissioner Deegan insisted that his order was one of his "periodic shifts for the good of the service."

William Gibbs McAdoo Jr. Is Fined for Drunkenness

Beverly Hills, Cal., March 30.—(AP)—William Gibbs McAdoo Jr. pleaded guilty today in a justice court at Sherman, near here, to charges of drunkenness and disturbing the peace. McAdoo and a companion, John W. Montgomery, were fined $10 each.

New Way to Drive Out Body Poisons Without Laxatives!

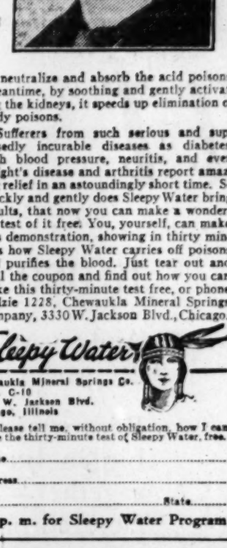
Physicians Praise Amazing New Relief for Tired, Run-down People

Remarkable Results Reported by Victims of Diabetes . . . Rheumatism . . . High Blood Pressure . . . Arthritis and Other Serious Ailments



TIRED, run-down people who catch cold easily, who lack pep and vitality are amazed at a wonderful health discovery. Instead of constant dosing with cathartics and laxatives, they have discovered a new way to eliminate the dangerous poisons that break down health and lower vitality.

Millions know that acid body poisons and wastes keep them from enjoying real health and good looks. But now doctors say that most people combat these poisons the wrong way. For these acid wastes—the same poisons that often cause and aggravate such serious common diseases as diabetes, high blood pressure, and arthritis—are in the blood. They cannot be reached by cathartics. They must be eliminated through the kidneys.

And now a wonderful new water—a mineral discovery—which physicians prescribe, is bringing back health and sparkle to victims of these poison wastes. It is called Sleepy Water, and many physicians describe it as a "kidney laxative." Two springs near Hot Springs, Arkansas, are the sole source of this water, which has a mineral content different from any other. Certain natural processes, which are not fully understood, cause Sleepy Water to contain certain proportions of chemicals and chemical combinations. Consequently its natural alkaline contents, which are different from any other spring water, act to neutralize and absorb the acid poisons. Meantime, by soothing and gently activating the kidneys, it speeds up elimination of body poisons.

Sufferers from such serious and supposedly incurable diseases as diabetes, high blood pressure, neuritis, and even Bright's disease and arthritis report amazing relief in an astoundingly short time. So quickly and gently does Sleepy Water bring results, that now you can make a wonderful test of it free. You, yourself, can make this demonstration, showing in thirty minutes how Sleepy Water carries off poisons and purifies the blood. Just tear out and mail the coupon and find out how you can make this thirty-minute test free, or phone Kedzie 1228. Chewaukla Mineral Springs Company, 3330 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago.

TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1931.  19

A Pre-view by Fanny Butcher

JOHN GALSWORTHY, our most distinguished literary visitor of the year, found last night a welcome unparalleled since heydays of English lecturers when he faced Orchestra hall full of people and because he is in no sense two faced he turned his back on a platform piled to the top with eager listeners.

JOHN GALSWORTHY.

His topic was "Literature and Life." If the subject seemed a broad one before his lecture, the audience found at its close that it was all-embracing, for in his petit, sauve, mannerly fashion Mr. Galsworthy alighted few phases of life, even if he did some phases of literature. What his audiences found most to their liking, judging from the amount of applause which greeted it, was his plea for a day consecrated to the Kellogg pact to outlaw war as an instrument of national policy.

"Just as you have days which commemorate your freedom and the cessation of strife in the great war, July 4th and Nov. 11th," he said, "the day of the signature of the Paris peace pact should be observed. I shall myself suggest to your President that he press this suggestion on the governments of the world.

"We need to be reminded that we have solemnly renounced war." He spoke on that theme at length and with passion [if his gentle mode of speech ever could be called passionate].

"We have reached the most poignant point in the human race," he said. "If we can assure peace we are set toward the most prosperous age of all time.

"The continuance of peace is the continuance of civilization. The havoc of the last great war was child's play in comparison with any future great war," he added. "With the developments in explosives and poison gases which science has made possible . . . Science should be untrammeled, but since there is little hope of changing human nature [which visionaries always have said will be the only way of insuring peace] every possible means should be used to make war unpopular."

Mr. Galsworthy's suggestion was that every nation make separate peace pacts with every other nation as well as foster such multi-lateral agreements as the Kellogg pact and the league of nations.

About the league, he said he felt he should not speak in America, other than to say that he thought it was impossible to put too many forces in opposition to war. Individual national agreements would have the human touch, he said, for "nations, like human beings, often will do of their own initiative what they will be told to do."

Earlier in the evening Mr. Galsworthy had defined a pessimist as "a man who wears both belt and braces."

"The question of peace," he said, "is a matter in which I am wearing both belt and braces. In 1931 not to believe in a league of peace for the world is to be a village idiot."

He was less solemn about literature than he was about life.

"Literature," he said, "is like the skeleton of a never ending snake, with each vertebra like the next and miraculously joined to it. Literature has a spine. I am a firm believer in the spine. I have a horror of contortion."

"Experimentation in the arts as in the science," he said at another moment, "is necessary, but only the one who experiments out of the necessity of his theme will create work that will last."

Novelty for novelty's sake is his idea of contortion.

The present is an extremely experimental period, he said. In England they are ready to welcome anything, although about America he could not speak with such positiveness. "Books come out with a bang and have the greatest difficulty surviving their publishers' advertisements. But time is like the income tax collector," he suggested, "not to be long put off by false returns."

"The artist is a child of a long line of true believers," he declared, "who have held their heads high and marched with their eyes on the star."

The star seems to be dancing about nowadays, he admitted, but the true artist today, like all true artists of all time, "plies his art for the greater grace and dignity of man."

Man is really happy only when he is completely taken out of himself, and to the novelist the only way he ever can really be taken out of himself is by the creation of characters. But, said Mr. Galsworthy a little dolefully, authors nowadays, as soon as they have written anything that has at all taken the fancy of the public, immediately are the victims of a conspiracy to keep them from ever forgetting themselves. He amusingly discussed the various pests of a writer's life, including the autograph seeker, whom he described thus: "As industrious as a beaver and as protective of dams."

He said that the writers may say: "Lord, I pray for patience, peaceful let me be.
Peace and prayer and patience all begin with P."

We sat in this afternoon at an interviewing of the great man by a group of reporters, and the impression of extreme sensitiveness under his stern exterior that one has at close range is lost across rows of heads in a large lecture hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Galsworthy both are obviously with the good American sun which they absorbed in Arizona. This was their third winter in Arizona. They arrived in America about Christmas time. They are going back to England the middle of April. Mr. Galsworthy will give his last American address at the Friends of the Chicago Library dinner in New York.

Good Morning.

One thing about these westerns—they furnish work for a lot of "extras"!

A man who can ride a horse is eligible to join the ranks of Indians, cavalry, or plainsmen. Such matters as the wearing of uniforms, chaps, or war paint and not speaking out of turn can be taught any tyro. So, I reckon there's rejoicing in the camps of the seven-a-dayers when a producer trumpets the news that covered wagon days are here again.

There've been a heap of such films lately. Western breezes have practically blown away the underworld smoke fumes that just about strangled us for a period. Ye old timer is crowding out the gangster and the cow moos where the gat used to bark. Sheep, the producers! Just plain sheep.

"The Conquering Horde" deals with the troubles of Texas ranchers following the Civil war, after the Union Pacific had decided NOT to run its railroad through their state. Cattle were a drug on the market. Shrewd and unscrupulous men with eye to the future bought the ranchers' land for three cents an acre and less.

The heroine is a pretty lady who owns a ranch and 5,000 head of cattle. The hero is one McMasters, who loves the pretty lady and shows her, her cattle and her ranch hands the way to—Abilene. But that's the story and I guess I'd better let the picture tell you that.

"The Conquering Horde" makes good seeing. It's well photographed and has some beautiful scenery. The playing is all commendable. That fine old character actor, Claude Gillingwater, steals the picture, to my way of thinking.

See you soon.

Average Yale Man After 4 Years' Work Gets $3,000

New Haven, Conn., March 30.—(AP)—The department of personnel study at Yale university today revealed that the average salary of a Yale man, four years after graduation, is approximately $3,000.

This with other data was found through a study of the classes of 1926 of Yale college and the Sheffield Scientific school. The investigations are being conducted with a view to obtaining from men out of college information which may benefit those now at the university.

The returns indicated that men in merchandising, advertising, commercial transportation, and general office work receive the highest salaries, about $4,000; financial occupations pay next highest of $3,600; with manufacturing and engineering closely following; while teaching pay averages $2,100.

Will Hays Predicts Romantic Revival; Cites Movie Proofs

New York, March 30.—(AP)—The American public, in the opinion of Will H. Hays, "czar" of the films, is again becoming romantic.

Submitting his annual report to the board of directors of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., of which he is president, he said:

"The greatest of all censors—the American public—is beginning to vote thumbs down on the 'hard boiled' realism in literature and on the stage which marked the post-war period.

"The orgy of self-revelation which marked such a large portion of modern authorship is passing. We have a new, younger generation, now rising from the jazz age, that promises to support clean, high purposed entertainment."

He said among the signs of the new day was the wide popular acclaim which greeted feature productions in 1930 dealing with great biographical subjects, prison and civic reform,

Women Find Land of Dons Also Changing

Delegates Talk Political and Facial Uplifts.

New York, March 30.—(AP)—Concerning men, women, and romance much is being said by forty members of the International Federation of University Women, now visiting New York from a dozen nations. For instance:

Señora Luisa Gonzalez, smartly clad, black eyed, and lovely, hailing from Madrid: "We are no longer the Spanish women you read about, who sit indolently on balconies and look pretty while caballeros strum guitars in the garden below. We have come out of our houses, and we have much work to do.

"We have realized if we don't help govern our country there will be no good government. But we women still are too romantic."

Dr. Lora Antoine-Trappen, Vienna dermatologist: "Women in Vienna stay young longer than women in America. Also they are fatter. But they are more beautiful. They do not go in for face lifting as much as New York women do. Maybe the fast life makes the faces of women age rapidly. Maybe it is because they are so thin."

Helga Krabbe, secretary to the Danish legation in Reykjavik, Iceland: "We women in Iceland always have been feminists, but we have never had to fight for equality. Men in Iceland have always considered women their equals."

Mme. Juliet Veillier-Duray, Paris advocate: "The men behave very well to us in Paris, but in the provinces they are just as bad as ever. Our marriage laws are very, very old. Divorce is very difficult. Women lawyers have had little effect on the laws concerning domestic relations."

PARISIANS TO RECALL FRANCOIS VILLON, BORN 500 YEARS AGO

PARIS, March 30.—(AP)—If François Villon, French poet, scholar, and friend of the underworld, could return to Paris this year, probably the 500th anniversary of his birth, he would search in vain for the haunts of his youth. He would find only one tavern to remind him of his tempestuous days here.

On the site of the old "Pomme de Pin"—the Fircone tavern—in the Rue de l'Hirondelle, near the Place St. Michel, where the pioneer of French poetry played many jokes on Robin Turgis, the stout innkeeper, there now stands the "Bblee de Cidre" (The Cider Bowl). Though repaired and remodeled, it still retains most of the original features of the poet's day, when the eleventh Louis was king and Jeanne d'Arc not long dead.

At the time of Villon the tavern was a gathering place for literary men and painters, and it is often mentioned in his writings.

Although the day and month of Villon's birth are indefinite, it generally is accepted that the year was 1431. Consequently a society called "The Disciples of François Villon," which was organized before the world war at the Cider Bowl, is planning a memorial service there within the next few weeks. The organization was founded by Appollinaire, Francis Carco, a Villon biographer, and Jacques Dyssord, poet.

During the French revolution the tavern building was a meeting place for leaders of the revolution, many of their secret councils being held in its subterranean vaults. Until a few years ago it was a rendezvous for rivermen, stevedores, and workers from the markets. After the armistice in 1918 it became a cabaret.

Until 1920 there hung on the walls of the Cider Bowl a framed parchment, said to have been a stanza of the original from Villon's "Grand Testament," written in 1461 upon his release from the Bishop of Meung dungeons. The paragraph, which was stolen in 1920, referred to a gift the poet was making to the owner of the Fircone tavern and consisted of a promise "henceforth to pay for my wine."

Villon Career Theme of Recent Popular Plays, Here, Elsewhere.

Chicago audiences of late years have become familiar with various bits and legends concerned with the life of Villon. "If I Were King," and more recently "The Vagabond King," stage and screen success featuring Dennis King, have been popular in this city and elsewhere.

A life of Villon, heavily leaning on official sources, was written by Wyndham Lewis. The sad drolleries of the Lesser and the Greater Testaments, done by Villon, and his poem ending, "But where are the snows of yesteryear?" are famous.

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

CURIOSITY of the drama called "The Life Insurance Agent" mushroomed up at the Princess theater last night. I attended the performance in the spirit of a scientist, hoping to find a rare specimen, and I was not disappointed. It is worthy of addition to my cabinet of footlight freaks. It will be catalogued as follows:

Full-blown specimen of the convention hall, "bigger and better business" drama, which was employed for the instruction of salesmen during the period when American commercial life was trying to inhale and emit a prodigious volume of hot air. Its survival, in these days of sober thinking and hard, depressing facts, is inexplicable. To find it in performance on a stage used for professional acting is like meeting a live dinosaur in the traffic of State street.

"The Life Insurance Agent" contains twenty-four actors, and no plot. Its purpose is to treat life insurance salesmanship as a social science, practiced by men who often relieve the strain of their intellectual activity by sniping cigar butts off their companions' desks. If any life insurance executive will buy a block of tickets to distribute among his employés he will be rewarded by the mention of his name in the dialogue. So far as the life insurance business is concerned, this play, written by a certain Gene Topping, is undoubtedly an inside job.

In my collection of dramatic curios, "The Life Insurance Agent" will be given a place beside the most notable discoveries of a lifetime of research. They are:

"The She-Devil of the Manchus": A melodrama which Al H. Woods staged some thirty years ago at the instigation of three mysterious Chinese laundrymen, who paid all the expenses. The purpose of this play was to get revenge on the Dowager Empress of China, who had put to death the laundrymen's families. Mr. Woods' Chinese backers assured him that no matter how indifferent American audiences were to the fate of the Dowager Empress, the performance of the play brought great relief to the bones and ghosts of their ancestors.

"The Death's Head Emperor": A drama presented at the Eighth Street theater in the early days of the great war. It was written and subsidized by a German-American contractor of calcimining and plastering jobs as an expression of his contempt for Wilhelm Hohenzollern, who appeared as a character, usually surrounded by skulls. The purpose of this play was to get the boys out of the trenches before Halloween.

"The Ladder": A play sponsored in New York by an oil man with the bank roll and generosity of Scotty the Miner. He kept it on Broadway for more than a year by the simple process of giving away the tickets, and he is said to have spent a million dollars on this hobby. The purpose of "The Ladder" was to convert the world to a faith in the reincarnation of souls.

"Stepping Sisters" will be moved from the Blackstone theater to the Apollo on Easter Sunday to continue its Chicago run. Which means that "Lady in Pawn" probably will go to another theater.

The engagement of "The Student Prince," at the Grand Opera house, announced to end next Saturday night, has been extended indefinitely. This means that "My Maryland" has been erased from the schedule of Easter premières.

The opening of "Apron Strings" at the Playhouse has been postponed from next Sunday night to Saturday, April 11.

Ten Co-eds to Sponsor U. of C. Military Dance

Ten co-eds were selected last night as sponsors of the military dance to be given by the Crossed Cannon club of the R. O. T. C. division of the University of Chicago. The dance will be held April 24 at the South Shore [illegible] club. The girls chosen are Jane Johns, Jeanette Smith, Katherine Ammedee, Jeanne Hyde, Sylvia Friedman, Miriam Massey, Olive Hutton, Deborah Libby, Alice Stinnett, and Dorothy Schulz.

Pope to Give Easter Message Over the Radio

South California Plans Outdoor Services.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 30.—The new Vatican radio station, which now functions regularly and daily as the Holy See's means of communication with the whole world, will send out the pope's Easter message to the world.

It is expected that the supreme pontiff will hold a consistory in April and probably during the week following Easter. The secret consistory is likely to be held April 7 and the public one April 9.

Two or three new cardinals will be created, but a discreet silence is being observed in Rome. It seems that if his holiness reads in the newspapers the names of candidates who are announced as likely to get the red hat it becomes a certainty that others are likely to receive it.

At present there are 59 cardinals, leaving eleven places empty in the college. Thirty of this number are not Italians, and 29 are Italians; 26 are curia cardinals and 32 are extra curia.

At the consistory normally there should be nominated a cardinal of the order of bishops to fill the vacancy of the Palestrina diocese occasioned by the death of Cardinal Vanutelli.

In receiving Father Gillet, general of the Dominicans and other members of the Dominican college recently, the pope said:

"'In our day it is better to say 'serve the church,' than to say 'to serve Jesus Christ.' Many persons pretend to serve Jesus Christ outside the church to such a point that they have arrived at inventing the ugly word 'Pan-Christianism.' These are only deluded people who try to delude others."

Southern California Easter Services to Be Out of Doors.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—(AP)—Dawn of Easter Sunday in southern California will find hundreds of thousands gathered for the traditional services.

Not only at Hollywood bowl, at Mount Roubidoux, and at Bakersfield, where the celebrations are a custom of years standing, but at every town which can assemble a chorus a sunrise service is planned.

Leaders in art, music, and the theater will have a part in the celebration at the bowl, which annually attracts more than 30,000 spectators. Here, at the first touch of dawn, a trumpet calls, an orchestra strikes up, and the thousands join in a hymn. Four hundred white robed children, grouped in a Greek cross, will sing "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today." There will also be soloists of national reputation, a male chorus, and a children's chorus.

At the same hour the traditional services will be conducted at Mount Roubidoux, on the western edge of Los Angeles. The program of the celebration has not been altered since the first service in 1909, but each year a leader in the church is invited to offer the opening prayer. This year the Rev. W. Bertrand Stevens, bishop of the Episcopalian diocese of Southern California, will be the guest of honor.

The throngs making their way to the summit of Mount Roubidoux will, incidentally, dedicate a new bridge along the highway which was erected as a part of the plan to beautify the western gateway to Los Angeles.

Engineer Calls Faith Outdated; Pastor Retorts

Says Science Now Leans Toward Religion.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Protestant pastors of Chicago were told yesterday that religion is at least fifty years behind the times, compared with mechanical and engineering progress.

That charge was made by Samuel S. Wyer, a consulting engineer, yesterday before the regular monthly union ministers' meeting in the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street.

The engineer declared the people of today are bewildered because physical science has outrun the pace of religion, law, and philosophy. Mr. Wyer added that "children get five days of science every week and come to church for a hort time on Sunday. They can not reconcile their week day information with the misinformation pastors give them. The children resent the stories you pastors tell them."

"To most laymen today," Mr. Wyer declared, "the Bible has become a hitching post for intolerance rather than a guide post for conduct. Unfortunately law and religion have been intermingled. Whenever you teach that the law comes from God you not only teach "what is not true but you deaden social responsibility."

Mr. Wyer cited the eighteenth amendment to the United States constitution as an example of what he called the futility of such procedure.

"In national prohibition," Mr. Wyer asserted, "you have a statutory law that does not as yet represent the customary thinking of the people. It must be remembered that law actually grows out of custom, not out of religion. A law minded, rather than a religious minded, public opinion is essential in solving some of these problems."

Mr. Wyer declared that Bishop Ussher was greatly mistaken in his biblical chronology which set the creation of the world in 4004 B. C. Mr. Wyer referred to "tampering with the book of Revelation." That book, he said, had been "in and out of the Bible at least six times."

"You will never have world peace until Revelation again is taken out of the Bible," Mr. Wyer insisted. "Why can not we be just honest and admit that every element in Christianity has come from the pagans? Why should we not have assimilated the best from everything that has gone before, and why should we not acknowledge it?"

Dr. Joshua Oden, pastor of the Irving Park Lutheran church, commenting on Mr. Wyer's address, said the engineer displayed amazing lack of information on the progress of biblical scholarship. He asserted that "Mr. Wyer apparently has not been reading recent works of modern physicists such as Profs. Millikan, Compton, Eddington, and Jeans, who point to physical research which has demolished the Newtonian view of a mechanical universe.

"I felt sorry for the speaker when he referred to Bishop Ussher's chronology which placed creation 4,004 years before Christ. Biblical scholarship has scarcely thought of the good bishop's brave guess as to the actual date of creation for fifty years or more. Scholars all admire Bishop Ussher's work, even though later research found him wrong."

Dr. Oden declared the newer physics, which, he said, is basic to the profession of engineering, now offers an unqualified denial of Mr. Wyer's contention that law has little relation to spiritual affairs.

"The trouble with Mr. Wyer's argument is that he bases it on the old-fashioned view of a machine universe which he still believes is subject to his blueprints," said Dr. Oden. "If that mechanical view of the universe had been proved correct, why I suppose his argument would prove to be convincing. Then not only would he be able to make blueprints of machines but also of human conduct.

"When Mr. Wyer catches up," said Dr. Oden, "he will see a place for Revelation, not only in religion but even in mechanical engineering. This is quite clearly pointed out in Sir James Jeans' latest book about the universe. That author comes to the conclusion that the universe, instead of being a great machine, is a great thought."

Lent Day by Day

TUESDAY

Dr. John Thompson,
[Pastor First Methodist Church, Chicago Temple.]

The characters who appear in the tragic Holy week drama are fraught with suggestions for daily living. We see the denial of Peter, the vacillation of Pilate, and the betrayal of Judas. Solemn warnings are sounded in each case, but particularly in the betrayal by Judas.

For love of money he sold his best friend, and at the same time betrayed a great and solemn trust.

Covetousness cauterized his soul and anodyned his conscience. Beware of covetousness, is the message. It is not the so-called coarser sins that wreck the soul so much as the sins of the spirit.

A great thinker once said, "They that will be rich fall into a trap." Trappers of wild game must deodorize and conceal their traps, but humans step into the same trap again and again. Day after day one reads of embezzlements and defaultings, with attendant ruination of lives, desite all warnings of the past.

Two dollars held before the eyes will blot out the sun. So covetousness blinds, and men fall into the trap. It is possible to enlarge one's house and enshrall his life, to widen the estate but narrow the soul. Of all people to be pitied today are the poor rich.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE—

Parents Can Help Their Children to Understand Nature

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We were talking yesterday about the fact that children enjoy the natural world more if they know something about it. The next logical thought is that their fathers and mothers are the ones to help them to that knowledge.

"But I can't lead them in that direction," many people will say. "I know so little, myself."

Perhaps—I'm not sure—but perhaps, all the better. Learn with them. Not in a hurry. Such knowledge can't be crammed. But gradually, learn with them.

Now, there are two ways to come to know about outdoor life—either plant or animal. Those two ways are by observation and by books. You'll be surprised, probably, at how much more you know than you think you do. But whether you make this discovery or not, your more developed intelligence will make it possible for you to lead the children, at least at the beginning.

Later, if they have a chance to live for long periods of time in the country, you may find them knowing much more than you. Hours which they are willing to spend exploring a brook, or just being near ponds or streams or fields give them an advantage over you to see things happen because animals don't appear, insects don't disclose their way of life unless you have the patience to wait for them.

Besides observation, books are a great help in identifying plants and animals, in learning their names and in interpreting their actions or their growth. With books and the result of your observation you can help the children to come into much knowledge of nature. They will learn things as simple as the following simple but interesting:

That the scarlet tanager's mate is of a modest olive color, and the reason why.

That most turtles are harmless, but that even the little snapper is a vicious fellow.

That the fish hawk holds his fish parallel with his body, and why.

That the horse chestnut bud is perfectly sealed and stickily waterproofed until its limp, big delicate leaves are ready and the weather is quite warm enough for them to open.

That the catbird is impudent and fearless, the wren a chummy little bird who likes to build near you, and the jay handsome, but a bold robber.

That the seeds of plants have as many transportation facilities as people—they travel in planes, in balloons, they roll on the ground, and they use the fur of animals or the clothes of people as vehicles by catching on to them with tiny claws.

That animals protect themselves by fight, by flight, by stillness, by tricks, or by the camouflage of their coloration.

What knowledge you both may gather will depend upon your children's tastes and interests, and your own. But don't let this spring slip by without jaunts to the country or the shore.

Sailors Vie with Crochet Chapeaux

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Straw sailor hats are back in big time fashions in Paris. They are being shown by Jean Patou with all of his tailored suits and simple street ensembles. The Patou sailor is shown in the center of our sketch and, as you see, it has a groove around the top of the crown that makes it look a bit squarish on top. Also, note that the brim is somewhat drooping. Patou makes these hats of rough and coarse straw, that is also crisp and elegant, and the hat shown has a patent leather band and bow for trimming.

Suzanne Talbot is also showing sailors to wear with daytime clothes, and hers are worn lifted off the forehead so that they look artless and attractive.

Vying with the sailor in popularity is the small hat of crocheted straw which all the Paris milliners are showing. The one at the top of the sketch is an example and is from Camille Roger, who makes it of bright red straw threads crocheted in a lacy diamond pattern. The rounded crown has a crocheted ruffle halo dipped down at the left side near the top.

At the bottom of our sketch is a new brimmed hat that is just now being shown in Paris by Suzanne Talbot and other milliners. As you see, this hat has a widish brim raised above a ribbon bandeau, and this brim is folded down over the forehead toward the top. The crown is extremely shallow.

Father Gets a Hand, at Long Last, from His Own Children

BY DORIS BLAKE.

There is some pretty good evidence right before me at this moment to support a modestly offered claim that recently we've been the cause of getting a little hand for father, in hitherto neglected, ignored, or disrespectfully treated father atmosphere. The letters received in response to a recently published one in this column indicate that children really have a heart if you use just the right sort of shot to get at it.

It was the shot fired by one of the "tolerated" dads that turned the trick. Maybe you remember how he responded to the complaints of certain girls that their dads were not gracious to boy friend callers. This dad rose to inquire why fathers should be, since the only time they ever got a civil word from said daughters was when they wanted them to play the graciously welcoming parent rôle.

Some of the girls were made to see the light from father's angle, and, if repentance speaks sincerity, dad stands in better stead of hearing something else besides, "I need a dollar," or, "You're away behind the times, old man."

It took the recent burial of one parent to make the daughter realize how few kind words she'd bestowed upon him, whose worst fault was overwork and overconsideration for his brood. She says: "I had one of those 'cross' fathers—cross because I never took the time to find out how nice he could be until just a little while before he passed on."

Another girl writes that her resentment was that she had to turn in some of her salary at home, which her father took without protest. "Right enough it was," she now admits, "when I got acquainted with my dad and found he wasn't getting much for himself out of his pay check either."

"And, gosh," she adds, "I found him interesting and open to pleasantries and conversation after we began to get on. I wish now that I had left undone and unsaid some of the things that must have hurt him badly."

New Hair Cut Can Transform One's Style of Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about the leading position among beauty features that hair now holds. How it is beginning to supersede silhouettes as a conversational topic and as a working theme, for when women in wholesale numbers talk about a beauty feature they being working on it.

Now, here's a point I should like to offer for consideration—for inspiration, rather, to those women who do not take the pride in their locks that they should. You know, for some years now we've been hearing a lot about how much younger looking a woman becomes with the loss of her excess poundage. It's a fact, too, that years sluice off with the fat. But obviously it doesn't occur to a number of women that a rejuvenated head of hair can also remove years painlessly and effectively.

I've just witnessed with mine own eyes one of those rejuvenations. And the owner of it didn't rush out and get a henna dye, either. Her hair is that iron gray color that can be so striking, but often isn't because of a lack of pride in it, or ignorance as to its striking possibilities.

First, the woman had one of those terrific moplike bobs and she was letting it grow. The contour of her head with the wild shooting hair was almost grotesque. It had no shape. Nothing recommended any style whatever. Well, something happened in her life—a man, of course—and the woman held a couple of dollars out of her pay envelope and went to a hairdresser who certainly knew his business. What he did to that wild mop was a plenty. The booth floor was strewn with hair from the thinning out process she was subjected to. Her head was easily one half the breadth, width, and circumference in appearance.

A low side part was substituted for the pompadour look in front. The hair was waved a little across the top front of the head and just a couple of wide waves appeared over the ears, and these were flattened smooth. A tight little pencil roll took care of the back growing hair—and the whole operation was such a success that the woman, herself, said: "It makes me look a lot younger!"

That just gives an idea of what can be done by way of the coiffure.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister, Gertrude, became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother, Hugh, away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Stephen, a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead, Hilary was returning home. Her stepfather is the only sympathetic member of her family.

Shortly after their return John and Hilary become engaged.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin, Prue, is her only friend. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough management in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. She replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith, at the farm of her former nurse Tracy's brother, is badly treated by the old servant. She meets Clive Harpenden, the little master of the home where she delivers cream for Tracy. Judith, receiving no mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue secretly meets Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her aid for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim De Morreville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home. Tim drives Prue home and makes an engagement to drive her next day to visit Judith.

Falconer leaves town on a business trip.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

NO SUSPICION OF TRUTH.

Judy had been set to weed what was called the garden, a small, triangular space outside the hardly ever opened parlor and the front door which was never used.

She was glad she was going to weed the garden, for Tracy and the kitchen were safely far and that was peace. Only a blank space of wall and the sleeping windows of the parlor overlooked her here. If there had only been a little shade it would even have been a pleasant job, but the sun of early afternoon beat down on her relentlessly, scorching through her cotton frock, and after half an hour of pulling the tough weeds had raised a blister on the palm of her hand.

Judy fingered it ruefully and paused for a moment to fan herself. She heard a car go by along the narrow road, but she did not move from her knees or raise her head. She had been at the farm now for seventeen days, alone and forgotten, or so it seemed to her, and even Prue had not answered her letter. She had watched the postman every morning and afternoon.

Judy hummed very hard as she stooped to the weeds again, trying to pull them with her fingers only this time and not make the blister worse. Her hands were nearly always sore now, and she did not much notice the pain. It was like the dull round of the days and nights when she could not stop, a sort of throbbing that went on and on.

"Can any one see you from the house?"

"Judy!"

She thought she heard some one calling in a whisper, and knew she must be dreaming. It gave her heart a jump. Humming louder than ever, she pulled her weeds.

"Hi! Little girl!"

Stumbling to her feet and turning bewildered, she saw a tall young man looking over the hedge. He smiled and beckoned to her.

"Can any one see you from the house?"

"No," breathed Judy in surprise.

"You are Judy, aren't you?"

"Yes, oh, yes!" All of a sudden she began to shake.

"Well, quick! Prue's down there to the left under the hedge in a blue car. Cut now as fast as you can run, and I'll go and keep old Tracy busy."

Judy was off of the gate in a second, and flying as though a thousand Tracys were following at her heels; Prue was waiting, half out of the car, and her long arm caught the little figure. Pulling her in beside her, she closed the door and drew down the blinds to shut out the sun and the prying eyes of passers-by.

"O, Prue! I thought you hadn't got my letter!"

"Poor old hot-face," said Prue, taking off the visitor's hat and fanning her gently. "A lot of good my answering it for Tracy to light the fire with my best note paper. Mead has written to you twice. Now shut your eyes a moment."

Judy shut them very hard, and a huge strawberry jumped into her mouth.

"I couldn't send you one of those in a letter, could I?" said Prue, dangling an even larger strawberry before the little girl's nose. "Rather luscious, eh!"

"Heavenly!" breathed Judy as the strawberry, very sweet and cool, slipped down her throat to make room for its brother.

"More to come, so eat 'em up," ordered Prue. "Where did he find you that you hopped out so quickly?"

"I was weeding the garden," said Judy.

"Tracy getting a little cheap labor out of her nursling, is she?" growled Prue.

"Well, I think Aunt Gertrude said she was to teach me to be useful, Prue," returned a small reluctant voice.

"O, Tracy's teaching you to weed the garden? What an accomplished lass you will be! And what other educational orgies does she indulge in. . . Here's a monster coming, get ready," warned Prue, choosing another strawberry.

"They're so beautiful that I like them to last," sighed Judy, smiling happily.

"Never you mind, there are other things to come. See that fat packet? Chocolate for my rapscallion cousin in the country. See that envelope? A tea shilling note for the same."

"O, Prue!"

The elder girl was shocked at the sudden whiteness of the child's face, and gathering her close, said, with pretended cheer:

"That's for stamps, that is, and sundries, if you know what they are, though it's more than I do and I'm getting up in years. Now then, what else does she make you do? Quick, or I fire!"

"I have to scrub a good deal," faltered Judy slowly, "tables and cupboards, and the floor once. I don't mind except for my hands. I bought some cream for them with Aunt Gertrude's half-crown, and that's why I hadn't any stamps . . . I will pay you back, Prue, when my father comes home, and that's what I wanted to ask you. You do think he'll come soon, don't you?"

The last words had come in a rush, and Prue's face grew dark as she said, as casually as she knew how:

"Expecting him, are you?"

"Well, you see he's been away so long, years and years, and I thought he might be coming."

"Years and years?" Prue very naturally was staggered, and looked hard at the anxious face beside her. "What, as long as that, Judy-wudy?"

"Yes, Prue, but I can remember. He went away. I think it was to make a fortune, and mightn't he have made it by now? Because he would come back, and I'm so worried, for how should I know?"

"Now let us consider this," said Prue, fighting for time. "Whatever," she wondered, "has the poor little kid got in her funny head? Must be a dream and reading yarns, and all the devilish hints of a devilish world mixed up together."

Prue had never heard of the man whom Judy remembered, so could not guess the dream had at least a foundation, but she saw now her own mistake. . . . Of the real truth at least the little girl had no suspicion. For Judy's sake she was relieved, but for the sake of some other people. "It would have served them," she thought fiercely, "jolly disappointed. well right, selfish smug brutes, shoving Judy from one to the other to keep her out of sight . . . and making her scrub tables . . ."

Prue ground her teeth to keep back her wrath, for Judy's anxious eyes were watching.

"Years and years . . . that is a long time."

"Yes, and he wouldn't not come back when he left me behind, would he, Prue? I thought if I asked you, you might be able to find out if he's coming," said a husky voice with panic in it, as though for the first time Judy saw how frail a hope this really was to which she had been clinging. "I'll make some inquiries," said Prue sturdily. "Now then, you must tell me all about him. What is his name?"

"Why, Mr. Harris, of course!" exclaimed Judy in surprise.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, who went to Kingston, Jamaica, a few weeks ago, is returning Wednesday on the Zacapa and she will go to Sagamore hill, Oyster Bay, for the spring months.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore F. Whitmarsh, who have been at the Boca Raton club in Florida, returned to their apartment in the Plaza.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Aylette Buckner, who have been at the Berkshire for several months, have reopened Brentmere, their home at Riverdale, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey B. Gibson, who passed the week-end at their estate at Locust Valley, L. I., are returning there on Wednesday for the season.

End of Lent to Bring More Society Fetes

BY THALIA ——.

PLANS for post-Easter sociabilities indicate a period of several gay weeks between the close of Lent and the fashionable exodus for summer places. Among other things there will be:

The naval dance to be given under the auspices of the Great Lakes auxiliary of the Navy Relief society, of which Mrs. Walter S. Crosley is president, on Friday evening, April 10, at the Naval Reserve armory at the foot of Randolph.

Phoebe Logan's and Joseph B. Terbell's wedding on the 11th.

The latest enhancement to the calendar is an affair to be given at the Chicago Riding club a week from Friday night by the Chicago Black Horse Troop association, which sees to paying for the mounts, equipment, and uniforms of that crack troop. It is to be a championship boxing match of the Illinois-Michigan-Wisconsin National Guard. A men's committee of patrons includes an imposing array of the governors of the three states and military personalities, and Mrs. Waller Borden and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick head the patroness committee.

We haven't heard much about the troop since the important business of deciding on a dress uniform was dispensed with, but people who have seen the drilling say that Capt. Chauncey McCormick and his hundred skilled riders doing their drill make a fine sight.

Drama League Will Hear Talk on Current Dramas.

The Chicago Drama league has sent its members invitations for a Sunday evening supper on April 12 at the Casino to meet Percy Holmes Boynton, who is professor of American literature at the University of Chicago and who is to speak on "The Current Theatrical Season." He also is a former president of the Drama league, having been in office during the war.

You SHOULD know . . . that Mrs. Aldis J. Browne is sailing on April the 10th on the S. S. Roma for a month's European trip, and that Mr. Browne probably will go over and come back with her . . . that Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers are coming in this morning on the Chief from the west, having been at Phoenix and other places for the last 6 weeks or so . . . that the young Patrick A. Valentines are to move from their apartment, 237 East Delaware place, to 1500 Lake Shore drive some time next month . . . that Mrs. Nathan William MacChesney has been nominated for president of the College club . . . that the Joseph T. Ryersons have returned from their trip to the Mediterranean, Africa, etc.

Mrs. Upham Plans Tea for Mary Breckinridge.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham is to give a tea at the Casino next Wednesday "to meet Mary Breckinridge," founder of the Frontier Nursing service. There will be moving pictures about "The Forgotten Frontier," and those who haven't heard the romantic and moving story of the work done among the inhabitants of the Tennessee mountain district will be inspired by its telling. There has been a Chicago committee for the service for the last several years, but it hasn't been particularly active as yet, and I daresay Mrs. Breckinridge is to be here to add impetus to the work of organization. Mrs. John Gardiner came here from Fort Smith, Ark., last fall to represent the service in Chicago.

Brief bits—Miss Janet Chase will arrive home today from New York and final plans for her wedding to Frederick Hauck of Pittsburgh some time in May will be made soon. . . . The Service club board met yesterday morning at the residence of Mrs. Stanley Zaring and will meet again tomorrow morning to discuss their annual benefit next fall—it will probably be a revue again, though some of the members have been contemplating other methods of raising funds. . . . The Arthur E. Bendelaris of 1540 Lake Shore drive are moving to Cincinnati the first of May, as Mr. Bendelari is moving his office there—they have found a lovely place on Beech lane in East Walnut hill with a swimming pool, Japanese garden, and other nice things. . . . The Thomas L. Marshalls spent the week-end at French Lick, Ind. . . . Mrs. Donald Wegg and Talbot Wegg returned on Sunday night from a stay at Asheville, N. C. . . . Mrs. John G. Shedd, who has been at Belleair, Fla., since February, is now at the Grove Park inn at Asheville, and is expected to return to Chicago on April 15. . . . Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, who is also at Asheville, will be back this week-end.

French Painter Gathers Art from Circus

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A GAY, piquant and delightful exhibit of circus asides is this first showing of paintings by Edy Legrand which opens today in the Chester H. Johnson galleries, Fine Arts building. Of course, there are more pictures here than the circus episodes, but it is the circus, nevertheless, that controls the atmosphere in which these paintings swing. You smell the sawdust and grease paint and share with the clowns and acrobats, even with the stately white horses, the thrills of anticipation and climax which dress every performance.

The circus is a gay affair in Paris as in Chicago. It is a time of festival and merriment. A choldlike inconsequence pervades each soul that passes the gate to the magic ring where all the wonders of the universe wait to snare our dimes and cause our mouths to gap. Except for the barker, Legrand has not bothered with the side shows. Chiefly he has painted clowns. After the clowns the acrobats have fascinated him and then the gorgeously high-schooled horses. One of the most captivating of the pastels, for it is in pastel that the artist has chosen to paint the circus, is "Circus Musicians," a fine piece of characterization and a delicious piece of coloring.

When we turn to the oils a stronger technique is in order and Legrand develops it. There is excellent modeling in his figure paintings and a sympathetic reading of personality. You will enjoy the "Girl in Green Dress," even though the secret in her eyes is hauntingly sad.

Chorus School Latest Civic Opera Effort

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Something destined to have an important bearing on the future of opera giving in this city came into being yesterday, when the Chicago Civic Opera company announced the institution of a chorus school. It is to be part of the Civic Opera organization, and will be under the direction of the company's chorus master, Maestro Attico Bernabini.

Its purpose is to provide training for candidates who shall be suitable for extra chorus work and for admission into the choral union; thereby furthermore making itself a supply station for vacancies in the present operatic chorus as they may occur. Examination for entrance into the choral union is rigid, since it is required that candidates know the choral parts of twenty-five operas in four languages. No such training school has existed in Chicago up to the present time, although there is one in New York.

Four classes a week will be held for a period of ten weeks beginning immediately, and there will be another period of five weeks beginning Sept. 1. Only serious students are desired. A nominal charge will be made, not enough, it is said at the opera company offices, to cover the expense involved, but which, it is felt, will give added incentive for earnest work. Classes will be held in the orchestral rehearsal rooms of the Civic Opera house, and the school will have at its disposal the extensive library and equipment of the company.

This is the third development along general educational lines for professional work in grand opera undertaken by the Civic Opera company and those connected with it. The first was the creation of an endowment fund by five members of the board of directors for six Chicago Civic Opera European scholarships, providing for two years of European study by American singers who have studied in Cook county.

The second was the creation of the Chicago Civic Opera Ballet school, of which Laurent Novikoff is the director and for which twelve scholarships for talented students were provided. Now comes the chorus school.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Met Wife's Angry Gaze.

I have a habit of calling people "dear."

One evening, when our laundryman came to collect a bill which I owed him, I said: "I am sorry, dear, but I'm afraid I can't pay you tonight."

He said nothing, but his face turned scarlet as he turned toward the car and met the angry gaze on the face of his wife, which was surely meant for me. C. F. E.

Bright Sayings of the Children

A woman called at my home and brought her 3 year old daughter with her. The little girl and I soon became friends, and I took her on my lap. I am past 70 and have a short white mustache. She evidently never had seen or taken notice of mustaches until she saw mine, for she put her finger to my upper lip and after a few moments said: "Mr. B——, how did you come to have these fish bones up here. We always pick them out and put them on our plate."

FOR COLDS

Use Kleenex in place of handkerchiefs

Handkerchiefs carry millions of germs during a cold . . . cause self-infection.

No self-infection possible with KLEENEX

disposable tissues

THE drastic need for Kleenex has just received startling proof in the scientific laboratory.

A series of authentic tests reveal the handkerchief a source of danger during colds. Handkerchiefs used during colds were found to contain up to 4,170,000 disease germs!

Think, then, before you carry a used handkerchief back to your face! It is not only damp, soiled, disgusting — it teems with germs that must be destroyed, for your safety and those about you.

Use Kleenex—and destroy

When you use Kleenex, there's no danger of self-infection from handkerchiefs. You use Kleenex just once, then discard it. Germs are discarded, too. Kleenex tissues are exquisitely fine, soft and absorbent.

To remove cold cream

Use Kleenex for removing cold cream, beauty experts say. Its absorbency assures complete cleansing of the pores. Towels are saved from cosmetic stains.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store; in three sizes—25c, 50c and $1. If you have not tried Kleenex, send for a free trial package to the Kleenex Company, Lake Michigan Building, Chicago, Illinois.

Bacteriological tests show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 bacteria per handkerchief.

2. That organisms representative of those associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

The above statements are based on tests conducted in the laboratories of Dr. Bertram Fewer, Chicago bacteriologist.

Food Talk.

Mrs. M. asks: "Just how would you go about icing a lot of tea cakes? At this time of the year the hostess sometimes has to ice as many as eight or ten dozen. It is quite a problem to ice so many well and not consume too much time."

I have seen two methods used in icing a large number of cakes and I have used both. One is to dip the cakes down into the icing deep enough to cover the tops and sides. Lift the cakes out and hold them over the icing container for a few seconds to permit the excess icing to drip off. Place on a paraffin paper to stand until the icing hardens.

I object to this method for several reasons. If one does the job with the hands it is messy. If the cakes are dipped in with a fork there is the trouble of dislodging the cakes from the fork and one sometimes breaks or tears them. This method is also likely to fill the pot of icing with cake crumbs and before the process is finished the icing has lost its even color and texture.

A far better method, I think, is to put the cakes on a cake cooler and place the cooler over the enameled top of a table or kitchen cabinet. A clean wooden top will do. Then dip the icing out with a spoon onto the tops of the cakes, allowing enough icing to run off the top and down the sides of the cake. In other words we let gravity ice the sides of the cakes. If there is enough icing to drop off the sides it will drop onto the clean surface below. Any icing that drips down can be removed with a spatula, put back into the kettle and beaten up with the rest until the texture is even and smooth. This means of course that the icing from the table top must be removed quite often.

If icing becomes grainy in texture, it can be softened with a little hot water if it is a fudge icing. If it is a white mountain or seven minute icing the texture may be restored with the addition of a little hot water or lemon juice. Of course one must consider the original flavor of the icing as well as the flavor of the cakes when adding the lemon.

EGGS A LA KING.

3 tablespoons olive oil.
½ teaspoon salt.
Dash of paprika.
1½ tablespoons lemon juice.
1½ tablespoons butter.
¼ pound fresh mushrooms.
1-3 green pepper.
2 teaspoons grated onion.
1 cup thin cream.
1 egg yolk, beaten.

Slice the eggs and pour over them the oil which has been mixed with the salt, paprika, and lemon juice. Let stand one hour. Melt the butter in a saucepan and cook sliced mushroom caps, pepper, and onion in it for four minutes. Add the cream and cook slowly 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Drain the eggs, set the dish over hot water and heat thoroughly for about ten minutes. Add to the beaten egg yolk the dressing drained from the eggs and add to hot mushroom mixture. Stir until the egg is set [about 1 minute], then pour over the hot egg slices and serve at once.

BRITAIN LABELS AUSTRO-GERMAN PACT SUSPICIOUS

Will Ask League to Rule if It's Legal.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 30.—"An episode that has caused regrettable perturbation in Europe" was the phrase used by Foreign Secretary Henderson in making a pronouncement in the house of commons today concerning the Austro-German project to conclude a customs union. He added that the project "is generating bitter feeling and hard words in Europe."

The foreign secretary reaffirmed his intention of raising the subject at the next meeting of the league of nations council in May. The time and method chosen by the Austrian and German governments for conveying the information of their intentions to other interested parties, he said, had rightly provoked widespread comment.

Method Causes Suspicion.

"The method is calculated to raise suspicions and nullify the advantages of the frank exchange of ideas offered by the now frequent meetings at Geneva and elsewhere between representatives of the various governments," Mr. Henderson declared.

He explained that the particular point he proposed to raise at Geneva was whether the proposed agreement is compatible with the Austrian treaty obligations, particularly under the Austrian loan protocol of 1922. Mr. Henderson indicated that neither Germany nor Austria admit that it is a matter for the league of nations, insisting that the plan is "economic" and should not be "regarded from a political standpoint."

The foreign secretary described his appeal to both Berlin and Vienna as "grave." He earnestly hoped, he said, that it might be found, when the time came, that the negotiations between the Austrian and German governments would not be so advanced as to prejudice the friendly atmosphere in which these matters are normally dealt with by the league of nations council.

Czechs and Serbs Sign Pact.

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, March 30.—Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia today signed a commercial treaty giving Czecho-Slovakia preferential rates for agricultural products and Jugo-Slavia preferential rates for industrial products. The delegates, when signing the agreement, spoke of mutual political and economic interests; but the Jugo-Slavian minister of commerce, Demitrovitch, declared that Germany and Austria have violated the treaty by their proposed tariff union.

Plan to Unite All Slavs.

BUCHAREST, March 30.—Newspapers here report that Poland intends to propose a tariff union of all the Slav countries in order to neutralize the Austro-German customs pact.

4 Men, Mother, Her Son Hit by Car as They Sleep

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—(AP)—Four men, a mother and her 6 year old daughter were run over by a hit and run driver while they slept on the roadside near San Dimas early today near their automobile, which had broken down. The men had planned to repair the automobile at dawn. An automobile, roaring at high speed, swerved from the pavement, bounced over the six sleeping persons and disappeared in the night.

Germany to Punish Attacks on Hindenburg's 'Iron Rule'

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 30.—Chancellor Bruening and his cabinet lashed the whip over the Nationalists in a flaming protest today against the German groups, which have attacked the government for the emergency dictatorship decree issued by President Von Hindenburg to curb lawlessness and political crimes. The government statement declared:

"The Nationalists are seeking to undermine the public's confidence in President von Hindenburg, and must be condemned most sharply. They are asserting that the president is not aware of the details of the emergency decree, that he sees only the representatives of the Socialist parties. That is as wrong as the assertion that the Bruening cabinet is controlled by the Socialists. The president sees representatives of the Nationalist parties, as well as those of the government parties, and is aware of their wishes.

Threaten to Curb Attacks.

"The president signed the decree in full knowledge of its different clauses, interpretations, and consequences. To demand a repeal of the decree is a personal attack on the president."

The government declared it has also prepared measures to curb the attack on Hindenburg.

The Nationalists, headed by Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, today read the text of the resolutions adopted by the opposition at Nuremberg, asserting that no constructive work had been done by the government during the last year, and that the decree against lawlessness has been enforced, only to make it harder for the "Steel Helmets" and the Nationalists to win a plebiscite demanding a dissolution of the Prussian diet.

Home Minister Joseph Karl Wirth answered the Nationalists' and communists' attacks over a national radio hookup tonight and denied that the emergency decree was directed against the proposed Steel Helmet plebiscite. He termed it a measure for the self-defense of the democracy against the radicals, who "are whipping the youth of the country, especially children and students, into paroxysms of blind hatred."

Stop Red Demonstration.

"We do not mind criticism, but we will not stand for blackguarding," Dr. Wirth said.

The first meeting dissolved under the new dictatorship decree was a communist godless demonstration in the Berlin Sportpalast today. A crowd of ten thousand listened to violent attacks against churches and cheered 2,000 boys and girls who swore to "give their blood and lives for revolution." When a blasphemous play was staged, the police intervened.

NAVAL ACADEMY HEAD, ADMIRAL ROBISON, RETIRES

Annapolis, Md., March 30.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Samuel Shelburne Robison retires as superintendent of the United States naval academy Wednesday, ending his service in the navy, begun when he was graduated from Annapolis in 1888.

Admiral Robison became the head of the academy in June, 1928. He turns over the command of the naval academy to Capt. C. P. Snyder. Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, who will succeed Admiral Robison as superintendent of the academy, will arrive in Annapolis the first of May. During the period of April, Capt. Synder will act in the dual capacity of commandant of midshipmen and superintendent.

NEW YORK FIGHTERS SHOW POWER IN DRILLS HERE

SIRUTIS TOSSES A FEW TRUNKS FOR LOOP FANS

Easterners Predict Quick Knockouts.

New York's Golden Gloves champions roared into Chicago yesterday morning, making so much noise they almost smothered the din in the loop.

Tustin Sirutis, the New York heavyweight champion, was there, tossing two heavy trunks up onto the top of a sightseeing bus in which the 28 New Yorkers gathered to be taken from the La Salle street station to their quarters in the Medinah Athletic club.

The New Yorkers came to town on a special train running as a section of the Twentieth Century Limited. They had made two stops after leaving Gotham. One was at Schenectady, N. Y., just before the dinner hour on Sunday; the other at South Bend, Ind., yesterday morning just before the "first call for breakfast" warning was to be issued.

They're Confident Group.

At both points the 28 New York boxers left the train, they engaged in a strenuous drill, and finally reached Chicago the most confident group of fighters that has ever represented the New York Daily News in the famous inter-city battles.

Their row with the Metropolitan Amateur Athletic union, which caused the scene of the inter-city struggles to be switched from Madison Square Garden to the Chicago Stadium, apparently did not upset them.

"Bring on those mighty Chicago champions," was the shout which went up just as soon as the New Yorkers left their train. They kept howling in that manner as they were whisked through the loop. It all caused hundreds of Chicagoans to renew efforts to obtain tickets for the show, but there were no tickets to be had.

Reporters Storm Melia.

Jimmy Martin, the wee flyweight champion of the New York team, made almost as much noise as Yustin Sirutis, the "killer" of New York's heavyweights. Andy Melia, the captain of the New York team, might have made just as much noise, but reporters were interviewing him all the way down the long train shed and still were asking him how he ever hoped to whip Fred Caserio, captain of the Chicago team, in the fight for the Golden Gloves middleweight championship, when he reached his team's headquarters.

Tony Scarpati, the New York featherweight champion, was so certain he would knock out Don Gonzales, the Chicago crown wearer in his division, that he danced a jig as he entered the New York team's headquarters.

If the New York boys could have hooked up with the Chicagoans when hop workers were cheering and laughing with them as they came to town, it might have been a sad story for the Chicago lads.

But not to hear Fred Caserio, Adam Smith, Leo Rodak, Nick Scialaba, George Keenan, Scotty Sylvano, Jack Kranz, Johnny Long, and others tell about what's going to happen to the New Yorkers in the Chicago Stadium Thursday night.

Workout Is Impressive.

The New York Golden Gloves fighters strolled up and down Michigan avenue until lunch time. They thoroughly enjoyed the food served them at their first meal here. They were all in their fighting togs at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Medinah Athletic club gymnasium. The 200 Medinah A. C. members who watched the drill admitted they had never looked at so much action in just a short hour as the New Yorkers showed them.

They boxed, skipped the rope, punched the stuffin' out of the punching bag, shadow boxed, and went through their drill in such fine order they impressed everybody who watched them with the fact they are in fine physical condition.

There were 40 in the New York party, including fighters, coaches, doctors, and representatives of the New York News.

CHICAGO CONFIDENT

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Golden Gloves fighters, who meet the New York champions Thursday night at the Stadium in defense of their intercity title, went enthusiastically into the final stages of their training yesterday afternoon at the Illinois Athletic club. All of the boys are in splendid physical condition except for a few bruises and superficial cuts. And there never has been any question of the team's spirit and desire to win.

As the hour of battle draws nearer, Chicago's Golden Gloves fighters gradually are keying themselves for the struggle against the invading easterners. Perhaps the arrival of New York's squad yesterday morning provided incentive.

Why Not Ban Boxing? Boys Might Fight

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 30.—The prize fighters never were so eager to fight as when the law forbade them to do so, and, considering how reluctant they are nowadays, possibly it is time to outlaw the business for another spell. If they don't want to fight, and from their bashful conduct it appears that they do not, then certainly the boys would have no grounds for protest if the legislatures were to repeal the acts passed for their accommodation legalizing the racket.

After all, it was not for the customers that prize fighting was restored to conditional respectability in the years just after the war, but for the pugilists and their managers and the promoters. The customers may have wanted to see prize fights, but the customer never was very articulate, and he just sat and wished there were some prize fights to go to while the political pressure was applied by those who stood to make money out of the business.

No Fights Yet.

At any rate, the customer still doesn't see the fights he wants to see, owing to the shy diffidence of the pugilists, so it would make no difference in his condition if the business were illegalized again.

Well do I remember the promises that were made on behalf of the profession in the years between 1919 and 1925, when the various legislatures were creating a fine legal distinction between pugilism and porch climbing, professions which previously had been held to be of synonymous character in a great share of American territory. Philadelphia permitted six round fights, New Jersey tolerated eight rounders, Milwaukee and the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul allowed ten round bouts without decisions, and there was some action in New Orleans, Buffalo, Peoria, Memphis, Fort Smith, and a couple of apathetic stations on the west coast.

These places constituted the entire profitable zone of operations and the receipts were modest, so the prize fight trade was going around the country, complaining of unfair discrimination and promising to be clean, conscientious, and chivalrous if its citizenship were restored.

New York Golden Glove Team Talks on W-G-N Today

The introduction of the New York Golden Gloves fighters to Chicagoland will be made from W-G-N this afternoon, 5:15 to 5:30. The broadcast will be 15 minutes earlier than planned, so that the visiting lads will not be thrown off their regular training schedule.

Paul Gallico, sports editor of the New York News, will speak briefly. To give atmosphere to the introduction Bob Elson will stage a realistic ringside fight broadcast, with the cheers of the crowd just before the lads are presented by the announcer, George Pidot.

Tomorrow afternoon from 5 to 5:15 the Chicagoland contenders will be introduced by Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE.

STANLEY POREDA HANDS A BEATING TO JOHNNY RISKO

New York, March 30. — (AP) — A brawny youngster from Jersey City, Stanley Poreda, served notice on the heavyweight class tonight that he will be a potent figure in fistic circles within the next year or so.

Poreda, after a steady parade through the lesser lights of the division, stepped out against his first major opposition tonight and whipped Johnny Risko, punch worn Cleveland veteran, before a crowd of 8,200. Despite the seeming one-sidedness of the struggle, Referee Kid McFartland gave his vote to Risko while the two judges favored the youngster.

The excitement that prevailed when Poreda won the decision was too much for Rudy Hasse of Delawanna, N. J. He attended the fight as Poreda's guest. When the verdict was announced he slumped down in his seat, unconscious. He died a few minutes later, presumably from heart disease.

BRUINS CRUSH CANADIENS, 3-1; SQUARE SERIES

Game Tomorrow Night to End Series.

MONTREAL, Que., March 30.—(AP)—A rugged, efficient Boston team tonight handed Les Canadiens a 3 to 1 beating and forced their National Hockey league playoff series to five games. Both teams won twice, and Wednesday's contest here will determine which sextet continues in the race for the Stanley cup, emblematic of the world championship.

Les Canadiens were soundly beaten tonight and at no time looked like the team which faced the Bruins last week. The Boston attack and defense worked with smoothness and precision, Les Canadiens being powerless until the last period when Nick Wasnie took Morens' pass and saved the Flying Frenchmen from a shutout.

Barry's Goal Spurs Bruins.

Marty Barry tallied the first goal in the opening period. George Owen jabbed the puck out from the corner and Barry had Hainesworth uncovered and slammed it in. The goal spurred Boston to greater efforts.

In the second period Eddie Shore jumped out of the penalty box and raced down to score. He took the puck at center ice, rounded S. Mantha on the defense, and rifled a shot at Hainesworth. The puck glanced off the goalie's pads and slid into the cage. Hainsworth made an ineffectual attempt to knock it out with his hand.

The Bruins' second goal of the period came from Owen, who took a perfect pass from Chapman six feet outside the net. His shot glanced off of Hainesworth's shoulder and dropped into the twine.

Canadiens Muff Passes.

There was plenty of bumping, but not on the grand scale as usual. Marty Burke, Canadiens' defense standby, went out of the game in the first period when he caught the butt end of a stick in the body.

While the Bruins played brilliantly, Les Canadiens seemed to have an off night. Morens, Joliat, Lepine, Leduc, and both Mantha boys muffed passes and overskated the puck. Their shots were wild and hasty. Boston provided a bright contrast. Its shooting was deadly and its passing accurate. Its defense was perfect.

Les Canadiens were unable to do much with a full Boston team on the ice. They scored their goal with Galbraith in the penalty box. Lineup:

STRIBLING PLANE BREAKS WING IN FORCED LANDING

Houston, Tex., March 30.—(AP)—William L. [Young] Stribling, Georgia boxer, smashed the wings of his airplane this afternoon when he was forced to land near Kendalton, 49 miles east of Houston. The forced landing came in a blinding rainstorm. None of the party of five was injured.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BAN JOHNSON.

IN the annals of baseball Ban Johnson's name will stand out greater than any of the men who preceded or succeeded him. He was constructive and a builder, most resourceful when facing menacing obstacles. What our acclaimed national heroes did for the nation and the Union, Ban Johnson in another field did for the American league in its fight for recognition against the older established National league, and later for major league baseball as a whole. As a matter of fact, Johnson was the founder of organized baseball, as now known, and its dominant factor for more than twenty years. Comparing him with national heroes shows the pedestal upon which The Wake places Johnson.

Ban Johnson, to begin with, was equipped with a good education and a fine mind. We older newspaper writers who knew him back in the early stages of his efforts often had occasion to talk with him on other subjects than baseball. We marveled at his knowledge of and interest in world topics and world history. He always was a keen student of military strategy and followed closely world war tactics.

Johnson's mental attainments were supplemented by an indomitable courage, almost ruthless for what he believed best for baseball. This fitted him for the battles and intrigues by which baseball was at that time afflicted. Even those qualities, perhaps, would not have prevailed had not this new leader also been able to enlist, as no one else ever had, men of means to finance ball clubs when financing was necessary. Ban could produce "angels" when a weak spot appeared in his battle front. Strangely enough, every "angel" profited financially from the connection. Johnson's policies made millionaires of nearly all his associates.

Not once but many times Johnson was sought by "big business" for connections with corporations at remuneration far more lucrative than his baseball salary. Just as often he refused and remained at what he considered his life work.

The first tragedy in Johnson's career was the break with Charles A. Comiskey of the White Sox, with whom he had founded the American league. None ever heard a satisfactory explanation of the original breach. Once The Wake was told in a burst of confidence, afterward regretted, what we believe was the true reason. We respected that confidence. We never have told any one else. We never expect to. If this version was correct, we can understand how the break never could be healed, no matter how it might be glossed over temporarily.

It is not necessary here to go over the later years when Johnson, in failing health, was shorn of much of his former power. This was accomplished by defections among the men he had made wealthy and by the coöperation of the National league, always jealous of Johnson's power and his domination of the old National commission, although he was the only American league representative against two for the National league. Johnson's nature simply compelled him to dominate.

Johnson could have temporized, in fact was advised by friends to "go along" with the new conditions and accept his $40,000 annual salary. That was not Johnson. He resigned. He was urged to accept salary for the eight years remaining of his term. He declined this total of $320,000 with the reply, "Perhaps the American league owes me something. What it owes cannot be repaid in money."

The Wake always was an ardent admirer of Ban Johnson. His life work ended so far as baseball was concerned several years ago. Yet we now mourn his loss as a man and as a friend.

RAIN HALTS GAME BETWEEN GIANTS AND WHITE SOX

Pitchers Lyons, Thomas Are Grateful.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Worth, Tex., March 30.—The White Sox and Giants weren't able to play here as scheduled this afternoon. Rain washed away the program. For the citizens, this probably was no economic knockout, and as far as finances were concerned neither club displayed any concern over what might have been a $500 gate. However, there was more than a little grieving over the complete loss of a day of training. It was the first time this spring that either squad had missed putting on uniforms between sunrise and sunset.

The White Sox pitchers didn't object to a day to themselves, for some of them are not feeling exactly as they should. Among them are Ted Lyons and Tommy Thomas, and when two fellows of their class become potential invalids it is something to be concerned about. It is possible that the evil hand is again reaching out to take its annual toll from the south side forces.

Sore Shoulders Is Cause.

Lyons hasn't done any pitching for the last four days. He has been tossing a bit but hasn't put any strain on his arm. The reason is a hitch in the shoulder. It came on him a week ago after he had extended himself far enough to show the Giants some real pitching in one of the games at Houston. He now admits that in so doing he displayed unnecessary carelessness.

Ted professes to be unannoyed over the disability, but until the soreness vanishes it will be something to worry about. Manager Bush isn't going to let him do any hard work until about next Friday against the Little Rock, Ark., team.

Thomas has a complaint similar to that of Lyons. Every time he has tried to pitch he has had the letters knocked off his shirt front. He can't get anything on his fast ball, and when Thomas has no fast ball he isn't a pitcher. He, too, has been taking things easy, with the hope the shoulder pain would vanish. His ailment, along with that of Lyons, is attributed to the fact that both pitched too strenuously before their arms were thoroughly toughened. Thomas can do about as he pleases until next Saturday, when Bush plans to start him at Little Rock.

Simons Also Disabled.

The fact that Mel Simons, the $30,000 center fielder, hasn't been a camp sensation is causing Bush no concern. He has an infected corn which hampers his activities. He also has a sore arm and can't throw much farther than from center to second base. These little things will correct themselves in time.

Bush is satisfied with his outfield trio. Reynolds, with the chopping style which made him a .359 hitter last year, is bound to be the same and his fielding is better. Jolley is a bit weak defensively, but satisfactory at bat. If Simons comes through as expected, the Sox will have the best outfield they've owned in ten years.

Because of the cancellation of exhibition games on the days in which funeral services will be held for Ban Johnson and Ernest S. Barnard, the Sox will devote tomorrow and Wednesday to training here. That is, they will train if the rain of today lets up. They'll share the use of the local park with the Texas league team, which is managed by Art Phelan, who once played second base for the Cubs at the old west side park.

Another camp casualty is Manager Bush. He has developed a sore heel and there is a suspicion that he has grown spurs similar to those which were removed from Rogers Hornsby's foot more than a year ago. Bush, however, doesn't intend to submit to an operation.

STEPHENSON'S HITS ACCOUNT FOR SIX RUNS

Fifth Win in Row Over Pirates.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—The Cubs are feeling much better, thank you, having escaped from San Francisco to come down here and resume their task of blistering the Pirates. They made it five in a row from Pittsburgh this afternoon, the records showing that our boys made no fewer than 18 runs as compared to 8 acquired by the Pirates.

Old Riggs Stephenson, just after week-ending with the Goofs, was the main man for the Cubs in today's triumph. His principal accomplishment was a homer with two on in the third which lifted the team from a trailing status to the lead. Stevie collected three hits in the first four innings and drove in six of the first nine runs. Earl Grace, who relieved Hartnett late in the game, also smacked a homer.

Six Cubs Get Three Hits Each.

Six of the Cubs made three hits each. English was a busy man with a triple, two singles and two walks and Charley Grimm was in the thick of things with two doubles and a single. Hack Wilson emerged from his slump with three singles and a walk. Cuyler and Jurges were the other three hit fellows. The totals showed the Cubs to have 22 hits for 32 bases.

The clubs will meet here again tomorrow. Pat Malone will end his two week layoff and Remy Kremer is scheduled to pitch for the Pirates.

The Cubs performed today without the services of Manager Hornsby. Mrs. Hornsby's mother, Mrs. Teresa Pennington, was buried in St. Louis today.

The Cubs announced the release to Los Angeles on option of Pitchers Lynn Nelson and Leroy Herrmann and Catcher Campbell. They joined the Angels immediately upon arrival here this morning.

Cubs Score Two in First.

The Cubs seemed in a fair way to make a big batch of runs in the first inning, but had to be content with two. Cuyler started the game with a single to center and went to third on Jurges' single to right. The bases were filled with none out when English drew a walk. Wilson filed to L. Waner and Cuyler scored after the catch. Jurges went to third on a wild pitch, and then Stephenson singled to left, Jurges scoring and English stopping at second. English was out trying to steal third, and Hartnett bounced out to Traynor.

L. Waner launched the Pirate offensive with a double to left center, went to third on Thevenow's fly, and scored while Grantham was rolling out to Grimm.

The Pirates made three runs in the second inning and might have made many more but for a brilliant piece of work by Jurges in starting a double play. Comorosky doubled, after which McClanahan popped to English and Hemsley walked. Meine then doubled to left center, scoring Comorosky and Hemsley. Meine got home when L. Waner drove a single into center field. Thevenow also singled. Then Jurges made a great stop back of second on Grantham's drive and started the aforementioned double killing.

Stephenson Raps Homer.

Stephenson's big act gave the Cubs a measure of inspiration in the first of the third. Jurges beat out an infield hit and English walked. After Wilson flied out Stephenson knocked the ball over the left field wall, Jurges and English scoring ahead of him. Hartnett grounded out to Traynor, but Bell and Grimm propelled successive doubles, Bell scoring.

The Cubs' 4 to 4 lead did not survive the inning, however. In the Pirate half Traynor singled and stopped at third on Suhr's double to left. Comorosky walked, filling the bases, and Traynor scored on McClanahan's long fly to Wilson, Suhr taking third. Suhr scored on Hemsley's fly to Stephenson, making the score 6-all.

In the first of the fourth the Cubs resumed the lead at 9-6. Cuyler doubled, paused while Jurges popped to Thevenow, stole third, and came home on English's single. Wilson walked, causing Bednar to relieve Meine. Stephenson came through with his third successive run making hit, a single which scored English and put Wilson on third. Hartnett singled to center, scoring Wilson. Bell hit into a double play.

Traynor Gets Fourth Hit.

Successive errors by English and Jurges put May on the spot at the outset of the Pirate sixth, but no grief ensued, for Thevenow flied to Cuyler and Piet, batting for Grantham, hit into a double play, Jurges to Grimm.

Traynor started the Pirate seventh with his fourth successive hit, a double to right center, and scored on Suhr's second double. Comorosky popped to Bell. May committed a wild pitch, which put Suhr on third, whence he scored on McClanahan's infield out.

After going scoreless in the fifth, sixth, and seventh innings the Cubs perked up in the eighth and got themselves a flock of five runs on singles by Moore, Jurges, English, and Wilson, and a homer by Grace, who took over the catching job from Hartnett in the seventh inning.

The Cubs added four runs in the ninth on a double by Grimm, an error by Traynor, a single by Cuyler, a tions of their opponents, except as they have been told by scouts which watched New York's final matches. But the way the Chicago lads have figured the 16 bouts, Chicago will win by at least 9 to 7.

Sure They'll Beat Chicago Team Thursday.

Nick Schialaba, the hard hitting, tough bantamweight champion, summarized the situation yesterday.

"These New York boys must be good. But they'll go back to New York knowing they have met some Chicago guys who can fight better than they ever thought."

Nick's statement is exactly as he believes. They don't come too big or too rough for him. He fights because he likes to fight. And while others of the Chicago squad haven't been as loud spoken, they agree with Nick.

Box Three Rounds.

The coaches sent the boys through three rounds each yesterday afternoon. The boys who are expected to defend Chicago's boxing title received most attention, with the alternates and a host of visiting amateurs providing the opposition. The competitors will not be named until Thursday afternoon. All of the squad of 28 will weigh at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, but, of course, only 16 will box that night.

Chicago is fortunate that there are three boys in each weight, any of whom can step into the ring ready to go. In fact, in four divisions, featherweight, lightweight, middleweight, and heavyweight, four boys are in training. Today's bouts will determine to a great degree who will be chosen.

A squad of eight amateurs yesterday volunteered their services to assist in bringing the Chicago Golden Gloves team to top form. Their earnestness created splendid training bouts.

Smith Shows Improvement.

Adam Smith, the husky heavyweight from Rockford, has been going great guns lates. Adam is one of the veterans and he realizes each bout counts in the team score.

The Golden Gloves suits, white with blue trimming, and with a Golden Gloves insignia on the trunks and jersey, will be given the team this afternoon. A squad picture also will be taken.

Swim Stars Work Out for A. A. U. Meet

Contestants from all parts of the United States assembled at the Lake Shore Athletic club yesterday for final practice for the National A. A. U. indoor swimming meet, which starts tomorrow night in the L. S. A. C. pool. The meet will be continued Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights, with each program starting at 8:15.

From the east came the delegation representing the New York A. C. It included the Spence brothers, Leonard, Walter, and Wallace, and Ray Ruddy. These stars are favored to capture the team championship won last year by the Hollywood [Cal.] A. C. George Kojac of Rutgers will not compete, due to the demands of his school work.

The west will have a strong entry with Buster Crabbe competing in the individual medley and 400 yard free style; the Riley brothers, Johnny and Mickey, holder of the high board fancy diving championship; Dutch Smith, low board diving champ; Austin Clapp, Stanford ace, and three Hawaiians—Johnny Wood, a member of the last Olympic team, and the Kalili brothers, Manuella and Maiola.

Walter Laufer of the Lake Shore A. C. will defend his individual title and faces a tough job against the stars from New York and the west coast. Laufer practically carried out a one man assignment last year in placing his club in second place.

MAC FARLANE AND RUNYON LEAD IN SOUTHEAST MEET

Augusta, Ga., March 30.—(AP)—Willie MacFarlane of New York and Paul Runyon of White Plains, N. Y., shared honors in the first half of the southeastern open golf tournament today, ending the 36 holes with scores of 142.

Wild Bill Mehlhorn of Chicago and Clarence Hackney of Atlantic City, N. J., were tied for third place with 145's. Joe Turnesa, Walter Hagen, and Bobby Cruickshank were tied for fifth place with 146 each. Dave Ogilvie, Augusta, was next at 147. Wiffy Cox, Craig Wood, and Johnny Farrell followed with 148's.

Billie Burke, John O'Connor, and Joe Kirkwood were tied at 149 each. Julius Hughes, Atlanta, was the only amateur to qualify. He shot 163.

The relays have been annual events for eight years.

Glen Riddle Horse Takes Bowie Opener

Bowie, Md., March 30.—[Special.]—Sergeant Donaldson, carrying the Glen Riddle farm colors, won the Opportunity purse feature on a Charity day program which began the eastern racing season here today. Approximately 10,000 braved raw and blustery weather to help swell the local unemployment fund, and it was estimated that $25,000 was realized.

Sergeant Donaldson won decisively from a field of five. Eight lengths was the margin of victory at the end of seven furlongs, and the Sergeant was only galloping.

Civollag, a winter campaigner, was second, beating John Barton by a length and a half for the place. Both Sergeant Donaldson and John Barton were making their first starts of the year. John Barton is a Preakness eligible and just got up to get third place by a head from Sapphire Sky, with Albazano last.

Why Not Ban Boxing? Boys Might Fight

decision fights, there was a very expensive luncheon under the auspices of a paper organization, the first of the boxing clubs of millionaire sportsmen, in honor of Georges Carpentier, who got $3,000 for lending his charming presence as guest.

The party was given to celebrate the dawn of a new era of sportsmanship, prosperity, and fair dealing, and the keynote of the speeches was a pledge that the champions henceforth would keep the fans uppermost in their thoughts and defend their titles often.

The fact that this club soon passed into a state of complete and lugubrious defunctitude with few assets beyond the architect's fantasy is immaterial. The occasion was fraught with the most radiant optimism, and the boys of the profession hove up, one by one, as the toastmaster called upon them, to place their hands over their hearts, roll their eyes piously up at the plaster nudes adorning the walls of the banquet room, and swear eternal devotion to the fine principles then and there expounded.

Jimmy Makes Speech.

His honor, James J. Walker, now mayor, then a state senator, the parent of the law, made an inspiring speech. Sweeping the company with a warning glare, he set his chin and said: "I fought for this law because I love clean sport and I am giving the grand old game back to you clean, and I warn you that the first time any one does anything to besmirch the name of the sport I will be the first one to go before the legislature and demand that the game be killed again. For——" and here his honor wiped away an honest tear, "I would rather see this beautiful thing dead by my own hand than defiled by the unsportsmanslike practices of the unscrupulous element."

There were loud and prolonged cheers and cries of "Jimmy for President," and some of the boys gazed about them with expressions which, if I read them aright, said, "Who, me? I haven't done anything—yet."

This Walker law permitted fifteen round decision fights and business was so good that in a little while Pennsylvania raised the limit to ten and Jersey stretched the distance to twelve.

Moreover, in Chicago, where the boys had been bootlegging fights as a charity racket, Mr. James [Moon] Mullen, the boss promoter of the time, scraped together some money and kept the key men of the legislature gloriously plastered on Canadian goods at his own expense until, to show their gratitude to this prince of sportsmen, they passed a boxing law, too.

Game Forgets Debt.

But in the last few years prize fighting has forgotten its debt. Basically, the racket is still illegal, and only tolerated by special enactments which set aside the original forbiddance.

Larceny set in, and in New York it has been so long since two fighters signed for fifteen rounds that most people have an idea that the law limits the fights to ten. Moreover, the championships were first degraded and then completely withdrawn from competition as the boys began to buy them from one another at private sale, a process which raised the prices to prohibitive figures as each purchaser exacted his profit. The rule of the racket is that no champion shall ever meet his nearest competitor. For his championship bout he selects some novice, some wreck or some mediocrity, and it is rare nowadays that the man who holds the title is the best fighter of his weight.

The present personnel of the business has become so confirmed in these practices that no change can be expected of them. But if the business were to be outlawed for, say, ten years, and then legalized again, as it always is, there would be a new crop of boys, including managers, and for the term of one year afterward they would be reasonably conscientious.

ATLANTA ROUTS WALBERG, BEATS ATHLETICS, 5-2

Champions Collect Only Five Hits.

Atlanta, Ga., March 30.—The Atlanta club of the Southern association took a liking to Rube Walberg's pitching today and scored a 5 to 2 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics' first team, in charge of Eddie Collins.

Walberg was nicked for nine hits, Doug Taitt, a former Red Sox outfielder, making three of them. The A's could do little with two former big league pitchers, Blethen and Francis. They made five hits and bunched three of these in the fourth and fifth innings to gather in their runs. Score:

Philadelphia [A.].....000 110 000—2 5 1
Atlanta [S. A.].....100 103 00*—5 9 0
Batteries—Walberg, McDonald and Cochrane, Palmisano; Blethen, Francis, and Autry, Forest.

YANKS ARE VICTORS, 14-3.

Birmingham, Ala., March, 30.—(AP)—Charlie Ruffing breezed through nine innings in midseason form today, as the New York Yankees trimmed Birmingham of the Southern association, 14 to 3.

The Yanks collected 16 hits, including home runs by Tony Lazzeri and Lyn Lary, off the combined deliveries of Jim Edwards, Fielding Plue, Al Granger, and Art White. Ruffing held the southern nine to eight scattered hits.

Babe Ruth, playing six innings, was at bat four times, but a single and a base on balls was the best he could do. Score:

Birmingham.....000 200 000— 2 8 3
Batteries—Ruffing and Dickey; Edwards, Pate, Granger, White, and Eiseman, K. Taylor.

HEILMANN CONVALESCING.

Tampa, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—One gleam of cheer appeared on the horizon of the Cincinnati Reds as they broke training camp today and headed north. Manager Dan Howley received word that Harry Heilmann, slugging outfielder, was able to move his right arm and fingers on his right hand for the first time in two months, indicating the arthritis attack has started to loosen its hold on the veteran.

CARDS ' AT BRAVES, 8-4.

Bradentown, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals made full use of their hits and of Boston's errors to make it two straight over the Braves this afternoon, 8 to 4.

Bill McAfee, Bruce Cunningham, and Bennie Cantwell held the Red Birds to six hits, but they bunched two of them with two errors to score three runs in the third inning and used two singles, a walk, and a long fly to add two in the ninth. Score:

Boston [N.].....002 200 000—4 10 2
St. Louis [N.].....003 200 00*—5 6 0

A'S RESERVES WIN.

Greensboro, N. C., March 30.—(AP)—The second team of the Philadelphia Athletics, under Manager Connie Mack, came from behind today to defeat the Rochester Internationals, 10 to 8. Score:

PHILS BEAT COLLEGIANS, 11-5.

Auburn, Ala., March 30.—(AP)—Buzz Arlett shook off his batting slump today and his home run and double helped the Phillies win an exhibition game with Alabama Poly, 11 to 5. Ace Elliott held the collegians to seven hits. Score:

Batteries—Elliott and McCurdy, Connell; Smith and Raley, West.

RED SOX WIN, 6—2.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 30.—(AP)—Milton Gaston pitched a shutout brand of baseball for the Boston Red Sox against the Chattanooga club here today, but an error by First Baseman Bill Sweeney gave the home club a pair of runs in the first inning. The Sox won, 6 to 2. Score:

Boston Red Sox ....100 120 011—6 12 1
Chattanooga .....200 000 000—2 7 2
Batteries—Gaston and Connelly; Davis and Jiez.

SENATORS WEAK AT BAT.

Biloxi, Miss., March 30.—(AP)—Manager Johnson is somewhat worried by weak batting eyes in the Senator team's batting average is .269. With team's batting average is .269. With the exception of Cronin, Myer, Hayes, and West none of the regulars has touched .300 in the training season. Heinie Manush is awaiting .262 and Sam Rice, another dependable, is tapping a mild .136.

INDIANS RAINED OUT.

New Orleans, La., March 30.—(AP)—Nine inning tests for Cleveland Indian pitchers were postponed for two days when rain prevented today's exhibition game with New Orleans, and tomorrow's contest was canceled in respect to Ernest S. Barnard, late American league president.

After running a dead heat in the Champion Chase at Liverpool on Saturday his trainer, Jack Anthony, decided the time had come for the game old jumper to retire from the race track, and today it was stated Mr. Whitney had presented the horse to Mrs. Whitney as a hunter.

Miss Orcutt's 75 Tops Field at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., March 30.—(AP)—Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., today shot a 75 to win medal honors in the 18 hole qualifying round of the twenty-ninth annual north and south tournament and set a competitive course record.

Her 75 was 2 strokes better than Glenna Collett's record 77 in 1926, which was equaled today by Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, who finished second. Miss Orcutt's victory marked her second successive year as medalist here. Last year she shot an 80.

Playing over the difficult number 4 layout, with its deep traps and sloping fairways, Miss Orcutt kept pace with men's par all the way out, to reach the turn in 35. Coming back she encountered trouble, and soared to a 40.

Miss Van Wie shot steady golf for a 38—39—77, except for trouble in the traps on the third and thirteenth, where she took 6s, she might have tied the Englewood player.

Four strokes behind in third place came Miss Martha Parker, New York metropolitan champion, with 81. She had three birdies under men's par.

Tied for fourth at 82 were Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., and Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City. Miss Quier had trouble on the home nine, where she had a 43 after going out in 39.

Helen Sillick and Mrs. O. S. Hill; Marian Bennett and Mrs. C. R. Harbaugh; Ruth Bachelder and Maureen Orcutt; Mrs. A. E. Bulson and Peggy Wattles; Jane Brooks and Edith Quier; Helen Waring and Mrs. Norman Rood; Bernice Wall and Virginia Van Wie; Martha Parker and Mrs. S. F. Wadsworth.

Vance Signs with Robins for $24,000

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—The Times says Arthur [Dazzy] Vance has reached a salary agreement with the Brooklyn National league club and will report at Macon, Ga., in a few days. It was reported Vance will receive $24,000 for the season's work, a compromise between the $25,000 he demanded and the $23,000 offered.

Vance confirmed reports from Clearwater that he had reached an agreement with club officials, in a telephone interview which followed a denial from Manager Wilbert Robinson that he had any news of Vance's signing.

"You can say that I have agreed to terms for 1931 offered by President Frank York," stated Vance. "The reason for Manager Robinson's lack of knowledge of the transaction is the fact that I delayed wiring Mr. York, knowing that I could not catch him at his downtown office tonight. I am wiring my acceptance of terms in the morning."

FREEMAN KNOCKS OUT BENNY RAY IN FOURTH ROUND

Joe Freeman scored his 30th consecutive victory last night by knocking out Benny Ray, Detroit 130 pounder, in the windup of the boxing show at White City. A blow to the stomach ended the contest in the fourth round.

Dick Sish beat Gus Worman [3].
Mark Burke knocked out Jack Taylor [3].
Kelly Kulak and Mark Andrews drew [4].

Florida Sportsmen Fight to Protect Bass from Seiners

BY BOB BECKER.

If one had a chance to sell black bass at $1 per pound as against a price of 20 cents a pound he would be foolish to get rid of the fish at the lower price. Florida has this choice before her as the state legislature goes into session to decide whether the black bass should be considered as a commercial fish seined and sold at 20 cents per pound, or "marketed" to the visiting anglers at $1 per pound, the latter to take them with rod and line.

Of course Florida is not going to sell black bass at $1 per pound. This is simply the way the conservation department values this game fish as a lure to visiting anglers because it is estimated that every fisherman who goes to Florida to catch the big bass of lakes and streams spends $1 with the restaurant owners, hotels, barber shops, garages, boat liveries and others for every pound of black bass that he takes with rod and line.

Therefore it is merely good business for Florida or any other state to protect its supply of bass, keep restocking lakes and streams, and get as many visiting anglers into the state as possible. This is the same kind of reasoning applied by Wisconsin, Michigan and other states to their recreational advantages.

The camping grounds, fishing and forests of these states attract millions of dollars each year, and in order to keep them coming the states spend vast sums growing and planting fish that the summer tourists may have their fun.

Florida is beginning to see this point. It is folly to let a few seiners take thousands of pounds of black bass each year and sell them for 20 cents per pound when protective measures for these fish to insure their abundance will bring five times that return to the state.

According to reports from the Florida division of the Izaak Walton league, a vigorous fight will be made this year to take the black bass out of the commercial fishing list and give this great American game fish the protection it deserves. C. C. Woodward, game commissioner of Florida, told us a few weeks ago when we were on the west coast of Florida that he wanted to see the bass protected, if for no other reason than the revenue which bass fishing by sportsmen contributed to the state.

HITCHCOCK LEADS HIS POLO TEAM TO 2 VICTORIES

Aiken, S. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Tommy Hitchcock, world's premier poloist and captain of the American international team, was in splendid form this afternoon in a round robin match on the Cochran field and his Yellow team defeated both the Reds, led by Devereaux Milburn, and the Blues, led by Pete Bostwick. The Yellows also scored the most goals to win the match.

The scores were: Yellows, 5; Reds, 4. Yellows, 6; Blues, 2. Reds, 2; Blues, 0.

Mrs. Levy to Second King Levinsky Tonight

Boston, Mass., March 30.—(AP)—Armed with a manager's license, the first one ever granted to a woman by the Massachusetts boxing commission, Mrs. Lena Levy will be inside of the arena ring seconding her brother, King Levinsky, here tomorrow night when the Chicago heavyweight tries to lengthen his knockout streak at the expense of Con O'Kelly of Ireland.

Lampe, Ex-Maroon Star, to Coach Badger Ends

Madison, Wis., March 30.—[Special.]—Elmer A. Lampe, former University of Chicago varsity player, will be the end coach of the 1931 University of Wisconsin football team, George Little, director of Badger athletics, announced after tonight's meeting of the athletic council.

K. of C. Cagers in Semi-Final Play Tonight

Tonight's Schedule

7:15—Hennepin-Shields vs. St. Patrick's [consolation].
8:15—Loyola-Hyde Park vs. O'Connell.
9:15—Damen vs. Perez.
10:15—Marquette vs. De La Salle [consolation].

The right to play for the championship of the Knights of Columbus basketball league will be at stake tonight when the four survivors of the championship round clash at the Coliseum in the semi-final contests. Two games in the consultation bracket also will be staged.

South Meets North.

Loyola-Hyde Park, south division champion, will meet O'Connell, north division champion, in the opening title round game at 8:15. This follows the consolation contest between Hennepin-Shields and St. Patrick, which opens the evening's program at 7:15.

At 9:15, Damen, west division champion, will meet Perez of the south division, in the other championship round game. Perez is conceded a chance to upset Damen on the strength of its victory over St. Patrick, defending champion, but the west siders have a strong team built around Charley Murphy and Steve Barek.

Marquette vs. De La Salle.

The final game on the program will be between Marquette of the north division and De La Salle of the central, in the consolation bracket.

The winners of the semi-final contests will clash Sunday for the league title. The two losers will battle for third and fourth places, while the two consolation victors will fight it out for fifth and sixth positions.

PROMOTER MUM ON CARNERA BOUT WITH SHARKEY

New York, March 30.—(AP)—Despite official denials, the conviction grew today that Primo Carnera and Jack Sharkey have agreed to a heavyweight battle at Ebbets field in Brooklyn some time in June under the auspices of Jimmy Johnston.

Because of Carnera's lack of standing with the New York state athletic commission and the board's strict rule forbidding promoters dealing with suspended fighters, none of the parties concerned would admit negotiations.

American Legion Cage Finals Open Saturday

Final games of the Cook County council American Legion basketball tournament will be played Saturday and Sunday at the United States Naval Reserve armory, Randolph street and the lake. Eighteen teams will compete.

St. Viator Stars' Letters Withheld; Campus in Uproar

Kankakee, Ill., March 30. — [Special.]—St. Viator college was in an uproar today following the refusal of the athletic council to award basketball letters to Capt. Ken Clothier and Al Furlong.

Clothier, a guard, led his team through the most successful season in recent years with a record of 14 victories and 3 losses. Furlong was one of the outstanding centers of the Little Nineteen.

No explanation was offered by the council, but it is believed the athletes were suspected of breaking training.

Letters were given to Clarence Romary, Fort Wayne; Ralph Kerr, Clinton; James Laffey, and Thomas Hayes, Chicago.

M'Millen Beats Zaharias in Straight Falls

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football star, returned last night in the rôle of a wrestler and conquered his rough rival, George Zaharias, Greek-American 238 pounder from Colorado, in two straight falls at the Coliseum. A crowd of 6,000 attended.

It was one of the roughest matches seen here in years, with both boys resorting to flying tackles and punching. McMillen won the first fall in 51:38 after three flying tackles and a reverse body slam. Just before the fall Zaharias had the former Illini star groggy from a series of tackles and headlocks.

The second fall went to McMillen in 17:53, Jim making four flying tackles in a row, a headlock, and body slam to pin the Colorado boy's shoulders.

In the semi-windup Kola Kwariani, giant Russian, spilled Jim Clinkstock, Oklahoma Indian, after 5:39 with five vicious headlocks to end a rough and tumble match.

Paul Jones, Texas, won a 20 minute decision over Martinez Terrea, Mexico.

HYPNOTIC SLEEP DRUGS TESTED FOR OPERATIONS

May Displace Anesthetics, Chemists Told.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 30.—(AP)—Drugs producing hynotic sleep as a substitute for anesthetics in operations were described to the American Chemical society today.

The chemists were informed of more than 1,000 successful operations already performed in this sleep. The hypnosis still is limited, but there is hope of a sleep deep enough for any kind of operation.

The prospects in this pioneer field were reported in a paper by H. A. Shonlef, Eli Lally & Co. of Indianapolis, released by the chemical society as part of its general scientific program.

Combination of Acids.

The drug now used is a combination of acids related to banana oil, grain alcohol, and barbituric acid, a synthetic substance not translatable into any familiar terms. The alcohols, said Dr. Shonle, are the simplest hypnotics, but of little or no clinical value and must be given in doses fifty times greater than barbituric acids.

Making the sleep drug is like arranging bricks in a house. Many different patterns can be made with the same bricks. For the hypnotic drug the "bricks" are atoms of carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen and sometimes sulphur. The hypnotic effect depends largely upon the pattern, or structure, in which these atoms are hooked together by chemical processes.

Nausea Eliminated.

"From data available," said Dr. Shonle, "it is possible to predict the effectiveness and the duration of hypnotics which have not yet been synthesized. New advances in anesthesia seem possible through the use of the amylethyl barbituric acids and nitrous oxide. Nausea is eliminated, greater comfort is afforded the patient, and far less mental distress is observed.

"The first American made hypnotic extensively tested for use in producing partial and total anesthesia was the sodium salt of iso amyl barbituric acid."

This preparation, he said, is widely used for pre-anesthesia. By use of it the patient goes into a quiet sleep in his room and after the operation awakens again from sleep pack in his own bed. But meanwhile in most cases some other anesthetic has been used during the actual operation.

There is hope, he added, of finding a hypnotic drug producing a sleep in which no anesthetic will be needed.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Bargain Day

BURY 5 CHILDREN AND HERO DRIVER VICTIMS TODAY

Storm Survivors Said to Be Doing Well.

Holly, Colo., March 30.—(AP)—Side by side the bodies of five school children and the heroic driver of the Towner school bus, who perished in a blizzard last week, will lie in state tomorrow as this community pays tribute to its dead.

School bells will be stilled and business houses closed. Virtually every one in this section of southeastern Colorado will attend the joint funeral services. Four ministers of Holly will officiate.

Close by the casket of Carl Miller, the bus driver, will be that of his daughter Mary, one of the children who froze to death when the bus became stalled in the blinding storm. After remaining with the children for many hours, Miller realized he must get aid or all would perish. In the driving storm after dawn Friday he started out, thinking he could reach a farmhouse. Struggling on for more than three miles he fell exhausted in a cornfield and perished.

Fifteen children, who survived the tragedy are in the hospital at Lamar, Colo., making a gallant fight. Physicians say all probably will recover.

SALES OF MAIL ORDER HOUSE SIGN OF UPTURN

Sears Volume for 4 Weeks $23,452,767.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It is inevitable that the returns from business and industry for the first quarter of this year, which ends today, will compare unfavorably with results shown by the initial quarter of 1930. But pessimism bred from comparison should be tempered by acknowledgment that the spring upturn last year was a false start, whereas progress thus far this year has been abnormally slow.

There are indications, however, that comparisons covering the remainder of this year will be more favorable, as gradual improvement is the common expectation, in contrast to the slackening that followed the abortive spring movement of a year ago. One such indication was the sales report issued yesterday by Sears, Roebuck & Co., the big Chicago mail order and chain store concern.

Down Only 6.8 Per Cent.

Sales for the four weeks between Feb. 27 and March 26, which was the third period of the company's thirteen month year, totaled $23,452,767, which marked a decline of only 6.8 per cent from the corresponding period in 1930.

This is the most favorable comparison attained thus far this year, as sales for the first and second periods this year fell 14.1 and 14.8 per cent, respectively, below the comparable periods in 1930. Moreover, considering the decline in commodity prices in the last year, it is entirely likely that the actual volume of business now being done is as large or larger than a year ago. Sears-Roebuck sales so far this year have totaled $70,031,267, a decline of $9,588,317, or 12 per cent, from the corresponding time last year.

And there are other industries that are not doing badly and even did fairly well during last year's depression. Harley L. Clarke, president of the Fox Film corporation, pointed out yesterday that gross receipts of the motion picture business have held up better during the last eighteen months than almost any other business and that most of the leading companies had better earnings in 1930 than in 1929.

Learn Valuable Lessons.

Periods of distress are not to be invited," he said, "but business learns valuable lessons and retains residual benefits from each of them. Perhaps the most important contribution of this latest period of depression was the necessity it put on the motion picture industry to begin to adopt the same standards of efficiency and the same quality of business management that is required of other industries.

"Another outstanding development last year was an increase in foreign demand for American pictures despite the fact that business recession was common to all countries. The distribution of American news reels throughout the world also has contributed much to education, has broadened our influence overseas, and encouraged world peace and understanding."

Gov't Invokes Anti-Trust Act Against Sugar Concerns

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 30.—The department of justice this afternoon filed a petition in federal court asking dissolution of the Sugar Institute, Inc., and a permanent injunction against fifty companies and individuals on the ground that they have violated the Sherman anti-trust law by fixing sugar prices.

J. F. ABBOTT.

During the last three years, the petition says, the defendants have maintained a comprehensive plan designed to fix "oppressive and uniform" prices of refined cane sugar.

The defendants in the suit are refiners of cane sugar and produce 85 per cent of the sugar consumed in this country, the remaining 15 per cent being produced by domestic beet sugar refiners.

It is charged in the petition, which was prepared by James Lawrence Ely and Walter L. Rice, special assistants to the United States attorney general, that the defendants manufactured raw sugar bought for low prices in Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippines and sold for high prices, so that neither consumers nor sugar growers received any benefit from the combination.

Makes Further Charges.

It is further charged that the defendants induced the beet sugar growers of this country to restrict their competitive activities and that they maintained a price for refined cane sugar at 20 cents per hundredweight higher than the price of refined beet sugar.

Two companies particularly benefited by this alleged price fixing, it is charged—the American Sugar Refining company and the National Sugar Refining company. The former increased its earnings from $3,070,851 to $8,016,436 in 1928, the first year of the institute's existence, and the latter in the same year increased its earnings from $292,486 to $3,372,986.

In addition to the Sugar Institute, Inc., the following New York corporations and firms are named in the suit: American Sugar Refining company, Cuban-American Sugar company, National Sugar Refining company, Spreckels Sugar corporation, Colonial Sugars company, and Martha and Margaret A. Lamison, doing business as Arbuckle Brothers.

Names Individuals.

Among the individuals named were: J. F. Abbott, director of the institute and president of the American Sugar Refining company; Earl D. Babst, honorary president of the institute and chairman of the board, American Sugar Refining company; W. Edward Foster, vice chairman of the board, American Sugar Refining company; J. P. Cody, sales manager, Arbuckle Brothers; M. E. Goetzinger, secretary member of the excutive committee and director of the institute, general manager, Arbuckle Brothers; George M. Rolph, director of the institute and president of California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining corporation, San Francisco; James H. Post, chairman of the board and president of the institute and president, National Sugar Refining company and chairman of the board, Cuban-American Sugar company; Benjamin O. Brague, director of the institute and president, Savannah Sugar Refining corporation, Savannah, Ga.

Producers Meet at Paris.

PARIS, March 30.—(AP)—Inauguration of the Chadbourne plan for rationalizing the sugar industry was brought a step nearer today as delegates representing seven sugar producing countries met with Mr. Chadbourne to discuss a Javanese proposal to fix the price of sugar at two cents a pound.

Newark, N. J., March 30.—(AP)—The Kolster Radio corporation today was ordered sold by Vice Chancellor Church after three plans for the company's financial rehabilitation had been rejected. The sale was set for April 14 in the company's offices here.

Merrit Lane, counsel for Rudolph Spreckels, former chairman of the board of the Kolster company; George S. Hobart, who said he represented common stockholders with approximately 230,000 shares of the 800,000 outstanding, and C. Wallace Vail, representing Ramos & Co. of Newark and Wolfarth & Ilsley of New York, each presented reorganization plans.

Standard of Indiana Agrees to Restrict Oil Imports

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana will put into effect immediately a substantial reduction not only of petroleum imports to the United States but of production at its Venezuelan wells.

This was made known today by Secretary Wilbur, just back from the Caribbean trip with President Hoover. Significance of the Indiana company's action lay in that it was the last large importer to enter the limitation program urged by the government through Secretary Lamont.

R. G. Stewart, president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, which is controlled by Standard of Indiana, said the latter company had arranged to curtail its imports from Venezuela into the United States 23 per cent, and its production in Venezuela accordingly, for a period of 60 days, effective April 1.

Will Meet April 9.

Secretary Wilbur said this development in the oil situation offered something concrete to work upon at the April 9 meeting of the federal oil conservation board. At that session all the significant factors entering into the present troubled status of the petroleum industry are to be discussed with leaders of the industry.

Continuance of reduced oil imports, the secretary indicated, apparently will depend upon domestic proration. In other words, if the way is found to put the domestic production upon a basis soundly proportioned to consumption, with curtailed exploitation of the newest oil fields, among them the important East Texas pool, Wilbur and the other government leaders working upon the problem feel confident the importers will continue their voluntary curtailment.

No total estimate of the import cuts is possessed by officials. The figure supplied them indicates Standard of New Jersey will cut from 60,000 to only 45,000 barrels a day; the Gulf company by 25 per cent, and the Shell group will reduce imports of gasoline 50 per cent.

Seeks Injunction.

New York, March 30.—(AP)—Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation announced today that Sinclair Oil and Gas company has applied to the United States District court for the western district of Oklahoma for an injunction restraining the Oklahoma corporation commission and its agents from enforcing orders of the commission relative to production in the Oklahoma City field.

The petition charged that the corporation commission's suspension of its order of March 4 was "arbitrary, capricious, and without due process of law."

A third cut within three weeks in California crude oil prices, aimed at overproduction in that section, was announced today by the Union Oil Company of California, leader in the recent price reductions.

The latest cut brought down prices for average gravities in the principal California fields 30 to 25 cents a barrel, making the total reduction in the last three weeks approximately 95 cents a barrel and reaching the lowest figures in 25 years.

The treasury accepted bids for $100,855,000, while applications were made for $343,857,000. The highest bid was 99.695, equivalent to an interest rate of 1.22 per cent on an annual basis. The lowest bid accepted was 99.621, equivalent to a 1.52 per cent interest rate.

New York, March 30.—The stock market went through another day of chills and fever, but bedside observers thought they could detect signs that the worst of the reaction is over. There was some short covering of an important character here and there and a measure of buying for constructive account in such issues as Alaska Juneau, Woolworth, McKeesport Tin and the like. Moreover, the selling movement has now run unchecked for nearly a week and by the law of averages a technical rally of some sort is about due. Broker's letters tonight stressed this last-named probability for the first time in days.

It looked for a while this afternoon as though the recovery were already getting under way. Many leading issues snapped back 1 to 2 points from their lows of the day and recoveries in the volatile group were even more

THE FAIR STORE EARNS $546,275 IN SLUMP YEAR

An estimated 15 per cent decline in prices last year caused a decline in the dollar value of sales made by The Fair store, although the fact that volume of sales held up well is indicated by the annual report issued last night by President D. F. Kelly.

Total sales were $26,153,956, as against $29,542,584 in the previous year. Losses in the value of merchandise were taken to conform with the downward trend of basic commodities and as a result net profit declined to $546,275, equivalent after preferred dividends to 90 cents a share on 375,000 shares of no par common stock outstanding. Net for the preceding year was $3.75 a share.

Dividends paid on common stock, however, were $675,000, which brought the surplus down to $2,735,916, as compared with $3,076,253 on Feb. 1, 1930. Current assets are listed at $7,299,395 and current liabilities $1,938,392. Inventories are 22 per cent lower than a year ago. Wages have not been reduced, the report says.

GRIGSBY FIRM SETTLES SUIT OVER PATENTS

Will Pay Magnavox Co. Royalty on Speakers.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The long pending patent infringement suit of the Magnavox company of San Francisco against the Grigsby-Grunow company has been settled, it was learned last night. The Grigsby company, it was reported, has agreed to make a substantial down payment and will pay a royalty to the San Francisco company on all dynamic speakers made in the future.

The Grigsby-Grunow company yesterday gave employment to 2,000 additional persons when it reopened its refrigerator plants which have been idle for several months. Production will be pushed as fast as possible and a total of 5,500 persons will be employed in the plant when capacity production is reached, President B. J. Grigsby said in making the announcement.

Shares Hold Firm.

News of the resumption of refrigerator manufacturing activity helped the shares of the company to remain steady on the Chicago exchange yesterday in the face of a general reaction which carried most stocks off from 1 to 2 points.

It is expected that trading in the stock of the Majestic Household Utilities company, which was taken over by Grigsby, will cease within the next month. The period during which stockholders may exchange their holdings for Grigsby stock has been extended to April 24.

It is understood that eventually the name of the consolidated company will be changed to the Majestic corporation, the name under which the company's products are distributed. Action on the proposal, however, is not expected in the near future.

The North American Light and Power company, whose common stock has shown a remarkable steady market performance this year, is planning some additional financing. The firm will issue $10,000,000 in serial 4½ and 5 per cent notes, which will be marketed through a banking group headed by E. H. Rollins & Sons. Proceeds of this issue will be used to pay off bank loans of the company and subsidiaries and for other corporate purposes.

Is Jointly Controlled.

The company is jointly controlled by the Middle West Utilities company and the North American company. These companies have agreed to underwrite sufficient common stock of North American Light and Power to meet the maturities of the notes or to purchase any of the notes not retired.

North American Light common was steady on the Chicago exchange yesterday in contrast with the generally lower prices for most utilities. Insull Utility and Middle West each broke through former resistance levels.

AUSTRALIA WILL PAY INTEREST ON SO. WALES LOAN

SYDNEY, N. S. W., March 30.—(AP)—The commonwealth government today announced that it would meet the interest due in London April 1 on New South Wales bond issues, the interest of which Premier Lang of the state government had announced would not be paid.

Lang, who heads the Labor government of New South Wales, last week announced a default on the interest due in London April 1, but said that the interest due in New York on that date would be paid.

Premier Scullin, who made the commonwealth announcement, said that counsel had advised that the commonwealth was liable for interest payments on state loans. The belief exists here that the commonwealth could sue the state for defaulted interest, and it was understood the commonwealth would take that course.

WILL CONTROL SHORT LINE.

The interstate commerce commission has authorized the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway to acquire control of the Beaver, Meade and Englewood Railroad company, which operates 85 miles of railroad in Oklahoma.

THREE BANKS IN COOK COUNTY ARE ORDERED CLOSED

Two Are in Chicago, One in Oak Park.

The First National Bank of Oak Park, the Austin National bank, and the Columbia State Savings bank, within one mile of each other, were closed simultaneously yesterday.

The Columbia State Savings bank, at 5146 West Chicago avenue, was taken over by State Auditor Oscar Nelson's examiners at the request of the directors "to protect the interests of the depositors," according to a statement issued by the auditor's office. The action was taken "because of a low cash reserve and lack of readily marketable securities with which to meet withdrawals of deposits."

Deposits of $1,394,576.

The bank is capitalized at $300,000, has a surplus of $75,000, undivided profits and reserve of $25,189, and deposits of $1,394,576, according to the statement. Howard F. Sammon is the bank's president and the board is headed by Charles A. Paesch. The auditor announced that further investigation would be required before determining whether a reorganization can be effected.

The Austin National bank at 5635 West Chicago avenue and the First National Bank of Oak Park, 410 North Austin boulevard, were taken over by federal examiners under A. F. Leyburn in accordance with resolutions passed by their respective boards. Mr. Leyburn said that pending an audit of the banks' books nothing could be said of their conditions. A receiver is expected to be appointed for each of them by the controller of the currency.

Condition as of March 25.

The March 25 statement of the Austin National bank showed loans and discounts of $1,818,000, deposits of $2,169,800, cash resources of $202,000, and savings deposits of $1,261,000. M. J. Collins is chairman of the board and Thomas F. Chamberlain is president of the bank.

Mr. Leyburn said he had no statement available of the Oak Park bank, which until last year was headed by Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district. In July, 1929, the bank had deposits of $2,169,000. Crowe was reported to have put up more than $100,000 to save the bank following allegedly unauthorized loans made by William G. Weatherston, former cashier, whose trial on federal charges of embezzelement recently resulted in a disagreement. James T. Bushonville is president of the bank.

The Austin National bank is connected in no way with the Austin State bank, 5645 West Lake street, which, according to Auditor Nelson, is in excellent condition.

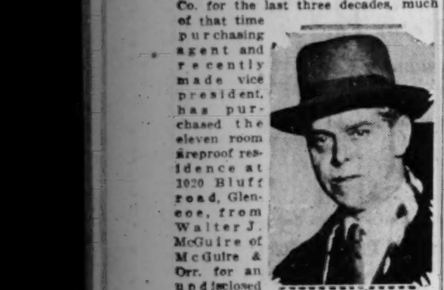
ARMOUR OFFICER BUYS RESIDENCE ON NORTH SHORE

Vice President Reynolds Is Purchaser.

BY AL CHASE.

Fred J. Reynolds, with Armour & Co. for the last three decades, much of that time purchasing agent and recently made vice president, has purchased the eleven room fireproof residence at 1020 Bluff road, Glencoe, from Walter J. McGuire of McGuire & Orr, for an undisclosed consideration, subject to a $25,000 incumbrance. It is understood that the property had been held at $70,000. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds and their three children, who have been living at the Georgian hotel in Evanston, will move into their new home today.



FRED J. REYNOLDS. [Tribune Photo.]

The house just purchased was erected three years ago by Mr. Guire from plans by Architect William T. Braun. It has a steel and concrete frame, with exterior of brick, stone, and stucco, with slate roof and with two car garage attached. It occupied a site 160x180 in the McGuire & Orr Skokie Heights subdivision. Mr. McGuire has moved to 1021 Eastwood road, in the same subdivision. McGuire & Orr were brokers.

Church Buys New Site.

The Winnetka Congregational church yesterday took title to the northeast corner of Pine and Prospect streets, in Winnetka, diagonally across from the present church edifice. It was purchased from the estate of William C. Boyden and is occupied with the old Boyden residence, for many years the home of the late William C. Boyden. The house is being temporarily used for Sunday school purposes.

The property contains approximately 1¼ acres and will be used for the church as the site for its new edifice, which originally was to be erected on the site of the old church. The present edifice will be used as a chapel when the new building, designed by Charles G. Klauder of Philadelphia, is erected. Cassels, Potter & Bentley were attorneys in the site purchase.

Buys 24 Flat Building.

Martin Linz bought the twenty-four apartment building at 2219-35 East 70th street, lot 155x127, from the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, trustee, for an undisclosed price, subject to $55,000. The two residences at 1429 and 1431 East Marquette road were given in part payment. John Lang of the south shore office of McKey & Poague, and Mrs. M. L. Ray of the 63d street office of the same firm, were brokers.

The M. & R. Millinery company has leased from the Foreman State Trust and Savings bank, as trustee, the store at 6353 Cottage Grove avenue for a term of years. Lloyd M. Landeker of Rosenberg & Lurie represented both parties. This is the fourth chain store lease made by these brokers in this building since the first of the year. The others were Walgreen's, Smiley Dresses, and the Claire Shops.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 17,000; sheep, 17,000.

All classes of live stock recovered from last week's break when supplies dropped below normal on yesterday's session. Cattle and hog receipts showed the most decrease, the snowstorm as well as the break in prices late last week curtailing the movement of supplies.

The combined total of all kinds of live stock at 20 leading markets yesterday at 266,000 showed a decrease of 62,000 head or 19 per cent, compared with the previous Monday's total and a decrease of 82,000 head, or 24 per cent, compared with a year ago.

Hog receipts at Chicago at 35,000 were smallest for Monday since last October and were 18,000 below the average Monday total during the last six weeks. About 40 per cent of arrivals were billed direct to large packers from other points, leaving a "starvation" supply on the market for smaller local packers and shippers. Offerings cleared quickly at the 15@25c advance in prices, the top at $8.25 showing 25c gain, while the general average came up 20c at $7.65.

Hog Futures Steady.

Trading in hog futures was slow yesterday, with offers and bids about in line with the close of last week. April and May light weights were offered at $8.50 and bid $8.00, while June offers were at $8.65 and September offers at $9.00. Heavy grades for next September delivery were bid $8.75, but the lowest offer at the close stopped at $9.00. On the "to arrive" market, light weights for today were bid $8.25. Mediums were bid $7.90 for today's delivery, and heavy grades carried bids of $7.35.

Only 9,000 cattle arrived at Chicago yesterday and the trend of the market was reversed after touching the lowest levels in nine years on closing sessions last week. The available supply yesterday was the smallest since August 5, 1929, being 6,600 below the average Monday total for the last six weeks. Uneven price gains were scored, cheaper grades and light weight steers and yearlings making the sharpest recovery. However, buyers were rather indifferent and some of the heaviest cattle moved slowly late in the session in face of the light supply of 6,000 estimated for today. Prime 1,417 lb steers topped the price list at $10.75, while $7.50@9.75 bought most cattle. Cows and heifers were steady to 25c higher. Calves held last week's sharp advance.

Lambs Bring $9.25.

Lamb prices equaled the highest point in ten days on yesterday's strong to slightly higher market. Hundreds of aged wool lambs sold at $8.85@9.00 to packers and at $9.10@9.15 to city butchers and shippers. Prime 92-lb Colorados sold to yard traders at $9.25.

American Telegraph & Cable.

Please give me information regarding American Telegraph and Cable company stock as an investment to hold for a few years.—D. H.

American Telegraph and Cable company has been dissolved. This step was confirmed by the New York Supreme court Jan. 22, 1931. According to an announcement sent to stockholders March 5, 1931, a final liquidating dividend of $14.75 per share would be paid March 17.

This company was incorporated in 1881 and operated submarine cables across the Atlantic ocean. In 1882 its properties were leased to Western Union Telegraph company for fifty years.

In April, 1930, Western Union bought all the property of American Telegraph and Cable for $2,030,000 cash. Objections raised by stockholders owning 2 per cent of the company's stock had been withdrawn, according to a recent announcement.

The company's books were closed permanently and its stock was removed from the New York Stock exchange list March 16, 1931.

Reorganization.

1. What does it mean when a large manufacturing company reorganizes?

2. Do you think it is safe to invest in stock in such a company?

3. Does reorganizing mean that the company is near bankruptcy?

B. W. P.

1. Reorganization may result from any one of a number of causes. Sometimes it means merely that the company is altering its capital setup. This, however, is usually termed recapitalization. Or a company may be reorganized in order to put it on a paying basis after results have demonstrated that it cannot continue profitably under the existing setup, or after it has been unable to meet its obligations at maturity.

2. That would depend entirely upon the conditions affecting the individual case.

3. Not necessarily.

NONINE B. COTTINGHAM, 5235 LEXINGTON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.—"Three years ago I attended a show at the Chicago Theatre. I did not think of the pointed fox fur I had worn until we were in the Canton Tea Gardens. We went back to the theatre and inquired at the ticket office. It had not been turned in. Heartsick, we drove home and pondered over the best thing to do. We decided to put an ad in the Tribune the next morning and let them handle it. I offered a liberal reward. The first call was from the party who found my fur. This was the day the ad appeared in the paper. My many thanks to the Tribune Want Ad Section! I was happy again because my fur was recovered and the party who found it was happy in finding the right owner and receiving the reward."

MRS. E. M. DUNAWAY, 6757 PAXTON AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.—"My daughter wished to dispose of a mohair living room suite, as she and her husband were moving to New York City. She placed a want ad in the Tribune and immediately sold the suite for the price given. In addition, the ad brought many inquiries. In view of her fortunate experience, if I should care to sell furniture, or buy it, I should unquestion[ably] place a want ad in the Tribune. Before this, I had tried to dispose of several pieces of furniture by calling up second hand shops, only to have them decline to look at them, inasmuch as they were only interested in job lots."

E. J. P., CHESTNUT PARK, SAVANNA, ILL.—"A short time ago I decided to buy a good used car. Of course I wanted a bargain. Not being able to buy a car from the local dealers which was within my reach, I decided to look elsewhere. While looking over the want ad columns of the Chicago Tribune, I noticed the advertisement placed by the Fitzpatrick Motor Sales, at 6685 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, Ill. I decided this was the place to buy my car as their list of used cars and prices appealed to me. I went to Chicago the next day and picked the car I wanted from their stock of used cars. The car and the price were exactly as represented in the Tribune. I consider that I got an exceptional bargain with an added saving included."

CARL J. MELIN, 2739 LUNT AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.—"It is really a pleasure to recall a somewhat recent experience relating to a remarkably quick sale of a small furniture and upholstery establishment on the north side of Chicago, in which I was financially concerned. Insufficient funds with which to meet required expansion, and maturing obligations left us facing the problem of selling the business as quickly as possible in order to avoid embarrassment. We decided to call at your offices and insert a six line advertisement in the Chicago Sunday Tribune. I am unable to remember the exact number of replies received from various places in the Middle West, including Chicago, but before the week was finished our business was sold at a profitable cash figure. The splendid transaction resulting from the Tribune ad was far more gratifying than we could reasonably have hoped for, because we actually realized $500.00 more than originally anticipated."

J. M., 2753 W. ADAMS ST., CHICAGO.—"I like to tell about my experience getting a job. For several days I followed up the want ads, but always seemed to get there too late. Finally my wife suggested that I send in a reply to some box number ads. I answered one which read 'Wanted—A man with a horse; must be experienced in handling fine furniture.' I waited three days and finally a man called up and told me to come to see him. I worked for three years at that job and liked it and they thought I was a good worker."

LATE RALLY IS BOON TO GRAIN MARKET PRICES

Corn and Wheat Improve After Reaching Lows.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bearish sentiment dominated the grain trade yesterday and with scattered liquidation by local and commission house longs September wheat, May, July and September corn and oats, and all deliveries of rye dropped to a new low for the crop year, with stop loss orders uncovered on the way down.

There was nothing in the general run of the news to account for the wave of pessism which swept over the grain markets, but apparently local longs had become tired and when they started to liquidate they found support lacking. This was especially true of oats, which broke 1¼@2½c from Saturday's finish, while rye dropped 2@2¾c before the break was checked.

Wheat Rallies Sharply.

Local and commission houses were on the selling side of the deferred wheat futures early, and the September touched 58¾c on the break, the lowest since 1896. The pit element became too aggressive on the short side, however, and when they started to cover they found little for sale, causing a rally of 1¼@1¾c from the inside figures, and the finish was at the top with net gains of ¼c. July being 40¾c, and September, 59¾@59½c.

There was no pressure on old crop deliveries of wheat at any time and the close was ⅛@¼c higher, with March leading, the latter closing at 81¾c, while May was 82¾c, and at the best figures since the middle of January. Short covering was mainly responsible for the upturn. May at the last was ¾c above the figure at which the Stabilization corporation will start to offer its holdings of old hard winter on April 1.

Wheat traders were back in their regular pit yesterday, after having occupied that used for corn for several months during the period when trade in the latter grain exceeded that in wheat. Export demand for North American grain was reported as light, although it was said that cash interests were good buyers at Winnipeg to remove hedges against old sales. Winnipeg acted heavy, however, and closed ¾c lower, with July at 53¼c. Liverpool was off ⅜@⅝d for the day, with July, 62¼c, while Buenos Aires lost ⅛@⅜c.

Corn Hits New Low.

Prospects for a marked increase in the corn acreage this season, with the probability that a large crop will be secured providing weather conditions are favorable, a department of agriculture summary of the situation suggesting a yield of 2,935,000,000 bu against 2,081,000,000 bu harvested in 1930 and scattered liquidations by holders of futures, carried prices off around 1c from Saturday's finish, with the May touching 60¾c on the decline, the lowest since September, 1922. Short covering induced by the strength in wheat brought about a strong rally, with the finish ⅝c lower to ¼c higher. March being 59¾c; May, 61¾@61¾c; July, 63¾@63¾c, and September, 62¾c.

The pronounced weakness in oats had considerable influence on the corn market, as there was little pressure of cash grain, and it was estimated that nearly 75 per cent of the receipts of 258 cars were applied on to arrive contracts. A decrease of 147,000 bu was shown in the visible supply, making the total 20,548,000 bu, against 23,532,000 bu last year.

Rye closed ⅛@2c lower, the latter on March which finished at 35c while May was 37¾c, and July, 39¼c. Trade was not large and the decline was easily attained, the action of wheat being the main influence.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

The late rally in wheat was looked upon by traders as due mainly to short covering and absence of pressure. It was taken by a few close observers as indicating that the market is to run into resistance on all further breaks. The tendency, however, is regarded as downward and nervousness is expected to prevail until after March wheat is entirely out of the way. July wheat is regarded a most uncertain proposition and Winnipeg prices are same as we too high.

Sentiment in corn was more mixed as a result of a decline to a new level with March below 60c and the more deferred deliveries getting close to that line. It would be no surprise to see a reduced movement from the country and better support on all breaks, but the belief exists that should wheat continue to break it may be difficult to get corn prices down much lower.

Traders regarded the failure of the conference at Rome as a foregone conclusion. They believe that other means of reducing the surplus must be adopted as with Russia refusing to cut its acreage and all other large producers expressing similar sentiments, prospects for disposal of the surplus is a most uncertain and difficult problem.

There has been no serious damage to wheat in the southwest from recent freezes as indicated by reports to the Santa Fe railroad. In southern Texas the wheat is about at the jointing point but it was not in the freezing area. Moisture conditions have been improved and the crop is in fair to good condition. The advices received so far were sent on Friday and further inquiries will be made this week to determine the real situation. It is feared that oats have been hurt by the freeze.

POTATOES 12C LOWER

March butter advanced at the opening on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, but turned weak and broke sharply to 25½c at the close, trading in that delivery ending with yesterday's session. April potatoes dropped 12c under heavy selling, sales proving the heaviest so far this month. Egg futures were quiet and unchanged. Sales: Butter, 172 cars; eggs, 49 cars; potatoes, 90 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 20 cars; eggs, 1 car.

TARIFF COMMISSION ORDERS PROBE OF RUSS ASBESTOS IMPORTS

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—An investigation of alleged unfair practices in the importation and sale of Russian asbestos in the United States was ordered today by the tariff commission.

At the same time the labor department announced that Feodor M. Zyavkin, general manager of the Amtorg Trading corporation, must leave the country voluntarily or be subject to deportation. The Amtorg company is the official Russian trade agency.

The tariff commission set a hearing for May 19, at which testimony will be presented. The action resulted from complaints by the Bear Canyon Asbestos company of Amber, Pa., and the Regal Asbestos Mines, Inc., of New York City, which own asbestos mines in Arizona. They said they had been compelled to close some of their mines.

The complaints charged among other things that methods used in the sales of Russian asbestos had been such that buyers had been induced to break their contracts. The Amtorg corporation and Asbestos, Ltd., Inc., of Millington, N. J., were named in the complaints.

The labor department said Zyavkin's permit as a visitor, which was issued in January, 1930, and extended last July, had expired and renewal had been refused.

"Zyavkin," Secretary Doak said, "is being treated as any other alien who overstays the time limit set in his permit to enter the country."
